EGG PRICE HIKED

The B.C. Egg Marketing Board has increased the price of eggs paid producers for the third time in less than four months.

Ed Morgan, secretary-manager of the board, attributed the increase to higher costs of feed and production.

Producers now will receive 61 cents a dozen for Grade A large eggs, 58 cents for medium and 42 cents for small.

Gauvin Stays On To Probe

Times News Services

SAIGON—Canada's Michel Gauvin, scheduled to leave the truce commission today, instead called on the Viet Cong delegation at Tan Son Nhut air base to request assistance in tracking down the two missing Canadian officers.

Gauvin, head of the Canadian delegation to the truce commission, was bound for Ottawa to report on Canada's role in the International Commission of Control and Supervision, before returning to his old post as ambassador to Greece.

He was accompanied by Hungarian Ambassador Ferenc Esztergalyos at the meeting with Maj.-Gen Hoang Anh Tuan, chief Viet Cong delegate in Saigon.

A Viet Cong statement issued shortly afterwards pointed out that the missing Canadians, Capts. Ian Patten of Toronto and Fletcher Thomson of Ottawa, were not on any mission entrusted to them by the ICCS.

The Viet Cong stopped short of acknowledging that the two Canadian officers, missing since last Thursday northeast of Saigon, were being detained by Viet Cong troops.

But Canadian and South Vietnamese authorities have insisted that the two officers are being detained by Viet Cong troops near Xuan Loc, 45 miles northeast of Saigon.

The Canadians insist the two officers were on a mission showing the ICCS flag.

No Sign Of Drugs

The search of the suspected drug - smuggling ship the Marysville finished at 11:30 this morning and "we have drawn a blank," RCMP Supt. Jim Nelson said.

"We still have confidence that a sizeable cache is to be found in the Quatsino area and with a little bit of luck and much hard work we think we'll find it," Nelson said.

A squad of 30 men is raking the rugged coastline at Quatsino Sound near Winter Harbor "hoping something will come up.

"We know there is a large cache of drugs somewhere, but it's rugged, tough country up there and the search will take some time," Nelson said.

Navy experts familiar with the design of the 1944 model 640-ton all-steel vessel, moored at Esquimalt, have checked for false bulkheads or unusual modifications.

RCMP mechanics made a thorough search of the vessel's big engine rooms which house two 2,400 bhp engines.

Navy frogmen went beneath the ship to check the 184-foot hull for false compartments, checking against a diagram of the vessel's structure found on board.

There was no sign of the $1 million stash, believed to be as bulky as about three bales of hay.

What officers did find was evidence of the lifestyle of the vessel's seven-man and six-woman crew, which in navy days before the ship was sold as surplus numbered 107 hands.

Where speakers had barked metallic orders from the bridge, stereophonic music systems had been wired up.

U.S. Dollar Nose-Dives Lower Still

Times News Services

The U.S. dollar nose-dived to a record low in Germany today at 2.3540 marks.

Trading was "extremely hectic," one banker said.

In Zurich the dollar opened at an all-time low of 2.7875 Swiss francs. It closed Tuesday at 2.8275 francs.

New lows for the U.S. currency were also posted in Amsterdam, Brussels, Stockholm and Copenhagen.

"It's difficult to tell what will happen to the dollar now," said one dealer in Paris.

"I think it depends upon the (German) mark. If the mark continues to go up, the dollar will continue to go down."

In Austria the dollar plunged again in value today to a new low of 17.17 schillings to the dollar compared with the previous bottom rate of 17.65 recorded on Tuesday.

Stock markets around the world were generally depressed today. All U.S. markets were closed because of the Indepencence Day holiday.

The price of gold rose, as it usually does when the dollar is under pressure.

The metal was up $1.38 in Zurich at $123 an ounce and up $1.75 in London at $124.

New U.S. restrictions on exports of scrap metal and soybeans appeared to be having a negative effect.

Market sources also believe the value of the dollar is being depressed by the so-called Eurodollar overhang, now totalling about $80 billion.

This is money that companies and individuals have deposited in Europe and switched from currency to currency as the tide of the market has shifted.

Dealers see no possibility of this fund moving back into dollars for deposit in the United States.

"It's almost impossible to sell any dollars," said one banker in Frankfurt.

"Conditions are very nervous," a London dealer for Swiss Bank added of the general atmosphere in European money markets.

"The dollar is losing ground almost everywhere."

Dealers in Scandinavia reported heavy dollar selling in early trading. The dollar sank to 3.95 kronor in Stockholm and to 5.57 Danish kroner in Copenhagen.

"Dollar holders are moving away from the dollar," said a dealer at Skandinaviska Enskilda Banken, the biggest foreign exchange bank in Scandinavia. "The market is extremely unstable, but the volume of trade is big."

Bankers in Paris said there was practically no trading there.

The dollar dropped more than three pfennigs on the Frankfurt market, opening at a record low of 2.3580 marks and then falling within 40 minutes to 2.3475. It had closed Tuesday at 2.3850.

The U.S. currency lost almost three per cent of its value overnight in Zurich, dropping to 2.79 Swiss francs.

The rate dropped six centimes in Paris to 4.0425 commercial French francs, but there was no business.

The pound rose only fractionally in London, however, to $2.5820; it closed at $2.5797 Tuesday.

MORTGAGE RATES UP

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto-Dominion Bank began charging 9.75 per cent on both National Housing Act and conventional mortgages Tuesday as the cost of housing mortgages from chartered banks appeared heading another notch higher.

Spokesmen for the other four major banks — Royal Bank, Bank of Nova Scotia, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and Bank of Montreal — said their rates are still at the 9.5 per cent level established at the end of May.

A move to 9.75 per cent will be the third increase since early April when increase to 9.25 per cent occurred.

Ottawa Warns On Gas Export

Federal Energy Minister Donald Macdonald today warned the provincial government that if B.C. attempts to interfere with contracts for export of natural gas, it will be offending federal jurisdiction and should be prepared for a court battle.

Macdonald, in Victoria to discuss the federal government's recently-announced national energy policy with several B.C. officials, referred to hearings under way in Vancouver held by the B.C. Energy Commission.

The commissionn which was established during the last legislative session, is investigating all aspects of the B.C. natural gas industry and, specifically, a recent contract between Westcoast Transmission Limited and a U.S. customer calling for the export of large amounts of natural gas to that country.

Macdonald said the federal government has no objection to the B.C. Energy Commission studying and advising the provincial government on the details of the Westcoast deal.

But, he said, "if the board in due course attempted to deal with export contracts, we would see a conflict with the jurisdiction of the National Energy Board."

"If they would attempt to in any way interfere with the Westcoast contract itself, we would say that offends the federal jurisdiction," Macdonald said. "We would be prepared to fight it in court but we think our jurisdiction is clear here."

Haldeman Aides Set to Tell All

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — Two former White House officials are reported ready to plead guilty in the Watergate cover-up and implicate H. R. Haldeman, the resigned White House chief of staff.

Gordon Strachan and Herbert Porter, both Haldeman proteges, have agreed to cooperate with the special Watergate prosecutor, Archibald Cox, according to the New York Daily News.

Strachan's planned plea was not reported.

Strachan sent word through his lawyers June 14 that once he received limited immunity from the Senate Watergate committee he would be willing to testify that Haldeman knew of the Watergate cover-up "from the beginning," the paper adds.

Strachan, who reported to Haldeman at the White House, has been granted the limited form of immunity that prevents prosecution on grounds of his own testimony.

Meanwhile, in San Clemente, Calif., the Western White House blamed a climate of suspicion generated by the Watergate affair for controversy over the property tax bill on President Nixon's estate there.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler's comments came in response to a report in a Santa Ana, Calif., newspaper that the president's property tax bill was at least $25,000, and perhaps as much as $55,000, too low over the past three years.

The property tax "is a matter totally up to the tax assessor. There is nothing for me to say. The tax assessor should assess," Ziegler said.

Ziegler also said Tuesday that Nixon is "appalled by the constant malicious efforts to suggest there was wrongdo-

Speed Record Set

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — A 100-ton test ship moving at 89 miles an hour has broken the world's speed record for large, waterborne vessels, Aerojet Co. officials say. Spokesmen said the four-engine, waterjet-propelled craft turned in the 76-knot performance Monday in a regular test run in East Passage near here.

Alice Skims Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Alice, the season's first hurricane, brushed past Bermuda early today, did no major damage and dumped at least two inches of rain that ended a three-month drought in the British island colony.

Tanker Collides

LES ESCOUMINS, Que. (CP) — At least one man was injured today in a collision involving an oil tanker and a cargo vessel in the fog-shrouded St. Lawrence River about two miles down-river from here. The injured man, a crew-member on the oil tanker St. Spyridon, was removed from the ship by a pilot boat and taken to hospita. Both his legs were severed.

'Unknown' Hijack

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — An Argentine airplane on an internal flight was hijacked today by unknown persons, the Aerolineas Argentinas company said. The Boeing 737 jet had just taken off at 12:55 p.m. from Buenos Aires on a flight to Jujuy, 1,000 miles northwest.

Cherry Convoy To Defy Law

KELOWNA (CP) — A fruit growers association is organizing a fruit caravan to travel from here to Vancouver to challenge the legality of the B.C. Food Marketing Act.

The 40-vehicle convoy, expected to leave Oliver or Keremeos Saturday with 11 tons of cherries, is being organized by the United Fruit Growers (UFG).

"We aim to bring economic reality to the Okanagan," UFG president Hans Rhenisch said. His group is comprised of 125 growers who have broken away from the B.C. Fruit Growers Association (BCFGA).

"We want to return the cost of production to the producer," Rhenisch added. The only way to do this is to "circumvent wholesalers and retailers" dealing through the marketing arm of the BCFGA.

To get the UFG's point across, said Rhenisch, the caravan will be overloaded in direct contravention of the Food Marketing Act, which stipulates that each vehicle must not carry more than 400 pounds of produce.

He said participants are being advised to "overload" their vehicles by between 100 and 300 pounds. "We are prepared to go to court. We challenge the legislation as being unconstitutional and against the bill of rights."

MPs Wipe Out Work on Ridings

Times News Services

OTTAWA — Months of work by the B.C. Electoral Boundaries Commission proposing three more Commons seats for the province was all but wiped out Tuesday by Parliament.

By all-party agreement, the Commons gave formal first reading to a bill that would suspend the almost-completed work of adjusting electoral boundaries in accordance with the constitution and the 1971 population census.

Had the changes proposed in the recently-released B.C. report taken effect, the province would have gained three seats for a total of 26. However, the new bill which is expected to be passed this month, in effect repudiates the existing formula for redistribution of Commons representation every 10 years.

The proposed legislation gives MPs about 18 months to come up with a new formula and amendment of the constitutional British North America Act. Failing that, the current process of redistribution would go ahead as planned.

SHIPS GO BEGGING

Cutbacks in defence spending have left four of Canada's 23 destroyers in mothballs at a time when the navy has been given increased responsibility in coastal surveillance and guarding the country's maritime and fishing interests. Only last weekend, an Esquimalt-based naval vessel was used in apprehending 20 persons on two other vessels suspected of smuggling.

The idle destroyers, including the St. Croix tied up at Esquimalt, may have to be sold or scrapped, sparking repeated attacks on the federal government from opposition defence critics. See page 36.

FRENCH CALL BACK NUCLEAR TEST SHIPS

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — French navy ships that left Papeete harbor several weeks ago to participate in the nuclear test program have returned, and a local radio station speculated that the French government has postponed the test explosions until mid-July.

The station, known locally as Coconut Radio, said the ships will not sail again for the test site on Mururoa Atoll before Friday. Local observers said this would make the first explosion unlikely before the middle of July.

The radio station speculated that the tests were delayed by difficulties in preparing the test site and two tropical storms last month.

'FREE US FROM YOKE' PLEA TO QUEEN

Times News Services

The chief, president of the federation of Saskatchewan Indians, was scheduled to present the Queen with a peace pipe at a ceremony marking the centennial of the RCMP.

He said Indians continue to feel strongly loyal to the Crown.

"But we are saddened to say that over the years, some of your servants have not kept your part of the agreement.

"At times, attempts were made to devastate our treaties, to destroy them."

Chief Ahenakew said the threat to Indian treaties and "broken promises" bewilder, confuse and frighten Indians and cause many of their problems.

"We were once a mighty people, free of spirit, and independent.

"It is our dream that once again we will be free and on equal grounds with our white neighbors. But we must be allowed to develop in our own way so that we can be contributing citizens of this great land.

"Your servants must learn this, and understand this," he said, referring to the government.

All went as planned, but the chief found himself without a microphone and his words could not be heard.

This caused a certain amount of consternation for officials who helped stage the event. But an RCMP corporal standing in the crowd was overheard to say "now that was a master stroke."

Despite the absence of a microphone, both the Queen and RCMP Commissioner W. L. Higgit heard the chief's plea and acknow-

Sharp Stresses Human Contacts

HELSINKI (UPI) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp today offered the 35-nation security conference the most detailed proposals so far for eliminating obstacles to east-west co-opeation.

Sharp presented proposals "on human contacts," including reunification of families split by the cold war, easier east-west marriages, an end to forbidden zones where foreigners cannot travel and especially more freedom of emigration—an apparent reference to Soviet Jews barred from leaving Russia.

In a draft, on "progressively reducing and eventually eliminating man-made obstacles of an aribitrary nature to contacts between people and to the solution of humanitarian problems." Sharp recommendel:

—"Liberalization of . . . exit of individuals and their families from participating states." This was aimed at the problems of Jews and other Soviet citizens who often are forobdden visas to emigrate or travel abroad.

—"Prompt granting of permission for families to reunite across national boundaries, for members of families to contact and meet each other regularly, and for nationals of different states to marry."

—"Elimination of zones closed to travel by foreigners," except for areas sealed off because of military security.

—The right of access to foreign embassies.

—A Soviet proposal, the first to be presented to the security conference which opened Tuesday offered a sweeping blueprint for peace and security.

Save Historic House, Oak Bay Asks Owner

Oak Bay council's lands and building committee acted today to halt the immediate demolition of a house at 1176 Beach Drive built by famous architect, Samuel Maclure.

The building's owner, Gordon Lovitt, already has a demolition permit, but the municipality will ask him not to go ahead until the house is examined.

The situation was brought before the committee by the Hallmark Society, a new group which works to preserve historic buildings.

"I'm very alarmed about the fact that it's ordered for demolition," said society member Garth Mayhew.

The house is between two apartment buildings and gives a little warmth to the area, said Mayhew.

"Oak Bay can claim to have some of the finest architecture in Canada because of Maclure," said Carolyn Smyly, another society member. "He was a genius, there's no two ways about it."

Maclure houses will last 300 to 500 years if properly looked after, she said.

The committee agreed that the municipal building inspector and an architect should look at the house to determine its condition and see if it's possible to save it.

A motion by Ald. Brian Smith to recommend that council establish a Heritage Advisory Committee was passed.

Such a committee, strongly endorsed by the Hallmark Society, would look at buildings in Oak Bay of historic interest and ways to save them from demolition or alteration.

The Hallmark Society suggested that areas such as the 900 block of Foul Bay be designated as historic areas to protect the homes there.

In other business, the zoning committee:

—Refused a request to change a duplex at 407 Newport into a condominium so that half the duplex could be sold. Approval of one such condominium might start an avalance of requests, said Smith.

—Recommended that council not allow the use of gas stations as self-service stations in Oak Bay.

"We really don't want them because they generate too much traffic, let's be honest," said Ald. Shirley Dowell.

—Recommended that beach fires on Willows Beach be limited to the area north of Estevan, and that a student be hired to patrol the area each evening in the summer to make sure fires are put out.

Airline Staff Seeks Ottawa Mediation

Talks between the government-controlled airline and the national union, representing 2,600 flight directors, pursers and stewardesses, broke off Friday, CAFAA business manager R. R. Smeal said Tuesday. The workers have been without a contract since May 31.

"It's very complicated, but basically the dispute is over working conditions," said Mr. Smeal.

About 20 per cent of CAFFAA's members are juniors, which Air Canada puts on 24-hour standby, usually for five days at a time, Smeal said.

Union members are paid for each hour they are flying, he said. The other 80 per cent of the membership usually work steady shifts or "blocks."

Smeal said the union believes the company should pay its juniors for their standby time.

"We want credit for all those hours the reserves standby waiting for the company to phone them at home," he said. "If they're not by the telephone at home the company can fire them."

A second problem is bilingualism, he said.

"The outstanding issue here is payment for people who can speak more than one language," he said.

"The company is required by law to have a person on each flight who can speak both official languages."

However, said Smeal, union members don't get extra pay if they can speak both French and English, only if they can speak another language besides the two.

He said the issues of working conditions and language premiums have so bogged down the negotiations, no other terms of the new contract have been approached.

"We haven't even got down to the length of time for the new contract," he said.

Chile Curfew Lifted

SANTIAGO (UPI) — The government today lifted a curfew in Santiago province and ended nationwide emergency zones decreed after last Friday's aborted military revolt.

Daniel Vergara, undersecretary of interior, said the government was acting because "the causes which forced imposition of the measures have disappeared."

Troops arrested almost 2,000 persons for violation of the capital's 11 p.m. to 6:30 a.m. curfew. The emergency zone decrees placed the armed forces in charge of law enforcement in the nation's 25 provinces.

Allende whose 15-man cabinet resigned Tuesday to give him a free hand in forming a new government, said he would name the new cabinet later today.

Indian Plea to Queen

The chief's speech was reminiscent of an incident during a 1970 royal tour through Manitoba where Chief David Courchene made an impromptu plea for improvements for Indians.

Federal officials on the tour in 1970 were embarrassed and the Queen edited her prepared text to take out the word "kind" from the sentence "thank you for your kind words."

When the Queen comes to Calgary Thursday, she'll also meet some Canadians who consider their loyalty to the crown easier to identify with — and live with — than their loyalty to Canada.

"Until the government recognizes the treaties as sacred promises we will regard ourselves as Canadians — but our first loyalty will be to the Queen," Roy Littlechief of the Indian Education Centre in Calgary says.

"We prefer the union jack to the maple leaf," he added.

"It is the flag under which our treaties were signed and in many cases we are still fighting for the rights given to us at that time."

magazines, and the air hung heavy with the smell of unlaundered clothes and linen.

Toilets appeared to have plugged up, and a large crew toilet was devoted to 13 parrots and three monkeys.

Expensive movie-making equipment lay strewn about one bunkroom, along with films, which police officers said they would not describe.

A recreation room housed a stereo tape deck with about 100 tapes, a battered chesterfield and armchair, a broken string of fairy lights and posters of Mick Jagger and Baba Ram Dass were stuck on the walls.

Plenty of evidence of the crew, but none of the hashish.

Twenty people on two ships were arrested in connection with the raid Saturday and are scheduled to appear in Victoria provincial court Friday morning.

Among them was Alexander Drenzy, 38, of San Francisco who is listed as the owner of the Marysville.

Drenzy was the maker of two well-known movies: Pornography in Denmark, also titled Censorhsip in Denmark, and A History of the Blue Movie, both mentioned in the U.S. commission on obscenity and pornography report issued in 1970.

Nelson said the coastline search will continue Thursinvestigators, and "if by that time the cache is still not found," a meeting will be scheduled Thursday evening to "take another look at" the situation.

Nelson said he is "still confident" that the cache will be found.

Asked if he thought it would have been dropped overboard before the arrests, he said "personally, I don't think so."

"It might have been the case if we had been right on them at the time of the meet. Then they might have thrown it overboard.

"But it was the dark of night, we were a few hours behind the meet and they had no reason to throw it over."

A seven-man crew aboard a Canadian fishboat, the Gondola were arrested Saturday as well as the America crew of the Marysville after a rendezvous between the two vessels early Saturday.

Probe Bogs Down

The results of a Ministry of Transport investigation into a plane crash June 20 on a street in Sidney may not be known for two months.

Four persons were killed in the mishap.

An MOT spokesman said Tuesday the busy schedule of the accident investigation section is the reason for the delay in the report.

Killed in the crash of the single-engined Cessna 170 were: George Robert Anderson, 51; his wife, Anne, 47; Elmer Sendrup, 48; and his wife, Dorothy, 48. All were from Burnaby.

The plane crashed near the corner of Oakville and Eighth Streets about 9:35 p.m. shortly after taking off from Victoria International Airport.

"Statements that suggest use of campaign funds or any impropriety are malicious, ill-founded, scurrilous in nature and are flatly unfounded and untrue," he said.

"It is unjust and unfair, and not to my mind relative to our way of life in this country, for this type of smear charge to appear against the president of the United States," he added.

Ziegler said Nixon registered "disbelief" when he read a newspaper report Tuesday reporting that Cox was inquiring into possible improprieties in the purchase of the Western White House and the Florida White House at Key Biscayne.

Cox said there was "no basis whatsoever" for the reports.

In a related development, assitant Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia says Nixon should replace Ziegler and answer all questions about the Watergate bugging at a full scale news conference.

In a television interview, Byrd said that because of some of Ziegler's statements on Watergate, which were later retracted, "the U.S. people today cannot view the statements by Ziegler as being necessarily the truth."

Heidelberg

Heidelberg begins with Canada's pure spring water to give it a naturally refreshing taste . . . a bright, satisfying taste you'll find in no other beer.

And the refreshing taste of Heidelberg is so easy to enjoy, beer after beer.

Power Outage Slams Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — Most of Quebec province was blacked out Tuesday evening by a power failure, caused by lightning, that halted subway and railway trains, snarled road traffic and cut off air conditioning.

No deaths or injuries were reported.

Thousands tried to get home on the jammed highways, but other commuters headed for downtown bars.

Hydro Quebec officials said the blackout was probably caused by lightning which struck and broke a high voltage transmission line near Quebec City at 5:26 p.m. Power was restored an hour later in Montreal and by 8:30 in the rest of the province.

Hydro Quebec said last year equipment was being installed to prevent similar widespread power cuts as a result of one break.

The computerized system should be in operation by 1976, officials said.

Effect of Mill Effluent Trivial, Expert Says

There would be only "trivial" changes in the marine life of Neuroutsos Inlet if the pulp mill at Port Alice was to disappear, the Pollution Control Board was told today.

Dr. Thomas English, an oceanographer at the University of Washington, also said he thinks there is a "fundamental misunderstanding" of the threat from mill effluent using an oxygen in the water as wastes break down.

Mill wastes don't produuce a cumulative effect on the waters'. oxygen supply, he said.

He added that he failed to see any link between the arbitrary oxygen levels demanded by the Pollution Control Branch and needs of the inlet's eco-system.

English was testifying at the Law Courts in the fourth day of an appeal launched by Rayonier over pollution control standards set for the company's sulphite mill at Port Alice.

Three months ago the Pollution Control Branch ordered the mill to take immediate steps ensuring a minimum 60 per cent dissolved oxygen content in Neruotsos Inet, where mill effluent is discharged.

Rayonier is also appealing some of the long-range limitations ordered for its mill effluent.

At the opening of today's hearing, board chairman Valter Raudsepp said the three-man board is concerned about the duration of the appeal hearing.

He asked that Rayonier reduce the volume of testimony relating to economics and zero in on information relating to environmental quality.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A dissident rightist South Yemeni writer and former government official was found dead in his hotel room Tuesday, police reported. Mohammed Ali Shoeibi, 36, apparently died of bullet wounds in the head, police said.

GOV.-GEN. CHARLES? NEVER

OTTAWA (CP) — Reports that Prince Charles could succeed Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener as governor-general were discounted in official circles here today.

One report said some journalists claim they have been sounded out for opinions on what Canada would think of Prince Charles as the next governor-general.

A spokesman in the prime minister's office said: "I don't think we could possibly comment on speculation like that."

PLATEAU BID REJECTED

WILLIAMS LAKE (CP) — Premier Dave Barrett has rejected a request by Synco Holdings Ltd. for another chance to buy Plateau Mills Ltd. of Vanderhoof.

Barrett, here during the weekend, said the provincial government has closed its deal to buy the sawmill for $7.5 million. "Business is business and the deal is over," he said.

Synco president Gerald Phillips sent a telegram to the premier last Friday, asking for a 60-day pause to allow Synco to complete its proposed purchase of the company for $10 million.

"We bought the mill after intensive negotiations," the premier said. "Responsible people on both sides openly negotiated. That's business, I understand that's what free enterprise is all about."

Spurn Pact —Union

Members of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada (PPWC) will be urged to reject a new contract offer and the industry's chief negotiator said today the offer is its "absolute, final position."

The offer includes wage raises of 8.5 per cent this year and 8.5 per cent next year plus an additional increase for mechanics, a dental plan and long-term disability protection. Sources have valued the package at 23 per cent.

The same offer has been made to the United Paperworkers International Union (UPIU) which is urging acceptance by its members.

Stan Shewaga of Nanaimo, chairman of the PPWC negotiation committee, said the 4,500 members at eight mills will vote July 16, 17 and 18.

He accused UPIU of selling its members out by recommending acceptance of a contract he called "bloody inferior." His union couldn't afford to accept the offer because of projections of a 10 per cent increase in the cost of living next year, he added.

Pat O'Neal, regional vice-president of UPIU, which has 7,200 members at 11 mills including all newsprint production, said the PPWC vote is being held "long after" his union's voting is completed July 10. "His position is so transpanently phoney it won't mislead anyone," O'Neal said of Shewaga. He added that if Shewaga thinks the contract offer is so bad, his union could vote right away on it and then try to negotiate a better settlement.

Don Lanskail, president of Pulp and Paper Industrial Relations Bureau, the bargaining agency for the industry, said today "we told both of the unions we bargain with that we have made our final offer, and I mean final. We are at a point beyond which the manufacturers cannot and will not go."

Lanskail said the division between the two unions is further evidence of "bitter feuding" which sees both employees and the industry "used as pawns in an inter-union struggle for power."

He said that one of the unions, in 1970, went on strike for nine weeks "in a futile attempt to upstage its rival. Apparently little has been learned from that costly experience."

Lanskail didn't name the union, but it was the PPWC.

He said the offer to both unions will cost $50 million over two years and will provide B.C. pulp and paper workers with higher wages than those in Eastern Canada and the United States. It was, he said, the best settlement offer ever made in the industry.

Land Act Sections In Force

Key sections of the controversial Land Commission Act are in effect today, after being formally approved Tuesday by Lieutenant-Governor Walter Owen.

An order-in-council passed last week by the cabinet stipulates that six sections of the legislation, approved at the last session of the legislature, were to come into effect when approved by Owen.

The sections deal with the designation of land for agricultural purposes only, restricting the use of land for residential and commercial purposes if the commission deems the land necessary for agricultural production.

Socks Stolen

NUORO, Italy (AP) — Vicenzo Esu, 49, was sentenced Tuesday to eight months in jail by a Sardinian court on charges of theft. He took a pair of wornout socks from a locker in the dressing room of the Nuoro soccer stadium, police said.

TAYLOR SPLITS WITH BURTON

NEW YORK (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor, the raven-haired actress whose four previous marriages ended in divorce or death, Tuesday said she has separated from Richard Burton, her spouse of nine years.

"Maybe we have loved each other too much," she said, "not that I ever believed such a thing was possible, but we have been in each other's pockets constantly, never being apart except for matters of life and death, and I believe it has caused a temporary breakdown of communication."

Word of the rift came in a two-page note that Miss Taylor, 41, wrote on Regency Hotel stationery in spindly block letters. Her agent distributed it to reporters.

There was no comment from Burton, who is staying with the couple's lawyer at a beach house in Quogue, N.Y.

A Cold Look at Hard Facts

The recently released two-volume energy report is long on facts and short on conclusions. In tabling the data in the House of Commons Energy Minister Donald Macdonald was careful to say the document does not purport to set policy. But it is a bit much to propose a government-owned oil company and then present arguments for and against the establishment of such an enterprise.

Still, the report contains facts which should accelerate the development of a comprehensive energy policy. Canadians use more energy on a per capita basis — the equivalent of 55 barrels of oil per man, woman and child — than any other nation except the United States.

In the year 2,000 our primary energy requirement is likely to be more than four times that of today. But our oil and gas potential — predicated on tar sands, offshore and Arctic development — could supply Canadian domestic requirements throughout the next century, although at a much higher cost. On just how much higher the report is not specific. However, it admits that all energy commodities are expected to increase dramatically in cost, doubling or tripling by 1990.

In other words, we know the oil and gas is there, but we have to find it and then see if we can afford to pipe it south. A Mackenzie gas and oil pipeline would require a $60-billion investment, according to the report.

Knowing all these facts we exported more than one million barrels of petroleum products per day to the United States in 1972. We also imported an almost balancing 900,000 barrels daily to supply Eastern Canada. And as the report makes clear," ... the appropriate or desired rate of development cannot be determined by considerations related to energy policy alone."

Despite the qualified statements of the document the Canadian path seems clear. The government should ensure an adequate, continuing supply of petroleum and other energy products for the domestic market. If no oil is found off the Atlantic coast, a pipeline east of the Ottawa Valley should be built. Canada cannot depend on foreign imports in a dwindling world market with skyrocketing prices.

The report also suggests a national petroleum company "by which the government could seek to obtain better knowledge ... of the petroleum industries, thereby providing legislators with more valid law-making insights." With 91 per cent of Canada's petroleum industry in foreign hands and only 15 per cent of federal and provincial exploration permits in Canadian hands, more government control is necessary.

By 1991, some sources say, gasoline may be $1.50 a gallon. If the allocation of this precious resource is left to a free market economy the highest bidder will get the gas. Some government control should be exercised to ensure supplies for public transportation, such as airlines, and for community needs.

The bare facts are incontestable. The government should act on this report quickly or Canadians may find themselves out in the cold.

Taking Care of It for Us

B.C. Hydro's announcement that a special fund of $10 million will be appropriated out of profits — to grow eventually to $20 million — in order to "minimize and delay" rate increases sounds like another way of saying that Hydro customers were charged $10 million too much in the past year.

The power concern is charging more than it needs to charge at present in order to postpone rate increases at some time in the future. One of the reasons given for possible rate increases is the need to do some clean-up work on the hydro installations of the previous government — the Mica reservoir, Williston Lake and others — where lack of proper preparation has created a chaos of standing and fallen timber and debris.

But such necessary clean-up operations should not be dependent on profit windfalls or plan-of-the-moment impulses. They should be a programmed part of the whole Hydro operation and carried out on a budgeted annual plan, just as any anti-pollution measures should be an integral part of a corporation's expenditure program.

The government may gain some commendation for its announced intention of postponing or preventing possible future rate increases. But it still boils down to the fact that Hydro took $10 million more from the public than it needed last year and has the use of this money without paying interest on it. Mr. Bennett, the financial wizard, couldn't have done better.

Looking Over the Hopefuls

WASHINGTON — The Watergate testimony of John Dean and other important witnesses to follow could settle the next Republican Presidential nomination three years ahead of time. If the result should be the resignation or removal of President Nixon, Vice President Agnew would succeed him and become the 1976 nominee almost automatically.

But that is unlikely, despite Dean's remarkable testimony, for three good reasons — the first of which is the question whether charges serious enough to justify such a result can be documented by Dean or any of the witnesses. And in the absence of truly overwhelming and undeniable Presidential culpability, the majority Democrats in Congress clearly don't want (a) the political onus of having ousted a landslide winner of the other party, and (b) Agnew in the White House as an incumbent President in 1976.

Rousing Contest

The chances still are, therefore, that in the shadow of the Watergate scandal there will be a rousing contest for the Republican nomination in a year in which there will be no incumbent. Precisely because of that scandal, speculation has started earlier than it otherwise would have, and inevitably talk is being heard about the Republican star of the Watergate hearings, Howard Baker of Tennessee.

No wonder. Baker is a middle-road, border-state Republican, young and attractive, who is in the process of making for himself the kind of national reputation, via televised hearings, that catapulted another Tennessean, Estes Kefauver, into presidential politics two decades ago. Ultimately, however, Estes Kefauver didn't quite make it, as Howard Baker himself is well aware.

The talk may persist, nevertheless, since Watergate has so clouded the Republican picture. Agnew, once the party's prohibitive favorite for 1976, is the closest to the scandal of any contender, although so far personally untouched. As the Administration's No. 2 man, however, it is hard for him either to avoid the general taint or to attack the Watergate abuses with the vigor and credibility voters are likely to want. (Although some Republicans who know him well believe Agnew may yet become disgusted enough at Watergate to dissociate himself from the Administration; but that would only bring him another set of political problems.)

As for John B. Connally, his second tour in the Nixon Administration has seemed an unhappy one and has not enhanced the old picture of him as Nixon's strong right arm. In any case, Watergate has dissipated the value of Connally's best asset — Nixon's favor — and has not removed his two continuing liabilities. One is that he is an interloper in a party that tends to be clubbish; the other is that the country still tends to see him as an L.B.J.-style wheeler-dealer, bathed in oil and dried with money.

JOHN CONNALLY

before taking, in 1976 and at age 67, his fourth shot at the Presidency. To many Republicans, he will always be the Eastern internationalist liberal who opposed Barry Goldwater in 1964; but many others surely must have noted what New York connoisseurs consider his steady rightward drift since 1968, climaxed by this year's hard-line anti-drug program. He is, by all odds, the most senior political figure available for 1976, in both foreign and domestic affairs, and he won't hurt for money.

"I believe Nelson already has a few men in the field," a Republican said the other day, in bemusement and some admiration.

Across the continent, Ronald Reagan of California, who will be 66 in 1976, and who was once the conservatives' white hope, has produced an attractive-sounding tax-limitation plan that is being viewed favorably in the conservative press. He obviously hopes to turn this scheme into a Presidential platform. Still a surefire TV performer and, like Rockefeller untouched by Watergate, Reagan is another major contender.

Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois is the most liberal entrant in this large field, and on the Republican form sheet ought therefore to be disqualified from the start. Enough backfire from Watergate and against the Administration might make his isolated position an asset — but still, a liberal at a Republican convention most often resembles a scullery maid at a meeting of the D.A.R.

Obviously, therefore, if he can continue to build a "Mr. Clean" reputation in the Watergate hearings, Howard Baker could be just the young and appealing new face to whom Republicans might turn in 1976, if the five leading candidates deadlock the convention. (Dean pictured him as a Republican so neutral the White House had not known whether to consider him friend or foe on the Ervin committee.)

Deadlocked Convention

The trouble with that is that the "deadlocked convention" is in modern terms a chimera pursued by all sorts of Democratic and Republican hopefuls who never really had a chance. Hubert Humphrey in 1972, Ronald Reagan in 1968, Richard Nixon in 1964, Stuart Symington in 1960 — the list is too long and piteous to complete.

The truth is that Presidential nominations are won, nowadays, by delegates garnered in local and state conventions, through primary victories, by long political cultivation and astute political organization, and by public reputation — and almost never in smoke-filled rooms at convention time. Only once in the past quarter-century has a convention of either party required more than one ballot, with the pre-convention leader always the winner.

In that light, Howard Baker is a dark horse indeed. The most interesting thing about his new political standing is that he would be an almost ideal vice-presidential running mate for any of the five major contenders (save perhaps Agnew, another border-state Republican). And the vice-presidency, these days, often leads on to fortune.

"... Dad ... I thought I'd tell you first ... I'm not far-out any more ..."

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Subliminal

I am indebted to you for the article "Can We Afford Freedom" by Walter Pitman, in the Times, June 29.

When subliminal advertising was invented years ago, the proponents thereof swore by all that was holy that it would never be used to intimidate or sway the mind of the public. Now we find Mr. Pitman telling us that "We are bludgeoned both directly and subliminally by the most sophisticated psychological techniques to ensure that we buy."

Are we so naive that we really believe that is all the technique is used for? How about moulding political opinion?

Thanks for confirming what I have been suspecting for years. — W. E. Bennett, 2915 Colquitz Ave.

Murals

I am amazed that the bright and colorful panels in the Gorge Hospital are being papered over. It seems that a tempest in a teapot is being stirred up for some unclear reason.

After two viewings I am unable to discover any sound reason for objection to these murals. Indeed, I would think they seek to portray the assiduous care of patients in that lovely institution by a dedicated staff. Do not all the eyes of one mural symbolize this watchful care?

In my mind, the Hon. Dennis Cocke would do well to block this distasteful cover-up. — Harold T. Allen, 2140 Kings Road.

Property Values

Surely a point is being missed (or deliberately ignored) by those people who ask for compensation when a zoning change causes a seeming loss in value of the affected property. If we are to authorize compensation from public funds for people suffering such loss, then we must also insist that any increase in value caused by such rezoning has to be paid into the public purse.

It is a commonplace for a developer to take out purchase options on various residential properties at slightly above the going rates, arrange rezoning with a complaisant authority, and then take up his options on property which has appreciated many times in value — thus turning a very neat profit before even breaking ground. When Mr. Mace, that devoted worker for the public good, was trying to improve the Windsor Park area, he was unable to reduce the size of his proposed complex because of the enormous value of the site — making any less gargantuan an edifice uneconomic. Yet he wasn't intending to pay anything like "value" for that site.

I wholeheartedly agree that the property owner should not suffer loss through action taken by governmental bodies. But I equally wholeheartedly insist that he should not enjoy a windfall through such action. To an ignorant layman, it seems very simple to arrange legislation providing for any change in property values caused by rezoning to accrue to the rezoning authority — and it would take a gtood deal of pressure off land prices. — M. C. Hall-Patch, 2643 Cavendish Ave.

Long Journey Home

Wednesday I witnessed something so unusual that I thought you would perhaps be interested. It is the story of a mallard duck and her little brood of seven that walked all the way from Clover Point to a Beacon Hill Park pond.

My son and I decided to take a short run to Clover Point. As we got to the road that leads down towards the end of the Point, we saw this little family crossing the road, so we stopped and watched them walk on to the grass that runs along the top of the cliffs. They continued on, stopping sometimes to get a rest, as I thought, and we turned the car around and followed them along Dallas Road, stopping every few minutes to watch their progress.

Stumbling along, through the rough grass on they went until they got to Cook Street, when they started to cross the road, and nearly got run over. However, all went well, and they got across the road safely, and continued on the other side of the road skirting round the tall Totem Pole.

Crossing the road once more, and having stopped a number of cars on the way, they finally arrived at the pond behind the statue of the Queen, where they found sanctuary, and we left them splashing in the pool.

It must have been nearly a mile, a long way for seven tiny ducklings to take. — Mabel A. Jarvis, 1910 Leighton Place.

Veterans' Hospital

This hospital was built for the veterans, who gave their all for Canada; how dare anyone take it away from them. Is it nothing to all you Victorians, that these men fought and thousands died, that you and I might live?

Why not have a referendum and let the people decide?—Dorothy Abraham, 1125 Faithful St.

Recycling

There has recently been some publicity — pro and con — on the subject of backyard incinerators.

May I point out that, if we recycle our paper and other items no longer required, the need for burning will be practically eliminated. We will thus be reducing pollution of our atmosphere; preserving our natural resources (by reusing the products of our forests); supporting local industry and perhaps even retaining the friendship of our neighbors!

A local paper firm now has facilities for recycling paper, cardboard and newspapers. Their operation is providing employment in a nonpolluting industry which, I am sure we all agree, is what we desire in our city. Project Recycle will also take these items if it is more convenient to deliver them there.

As a matter of interest, you may also take your sorted cans, glass, aluminum, etc., to Project Recycle. The staff there will be pleased to give any information desired regarding their operation.

If each of us does his part in disposing of unwanted materials by these methods, we will no longer be faced with the prospect of being crowded out of existence by mountains of our own garbage. I think it deserves serious consideration. Don't you? — Katherine A. Belton, 2575 MacDonald Dr.

Responsibility

You paper's June 23 lead editorial "Strong Criticism, Weak Arguments" supports the inclusion of the clause in the PNE Act requiring contracts extending beyond December, 1975, to be renegotiated or, put less euphemistically, declaring such contracts to be null and void. Despite the editorial's grandiose title, it seems to me that the "weak arguments" label might better be applied to the editorial than to the criticisms put forward by the clause's opponents.

Your support for the clause rests on two arguments. The first is that the contracts, although legal, are long term and apparently disadvantageous financially to the City of Vancouver. The second is that "Governments are on a somewhat different plane than private companies. They must act for public, not selfish interests."

The first argument is merely silly. If a contract is valid, it is binding on both parties whether it runs for twenty months or twenty years. Nor does any alleged financial loss to the City of Vancouver make the contracts any less valid. One can regret the terms of such contracts without denying their validity, or without advocating their unilateral abrogation. If the contracts favored the City of Vancouver rather than the PNE tenants, would anyone seriously argue that the Provincial Government should terminate them? Or support, for example, the Jockey Club if it refused to abide by its contract because it was long-term and financially disadvantageous?

The second argument is alarming. According to your logic, private citizens and groups should be bound by contracts, but public bodies should not. The possibilities are intriguing. Suppose that B.C. Hydro had a two-year collective wage agreement with its employees which, after six months, it decided was disadvantageous. Or that B.C. Rail had a ten-year purchase agreement with a private business to supply goods at a certain price, but that after two years it decided the price was too high. Or that a future B.C. Housing Authority had just signed two-year leases with its tenants, but then decided that the rents were too low. If one accepts your argument, the Provincial Government would be justified in passing legislation terminating these contracts, acting in the name of the so-called "public interest."

It seems to me that governments should establish the rules under which contracts are entered into, and then ensure that such contracts are adhered to. This should apply equally to all parties entering into contracts, be they private or public. If it does not apply to government bodies, the consequences are frightening to contemplate.—Brian Donaldson.

Billboards

I am a recent emigrant to Canada. On my first visit to the States, driving from Vancouver to Seattle, the sights that struck me most forcibly were the hordes of ugly billboards lining the roads; similarly on my first visit to Victoria, driving along Douglas Street, again more ugly billboards competing with each other in size and gaudy colors. I had heard before that Victoria was supposed to be similar to an English town, believe me as far as an English person is concerned Douglas Street is purely American. Don't sell out Victoria completely to the big advertisers. — Maureen Harding, 3168 Harriet Rd.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of July 4, 1913

The Wolfe monument on the Plains of Abraham was taken down yesterday to be replaced in a few weeks by a new and more imposing one. The monument was 65 years old and showed signs of decay. It will be entirely renewed except for the helmet and sword which will crown the beautiful mausoleum built by the battlefield commission. The inscription "Here Died Wolfe Victorious" will be preserved and attached to the new monument. With regard to the pieces of the removed column, it is said they may be placed in the Wolfe Memorial Church, if it is erected, or in any historical museum that may have a right to possession.

Super Powers' Super Promises Don't Make Peace

By JAMES EAYRS

Moving as convoys must at the speed of their slowest vessel, 33 ships of state (including the Canadian) finally made port this week. Their destination: A conference on the security of Europe.

It has taken them long enough to get there. Nearly twenty years have passed since Soviet foreign minister V. M. Molotov first proposed that the rival power blocs in Europe get together to work out a collective security system among their members.

The timing as well as the sponsorship of this proposal made it suspect to the West. At best it was seen as propaganda, at worst as an attempt to block German rearmament. "Thanks, but no thanks" became our reply not just to the Molotov plan but to repeated Soviet initiatives for changing the status quo in Europe during the next fifteen years.

Always to be saying "no" is bad publicity for the North American Treaty Organization. Pressure for some more constructive responses grew. "Has the future nothing better to offer us than two powerful armed camps glaring at each other across the immense walls of armaments that they have piled up?", a former British foreign secretary, Michael Stewart, asked rhetorically in 1970. "It may be that with the best will in the world, and with all the imagination and skill that can be commanded, the countries of NATO will not be able to do better. What would be unforgiveable would be for them not to try with all their strength."

Finally, by 1972, the countries of NATO agreed to try — though whether with all their strength remains to be seen.

At Helsinki, Finland, where the European Security Conference is taking place, the mood must be one of scepticism tempered by caution. There is much to be sceptical and cautious about.

As long ago as 1957, George Kennan expressed scepticism that even the Atlantic allies could compose their difference sufficiently to work out a useful bargaining position common to them all. "The governmental structures of the individual NATO members are already of such ponderous and frightening complexity in themselves that it sometimes seems to me questionable whether they would be capable of providing the imagination, the privacy of deliberation, the speed of decision, and the constancy of style necessary to the pursuit of any delicate diplomatic undertaking, even if they were not encumbered with their obligations to allies. What will the situation be if we multiply the ponderousness by a factor of 15?" Or by a factor of 33?

The Helsinki 33 — at this stage represented by their respective foreign ministers — include super-powers (the United States, the Soviet Union), mini-powers (Liechtenstein, San Marino), NATO members, Warsaw Pact members, neutrals (Finland, Yugoslavia), Mediterraneans (Cyprus, Malta), not to mention Ireland, Spain and Vatican City. How can so motley a gathering of so many states agree on anything but platitudes?

It is not as if the smaller of them are content to be seen and not heard at Helsinki. Far from it. Maverick Malta all but wrecked the conference before it started by insisting that her trans-Mediterranean North African neighbours receive invitations. (They are attending as observers.) Renegade Rumania insisted on equal status for all participants, won through in the end.

All the Helsinki 33 want to enhance security ("the condition of being protected from or not exposed to danger"). But security means different things to different states.

To the United States, European security is a NATO strongly backed by Britain, France and Germany. To the Soviet Union, European security is the Brezhnev Doctrine — the right and the means to put down forcibly Dubcek-type regimes within her cordon sanitaire. To Rumania, European security is freedom from Soviet intervention. To France, European security is the force de frappe. To Canada and other NATO Middle Powers, European security is anything which reduces the level of European tension and the risk of European war. To Iceland, European security is the ability to fish in peace.

There is thus a danger that the common cause of Europe — the attainment of that golden age of harmony and concord the like of which that continent has hardly known in this century — may be drowned out in a babel of special pleading for special interests. Already several states have filed reservations about the terms of the agenda. The principle of the inviolability of frontiers is fine, the Irish say, but mind you don't apply it to our frontier with Ulster. The principle of the territorial integrity of states is great, the Spaniards say, but mind you don't apply it to Gibraltar.

All these differences could be quelled if not composed if the Helsinki super-powers were of one mind about them. And it is over American and Soviet intentions that there hovers at Helsinki the most uncertainty.

The super-power leaders got on famously in Washington and San Clemente. Their communique expressed their satisfaction that "preparatory work has been completed for the conference on security and co-operation in Europe which will be convened on July 3, 1973," promised that they would "conduct their policies so as to realize the goals of the conference and bring about a new era of good relations in this part of the world."

If super-power policies live up to super-power promises, the Helsinki conference can succeed where so many others only failed. But is the Cold War over? Saying so won't make it so. Actions speak louder than words.

But words speak loudly too. Here are the words of a Soviet publicist, writing in Pravda as recently as last October: "The NATO bosses have not ceased and apparently do not intend to cease the intrigues aimed at poisoning the international atmosphere. For how else can one evaluate, for example, the brazen and provocative list of concessions which NATO supposedly intends to secure from the socialist countries during the all-European talks. In point of fact it is a question of attempting to interfere in the internal affairs of the socialist countries and of presenting them with conditions for the talks which are more like their direct sabotage . . ."

It could be Molotov ranting twenty years ago. Has Mr. Brezhnev one line for San Clemente and another line for home? Or has Mr. Vladimir Yermakov, the author of the Pravda piece, yet to hear the good news?

CORPORATION TACTICS DON'T WORK FOR GOV'T

Watergate: The PR Method Breaks Down

By COLMAN McCARTHY
The Washington Post

It has been said many times, with ample evidence, that the Nixon administration has been skilled in the techniques of public relations.

Nothing is new in that. What is new is that not until Watergate did it become grimly clear how much overlay and similarity actually existed between the public relations of the Oval Room and the board room.

In its reaction to the original crime, the alleged cover-up and later the Ellsberg connection, administration officials — many of them with ad agency or PR backgrounds — have used classic public relations tactics that countless corporations rely on when caught in a jam.

With startling similarity, the White House has now used five of the basic public relations tactics long perfected in the board rooms:

1. Dismiss the problem as irrelevant.

Specialty of GM

Dismissing problems in such a manner is a specialty of General Motors, the world's largest corporation. In 1969, it sent a vice-president to Washington to put down a revolt by a customer who couldn't keep his GM school buses in safe condition. The official dismissed such potential dangers as flawed clutches, broken engine mounts and snapped tailpipe hangers as not being safety related defects. Eventually, the buses had to be recalled three times for safety problems.

As for the vice-president, rather than being reprimanded, GM eventually promoted him.

2. Discredit and harass the critic.

Once the White House realized that a few reporters and editors would be sticking with Watergate, administration officials began discrediting them. Ziegler said that "certain elements may try to stretch this beyond what it is."

The most publicized business world discrediting and harassment came when General Motors hired a detective to "investigate" Ralph Nader. Other and more recent examples are easily found. In January, Barton A. Cummings, chairman of the American Advertising Federation (AAF) went to the 15th annual AAF public affairs conference and put down the consumer movement as "the militant minority dedicated to overthrowing the free enterprise system . . . If we in business cannot put the brakes on this creeping socialism the free enterprise system will become a thing of the past."

ZIEGLER

Donald Kendall, often a visitor from the board room of Pepsico to the Oval Room of his friend President Nixon, has said that the consumer movement "is taught . . . often and all-too-well by men whose intentions for our country are either curious or unknown to me . . . I believe that the ultimate target is free enterprise itself."

'In-House' Probe

3. Send rabbits to guard the lettuce patch.

When neither dismissing the problem nor discrediting the press worked, the president ordered his own counsel to investigate. "I can state categorically that this investigation," said the president, "indicates that no one either in the White House or the administration was involved."

Captains of industry are fond of in-house investigations, too. In 1970, when saving the environment became a national issue, some of the nation's worst industrial polluters became members of the National Industrial Pollution Control Council. The council's purpose was to investigate pollution problems and advise the president accordingly.

In three years, the council has proven irrelevant, weak and about as illuminating as John Dean's investigation for his former boss. The first chief of the council was Bert Cross, board chairman of 3M. While supposedly investigating ways for the government to pass new anti-pollution laws, his own corporation was cited by the government as prime opposer to getting rid of billboard pollution.

4. National security is at stake.

When Egil Krogh Jr., called it quits, he wrote to the president that he took full responsibility for the burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office. In owning up, though, Krogh added: "I believed that my decision was dictated inescapably by the vital, national security interests of the United States."

National security has the ring of patriotism, as such industrial patriots as the petroleum lobby and coal companies know.

A justification for digging a pipeline down the centre of Alaska is that we must not be dependent on those shifty Arabs who would love to see us pendered nationally insecure with no oil to run our cars or lawnmowers.

Threat to West?

In Alaska Industry, a business publication, an oil official states that the U.S. had better let the companies develop the North Slope because interruptions in the supply of Mideast oil could possibly "pass from inconvenience and hardship to the deeply disturbing character of a threat to the security of the western world . . ."

Carl Bagge, head of the National Coal Association, also fears Mideast dependency and concludes that "coal, whether deep mined or strip mined, is the only assurance we have of protecting our national security and the integrity of our domestic energy base."

5. Agree to a consent decree.

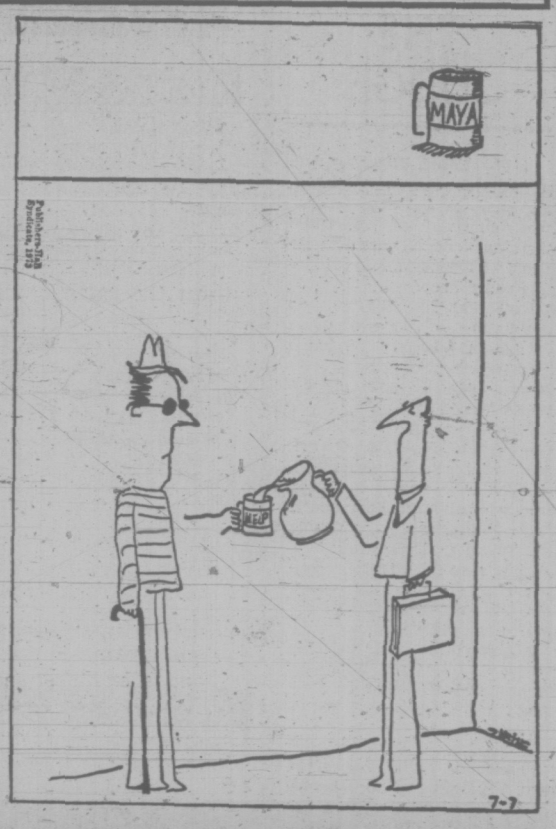
When all other devices fail, when the base camp to some mountain of untruth must finally be abandoned, the corporation caught in a jam has the final option of the consent decree. This is the cease-and-desist device by which a company does not admit guilt but promises to stop those acts that it has been accused of doing. The consent order fools only the naive. If you are not guilty of something why stop doing it?

Crudest Form

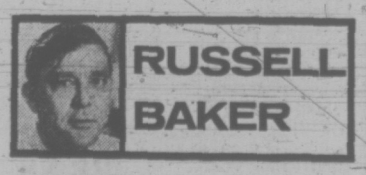
Ziegler's famous "inoperative" statement was essentially a consent decree; while not admitting that anything he previously said was false, he agreed not to say it any more.

Many now see the Watergate as a crisis in government but before that it is first a breakdown in public relations. Private enterprise can get away with PR buccaneering but the public is not yet used to it from its president. From him, it still demands public service, not public relations.

That what we have seen these past months is the crudest form of PR gives truth once again to what C. S. Lewis wrote in his preface to The Screwtape Letters: "The greatest evil is not now done in those sordid 'dens of crime' that Dickens loved to paint. It is not done even in concentration camps and labor camps. In those we see its final result. But it is conceived and ordered — moved, seconded, carried and minuted — in clean, carpeted, warmed and well-lighted offices, by quiet men with white collars and cut fingernails and smooth-shaven cheeks who do not need to raise their voices."



Too Much of a Bad Thing



It is not bad taste so much as bad judgment, compounded by greed, that finally did in the pornographers. Pornography is always in bad taste, but then so are a great many other things dear to the American heart. Las Vegas, the indigenous American funeral, double knit suits, the roadside hamburger culture, the United States Air Force — all are monuments of bad taste, and yet we love some and endure others.

Nobody has been beseeching the Supreme Court for the last 20 years to clean up the funeral scene, shut down Las Vegas, or suppress MacDonald's hamburger shops. Periodically somebody does go to court against the Air Force but nobody, least of all the courts, ever takes him seriously.

A country that can tolerate, say, the bombing of Cambodia without having taste offended can surely put up with a little pornography, and in fact the courts apparently thought so, too, when they struck down practically all censorship back in the Eisenhower Age.

What the country could not tolerate was a flamboyant feast of pornography, such as we ended up with. Genitals are a subject of almost neurotic preoccupation for many, many Americans. It is a rare community that lacks a movement to stop sex education in schools, and American men are still trained to make childish noises and wink upon seeing pictures of women with ample secondary sex characteristics. We are, in short, only a step from the fig leaf.

Had the pornographers used good judgment, they might have realized that a little pornography was all the pornography Americans were going to tolerate for a while. A discreetly sequestered pornographic district of town, off the main stem, might have worked. It would have operated on the principle of the old red light district or the Cambodian bombing—do nastily if you must, but out of the public eye.

Instead, the pornographers decided to flaunt it. At one time it was almost impossible to find a movie theatre within half a mile of the White House that was not playing hard-core pornography. Everybody is familiar with the pile of slick-paper nudie magazines on the drugstore counter. Times Square has become a metaphor for pornographic squalor. Never mind about the kind of squalor that would have prevailed there without pornography.

It is the danger of seeing those genitals named or pictured that drives Americans wild with embarrassment when they are out with the family for the evening. Ah, if only humans were hatched from hard-shelled eggs, like chickens! Then we could take the wife and kids to Times Square or the drugstore and still feel clean.

Anyhow, it was embarrassing, when you had taken your old mother, maybe, to the movies. It is all very well for enlightenment's advocates to say that mother ought to come to grips with the facts of life, but why in color, 20 times bigger than life on the large screen?

When mother is nearing 40 and you are 18, it tends to mar the evening, at least for a young man in our culture, if not necessarily for mother. The hard-core movies, of course, are absolutely non-communal entertainment, and they were all right because it was universally understood that their salaciousness would be on a scale suitable only for the most raffish. The trouble was that there was scarcely any film more interesting than the abominable Disneys in which one's concentration was not likely to be shattered by the inevitable superfluous scenes of persons in all too obvious possession of those unmentionable human parts.

It is silly, of course, to suggest that the pornographers should have been more discreet. Greed was bound to bring President Nixon's Supreme Court down on them in the end. They exploited the market for maximum profit in the short run. That much in understandable about them, and even admirable, because greed is not considered bad taste; but sound economic practice, lying, as it does, at the very heart of the capitalistic way of life.

The pornography will not be much missed. Those who want it will continue to be able to obtain it at the usual extortionate prices which the law insists we pay criminals for self-indulgence in petty vices.

It is possible that serious writing and film, on the one hand, will suffer from the Supreme Court's invitation for local district attorneys to aggrandize themselves by setting up as public protectors of the morals. On the other hand, there is some evidence that the hostility of reactionary and repressive governments may produce high art, as the Soviet state tyranny has recently produced a few superb Russian novels. This may be because survival of the human spirit is a better theme than the mechanics of procreation.

SWAG Lauds Union

The B.C. Government Employees Union has been congratulated by the Victoria Status of Women Action Group for advocating that women be hired to work in liquor stores.

"Our group has long felt that the refusal to hire women in this area was based on artificial barriers and prejudices which in fact bear no relationship to the ability of women to handle such jobs," SWAG said in a letter to the union.

Many working women are outside the protection of unions and these women are looking to unions to help them achieve "fair and equitable" working conditions, SWAG added.

The BCGEU request was made last week and will be considered by the B.C. Liquor Board.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A 20-year-old Victorian who admitted a charge of obtaining cash by false pretences, two charges of attempted theft and one of common assault was fined $550 in provincial court Tuesday.

Kim Edward Martin, no fixed address, was also put on 18 months probation by Judge Edmond St. Jorre for the offences which occurred between March 25 and 31.

Martin admitted cashing a cheque for $50 worth of cash and groceries. He also pleaded guilty to trying to break into a stamp machine and a condom-dispensing machine at University of Victoria.

A 21-year-old Victoria girl who pleaded guilty to possession of heroin and one charge of attempted uttering was remanded to July 19 for pre-sentence report and sentence.

Daryle N. Newstead, of 139 McClure, admitted possession of heroin when she was stopped by police in the 1200-block Langley and also trying to cash a cheque for $96.90 in the name of Debbie Hall.

★ ★ ★

Michael S. Colvin, 1318 Transit, charged with possession of marijuana after he was searched at the Oak Bay police station June 27, was sentenced to six months probation.

★ ★ ★

Donald C. Nelson, 30, of Portland Ore., was fined $75 for possession of marijuana July 2 when he was stopped by police in the 1000-block Government Street.

★ ★ ★

George F. Liska, 46, of 1553 McRae, was fined $250 for shoplifting carpentry items valued at $14.53 from Simpsons Sears June 30.

★ ★ ★

Cecil Montgomery, 138 Superior, was fined $350 and prohibited from driving for three months for impaired driving May 15 in the 100-block Superior.

City Youth Arrested In Sudbury

Victoria police have been advised the youth had about 30 sets of car keys also stolen from Horwood Motors at 810 Johnson.

He is being held for one Sudbury break-in, police report, and is wanted for questioning here in connection with the theft earlier last week of a new car and 140 sets of car keys from Speedway Motors, 932 Yates. The car was found abandoned Tuesday in Esquimalt.

Police declined to identify the suspect at this time.

Emery Installed

First vice-president is Harry Colnett, secretary Arthur Cann, and treasurer J. Leslie Green.

New Pollution Controls Viewed

A new control code for the petroleum and chemical industries in B.C. has been proposed by the province's pollution control branch.

The new requirements are laid out in a special report released Tuesday by William Venables, director of the PCB.

It follows a public inquiry held by the director in May last year at Vancouver into pollution control technology for the chemical and petroleum industries.

The objectives deal with the control of air and water pollution and solid waste management in connection with all existing and proposed operations of these industries.

The objectives must be finally approved by the Pollution Control Board before becoming government policy.

The report is highly technical and recommends achievement of its ultimate objective by a series of planned staged improvements referred to as levels A, B, and C.

Level A is the highest in terms of environmental quality protection and will be mandatory for all proposed new operations.

Level C is the minimum acceptable quality standard for existing operations, all of which will ultimately be brought up to level A quality through the interim of level B.

The timing of each existing operation's up-grading to the higher levels will be determined on an individual basis by Venables.

The report urges that persons thinking of starting petroleum and chemical plants should first undertake feasibility background studies to provide documentation of existing physical, chemical and biological characteristics of the environment.

The pollution control branch will help in planning such studies.

The pollution control branch has issued similar reports covering the forest products industry (now official government policy) and the mining industry. The latter is now being considered by the board.

STEEL MILL PROSPECTS FOR B.C. CALLED GOOD

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gary Lauk, British Columbia Industrial Development, Trade and Commerce Minister, says prospects for a B.C. steel plant are good and range from a major integrated plant on a deepwater site to a rolling mill using raw steel from abroad.

Lauk said he believed B.C. could tie future coal sales to an agreement about a steel plant.

"We have high quality coal and it is needed," Lauk said. "I think we can encourage somebody to build a plant here."

He said an integrated steel mill with blast furnaces and rolling mills near tidewater to receive ore ships had not been ruled out despite concern about pollution.

The minimum economic size for such a plant would be one million tons of steel products a year, he said.

Other possibilities were a steel plate mill and the purchase of pig iron for conversion to steel as feed for a rolling mill, Lauk said.

He said the B.C. government wants both to satisfy western Canada steel demands and sell production abroad.

WICKS TALKS WITH LAWYER

Public Utilities Commissioner Lyle Wicks said today he is holding meetings with his lawyer, but he would not say whether it has to do with his forced retirement brought about by the dissolution of the commission July 15.

He said he would have more to say on the matter Friday.

Asked if he was considering legal action against the government, Wicks said, "I have nothing to say on that subject now. I am acting on the advice of my counsel. I am having a meeting with my counsel at 2 p.m. Friday. I'll have more to say then."

The Public Utilities Commission has been phased out since Attorney-General Alex Macdonald introduced legislation in March creating the new B.C. Energy Commission which has assumed most of the responsibilities of the PUC.

Other functions of the PUC were turned over to various government departments and the agency will officially cease to exist July 15.

Wicks was minister of labor in the Social Credit government between 1952 and 1960 when he lost his seat in the legislature and was subsequently appointed to the commission.

The other member of the commission, Dr. J. F. K. English, who was chairman, could not be reached for comment this morning.

Mozart Perfect Composer For Summertime Listening

By PEGGIE SAMPSON

Mozart the great. Mozart the suave, the profound, the humorous, the gay; Mozart the perfect composer for a summer evening.

This was the music which drew a capacity audience to the University of Victoria's MacLaurin Auditorium Tuesday night, an audience of chamber music lovers who responded to the call of Mozart's D major Flute Quartet, Oboe Quartet, "Kegelstatt" Trio, and his great Quintet for piano and winds, K. 452.

The artists are nearly all residents of Victoria and are players of great merit and experience of whom Victoria should be enormously proud: pianist Robin Wood, string players John Loban, Cardo Smalley and James Hunter, and the five members of the young Pacific Wind Quintet, heard in various beautiful combinations.

It is not impossible to criticize. There were some unresolved problems of intonation, chords which failed to fall perfectly in time; balance within the string trio due to the zeal of the violin and the reticence of the viola (Hunter's cello is beyond criticism).

There was a lack of dynamic variety which was especially noticeable in the flute quartet, but the over-all impression is one of beauty and enthusiasm, of form and realistic timpi, and unostentatious skill.

Wood's piano playing is an inspiration and the works which his spirit dominated were the best of the evening.

This program will be repeated Thursday. On Tuesday and Wednesday next the same group play Schubert, with Brahms following on July 17 and 19, as the series continues through Aug. 10.

The series, which has style, variety, a pleasant hall to listen in, and excellent playing, is no doubt going to attract many residents and visitors during the coming six weeks.

Officials Fear Polio Comeback

Polio, the crippling disease which struck nearly 300 British Columbians before mass immunization programs began in the early 1960s, is again worrying public health officials.

The number of children who enter school without being vaccinated against the disease is rising and officials in B.C. fear polio may make a comeback.

"There's no doubt in my mind that if the percentage of vaccinations continued to drop, we will have cases of polio here," says provincial epidemiologist Dr. A. A. Larsen.

In Victoria, director of public health nursing Nancy Lee said today the number of Grade One children who have not been vaccinated is definitely on the rise.

Once they enter the school system however, she said, they begin on a vaccine program unless their parents object.

"Most children go to kindergarten now and we begin with them there," Miss Lee said.

"We don't have this year's figures yet but there has been a drop in the number vaccinated since we first started doing it," she added.

When the mass immunization programs first began, about 90 per cent of children were vaccinated as babies, she said, but parents were "really frightened by the epidemic then."

According to a survey taken last year, Dr. Larsen says, one child in four starting Grade 1 had not received the oral Sabin vaccine.

"No one can say there's no polio virus in B.C.," he said. "There just has to be with people coming in from other countries — air travel has reduced our margin of safety."

Another reason for worrying, said Dr. Larsen, is that since polio has been absent from the province for 10 years, the population's natural immunity to it has disappeared with the new generation of children.

He explained that in the past for every case of polio that resulted in paralysis, there were perhaps as many as eight in which the disease went undetected and the symptoms were no worse than a bout of the flu. People built up an immunity in this way, since polio won't strike twice, he said.

But today, children must rely on artificial agents like the Sabin vaccine. If they have not been vaccinated, Dr. Larsen said they are wide open to the danger of contracting polio.

Miss Lee said children should receive the oral vaccine when they are three months old and again at five months and 15 months. They will receive the vaccine again when they enter school and in Grades 5 and 10.

While the last reported case of polio in B.C. occurred about a decade ago in the Ucluelet-Tofino area, Larsen said a recent article in the Journal of the Canadian Medical Association warned of the dangers of polio returning.

Boer War Veteran Dies After Illness

Col. Walter Bapty, a veteran of three wars and a former medical officer for the Canadian Scottish Regiment, died Tuesday in Veterans' Hospital following a long illness.

Bapty, 88, served in the South African War when he was only 15.

A native of London, Ont., he graduated from the University of Western Ontario in 1906 as a member of the first medical class at the university.

He moved to Victoria in 1907 after practising for a short time in Calgary.

Before the First World War he was a member of the militia in Victoria as a captain with the 5th Canadian Garrison Artillery, RCA, and a major in the Victoria Independent Squadron of Horse which later became the 31st B.C. Horse.

In 1914, Bapty served as medical officer with "C" Squadron of the Second Canadian Mounted Rifles, but was returned after he was wounded.

He went back to the front lines as medical officer of the 102nd Northern B.C. Regiment. After Vimy Ridge, when he had been gassed twice, he was sent back to Canada and was made medical officer and officer commanding of all military hospitals on Vancouver Island.

At the end of the war he returned to his practice in Victoria, serving as well as the medical officer of the First Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment. He later took command of the regiment's Second Battalion, a post he held until July 31, 1939, and which he resumed in June, 1940.

He is survived by two daughters, Anne of Victoria and Laura (Mrs. D. R.) Williams of Duncan; two sons, Harry and Dr. Leonard, both of Victoria.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Chartists Have Field Day As Market Slump Drags On

By AL FORREST
Times Business Editor

With the market in an extended slump, stock chartists are having a field day.

Chartists are researchers who plot fluctuations of stock prices in hopes of spotting a trend and thereby being able to forecast future performance.

It takes weeks of patient research but can be very rewarding, particularly in view of the fact that most national investment houses hire at least one resident chartist.

"It is not just hocus pocus," one Victoria broker said.

"Some investors have found them extremely rewarding. Most of our representatives (salesmen) find the lists a useful guide."

The lists are the end result of months of studying stock charts. The two figures sought are the support level of a stock and the resistance level.

The support level of a stock is (hopefully) the bottom while the resistance level is as high as the stock is likely to go in the near term, according to its recent past performance.

Another Victoria broker commented: "There are a large number of factors involved but the resistance level is mainly psychological while the support level is based upon economic factors."

He said most stocks have a high level where large numbers of shares were sold in a small price range and the price has subsequently fallen.

Therefore there are a large number of annoyed purchasers whose main investment aim is to get their money back.

They said: If it over comes back to the price I paid for it, sell it fast!

"This puts a ceiling on the stock, at least in the near term," the broker said. "It is very difficult to break through a resistance level."

He said the factors involved were best described as psychological because the order to sell was not based upon the stock's performance or the outlook of the company but simply was an emotional desire to recoup a presumed loss.

Support levels can be strongly emotional, too, but are usually based upon recognition of the basic worth of a company and such factors as the price-earnings ratio.

In short, investors feel the stock has become a bargain and they begin to buy it up.

One of the reasons investment houses like to have chartists around is that they aqt like cheerleaders when the going gets tough. They remind registered representatives (the sales force) that a bad market (low prices) is really good news.

The sales force then tries to pass this enthusiasm along to the investor.

The most frequently-heard response from investors is: "Yes, but is there any guarantee that the stock will not fall below its support level?"

The answer: "No."

While chartists feel they have their studies honed almost to the level of a science, all they can say for sure is where the stock went in the past, not where it is going in the future.

In that sense the charts are very much like form charts on race horses, although brokers are not fond of the comparison.

As an example of the recent studies of chartists, one brokerage house is circulating the following study to its salesmen. Most of the stocks listed are selling near their support level, which is good news—according to the theory.

PWA GETS LOAN TO BUY B-737

WASHINGTON (CP) — Loans totalling $5,542,470 for the purchase of a Boeing 737 jet aircraft have been approved for Pacific Western Airlines of Vancouver.

Henry Kearns, chairman of the Export-Import Bank of the United States, says the bank has approved a direct loan of $2,771,235 to finance 45 per cent of the U.S. costs.

A similar amount will be provided by Mercantile Bank of Canada, Montreal. PWA will make cash payment of the 10-per-cent balance of $615,830.

Organized in 1945, PWA serves routes in Western Canada and Washington state and operates international charter flights.

The loans are to be repaid in 20 semi-annual instalments beginning July 4, 1974, with Eximbank's direct loan to be repaid out of the final 10 instalments with interest at an annual rate of 6 per cent on outstanding balances and repayment to be guaranteed by Mercantile Bank.

Baton Broadcasting

Baton Broadcasting Inc. of Toronto reports net earnings of $2,445,898 or 36 cents a share for the nine months ended May 31, compared with $2,140,336 or 35 cents a share in the corresponding period last year.

Revenue was $24,267,412 compared with $19,975,840.

The 1973 figures include results from CFQC Broadcasting Ltd. (radio and television stations in Saskatchewan), Confederation Broadcasting (Ottawa) Ltd. and Coconut Grove Enterprises Corp., a Florida theatre, restaurant and shopping area, which were not included in the 1972 figures.

Whonnock Ind.

Whonnock Industries Ltd. reports net income of $1,726,476 or $1.05 a share for the six months ended May 31, almost double the performance for the same period last year when the profit was $837,526 (58 cents).

The Fraser Valley wood products firm reported sales also were nearly double at $17.5 million, up from $8.9 million.

Whonnock president C. A. Johnson said the lumber market is stable with export orders booked into the first quarter of 1974 but the shake market has fallen off.

The company has completed its assessment of Integrated Wood Products Ltd. with a view to acquisition but has postponed a decision to July 27 from June 26.

Whonnock is also considering establishing a manufacturing facility in Alberta.

Boeing Co.

The Boeing Co. has been awarded a $9 million National Aeronautics and Space Administration contract to continue working on an engine design for reducing the noise level of commercial jet aircraft, United States Sen. Henry Jackson said.

The program, which could last as long as two years, is aimed specifically at the DC-9 and 727 commercial transports now in operation.

Canadian Cellulose

Shares of Canadian Cellulose were called for trading on the Toronto and Vancouver markets today, the first time a British Columbia government company has traded publicly.

Shares were exchanged with the predecessor company, Columbia Cellulose, on a one-for-one basis. Columbia traded 1,000 common shares at $4.80 on its last day of trading Tuesday.

Canada Cellulose has authorized capitalization of 24,318,119 shares of which 12,151,453 will be issued when the current distribution is completed. Ticker symbol is CUE.

Relaxed Chris Evert Shatters Margaret's Grand Slam Hopes

LONDON (AP) — Chris Evert, 18, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., upset top-seeded Margaret Court of Australia 6-1, 1-6, 6-1 today, giving her her first crack at the Wimbledon women's singles tennis title.

Miss Evert reached the semifinals last year only to lose to Australian Evonne Goolagong. But this time, she crushed the 31-year-old Mrs. Court's bid for a fourth Wimbledon crown and an unprecedented second grand slam of tennis.

The veteran Australian already had the Australian and French titles wrapped up and was hoping to add the Wimbledon and U.S. Open crowns to her laurels to become the only woman in tennis history to win all four championships twice.

Last year, Miss Evert was the new sensation of women's tennis and the burden awed her. This year, with the pressure off, she's more relaxed.

The other semi-finalists are defending champion Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., and Evonne Goolagong of Australia. Theirs will be a rematch of last year's final in which Mrs. King won 6-3, 6-3. Evonne had won the title in 1971, beating Mrs. Court.

Miss Goolagong has been the most consistent performer this year, reaching the semi-finals without dropping a set. Even Mrs. Court, who strode imperiously through the first three rounds, surprisingly was taken to three sets in her quarter-final against Olga Morozova of Russia.

So was Miss Evert, who dropped a quarter-final set to Rosie Casals of San Francisco. And Mrs. King has run into trouble twice. Lesley Hunt, the unseeded Australian, took a set from her in the fourth round, while another Australian, Kerry Melville, made her work hard to win in the quarter-finals 9-8, 8-6.

In the men's singles, Alex Mayer, a law student from Wayne, N.J., has emerged as the star of the competition.

Then in Tuesday's quarter-finals, he rallied from two sets down for a 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 victory over eighth-seeded Juergen Fassbender of West Germany.

Mayer will be the only American—and the only non-seed—in the semi-finals of the men's singles. The other American in the quarter-finals, Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., lost 8-6, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4 to Alex Metreveli, the first Russian ever to reach the semi-finals here in the men's singles.

The other semi-final will be between Roger Taylor of Britain, seeded third and winner in a tough fight over Bjorn Borg, 6-1, 6-8, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5 and second-seeded Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia.

Kodes also had a hard time in his quarter-final, before eliminating 19-year-old Vijay Amritraj of India 6-4, 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5.

On Weekend Program: A Four-Minute Mile?

The greatest collection of track and field talent since the 1954 Commonwealth Games in Vancouver or, if you prefer, the pre-Olympic meet at UVic stadium in 1968.

That's not only the boast of the two-day Pacific International Games at Centennial Stadium Saturday and Sunday. It's bold fact.

What's more, the magic of the mile will be the feature attraction just as it was at Empire Stadium 19 years ago.

That was the historic occasion when Roger Bannister, first man to break four minutes in the mile, was to meet John Landy, the second man to crack that magic barrier and the reigning record holder in a classic head-to-head confrontation.

History records the fact that Bannister won that August day when Landy turned the wrong way and his famed opponent ran by him on the other side.

But even more: That was the first time two men had broken four mintes for the mile in one race.

Sure, it's happened many times since then, but never in Victoria.

On Saturday afternoon it could, for there are no less than nine runners coming to this meet who have run the mile in under four minutes or the equivalent at 1,500 metres.

Best of the lot is probably Rod Dixon of New Zealand, bronze medallist in the Olympic 1,500 metres. His best for the mile is a crackling 3.55. Add Tony Polhill, another finalist in the 1,500 at Munich with a best of 3.57, and New Zealand has a strong one-two punch to offer.

Others are Kazuyushi Mizuno of Japan (3,42.7 for the 1,500); Graham Crouch of Australia (3.57 mile); Peter Watson, the Aussie champ (3.57); Australia's Tony Williams (3.58.5); Scott Daggett (3.59); Mark Feig (3.59) and Canada's own Ken Elmer, well-known here (3.58.2), and the possibilities are interesting indeed.

But that old magic of the mile was just one of many plums tossed out by meet director Ron Bowker this week. The list of competitors features champions of all competing countries — Canada, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, U.S., even Jamaica, and two other surprises.

There will be 48 Olympic competitors;

There will be 14 people who have won medals at Commonwealth Games;

There will be 11 Commonwealth record holders;

There will be seven men high jumpers who have cleared seven feet, and four of these will be Canadians;

There will be six women (Ms, if you like) who have bettered 21 feet in the long jump;

There will be seven women who have run the 400 metres under 54 seconds;

There will be the world record holder (51 seconds flat) for that distance — Marilyn Newfhill of Jamaica. She is coming by special invitation;

★ ★ ★

And there will be those two surprises, both of whom happen to be their country's national champions as well.

Bowker realizes he may be challenging fate, but he has accepted the entry of Sonja Van Zyl and Alta Wessels of South Africa. The girls are attending summer school at Saskatoon. Miss Van Zyl is the South African 800 and 1,500 metre champ, and Miss Wessels the 100 and 200-metre titleholder.

If the big questions is: will the black activists take a dim view of the appearance of two South Africans because of that country's apartheid policy? Bowker is prepared to take that chance.

"There are at least 14 or 15 blacks on the U.S. team," he said. "But we'll see," he added.

And there's just a chance too that a mystery man may run in the mile, he also admitted. In Europe they call them 'rabbits.' We're not supposed to do it, but . . .

"Four minutes would be great, wouldn't it?"

Visitors Due to Hit Peak Here

Some of the athletes and team officials of the five nations which took part in the Pacific Conference Games in Toronto last month are a little upset —they are only now starting to reach peak form.

But meet director Ron Bowker of Victoria, where the last of four satellite meets is to be held Saturday and Sunday, is delighted.

The track and field season in Australia and New Zealand ended three months ago and both countries tried unsuccessfully to arrange some competition on the way to the Conference Games.

"It's all back to front compared with the way we'd like it," says Australian team manager Graeme Briggs. "We really needed the competition before the big games, not after."

The Australian team manager complained:

"The team will probably reach its peak fitness at the last meeting before we get home."

Well, the last meet is at Centennial Stadium starting at 1:15 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday and Bowker isn't complaining. In fact, he was full of smiles at a press luncheon Tuesday and was confident the weekend meet would attract large crowds.

Co-sponsored by Invictus and the Saanich Peninsula Jaycees, the meet opens each day with field events at 1:15 p.m. and track events starting at 1:30. Official opening ceremonies will be held at 2:30 Saturday and will be followed by a sky-diving exhibition before track events continue.

For the Conference Games, the teams from Australia, New Zealand, Japan, the United States and Canada were restricted to 35 members each.

NO RESTRICTION

But there is no restriction for the satellite meets and, in fact, many B.C. athletes, including several from Vancouver Island, will be added for the Victoria meet.

In Saskatoon Tuesday night, the Canadian team, bolstered by several Western Canadian athletes, captured more medals than any other team.

Non-regulars, among them Brenda Walsh of Edmonton, gained three gold medals and one bronze medal.

Miss Walsh won the 800 metres in two minutes, 6.9 seconds, Brenda Eisler of Vancouver won the long jump with 6.32 metres and Val Peterson of Winnipeg took the javelin with a throw of 49.68 metres to lead the Canadian team to 19 medals including seven golds, five silvers and seven bronzes.

Former Victorian Penny May, another who will be competing in the Island meet, was third in the long jump.

The Australian team, including the meet's only double winner, Denis Robertson, won 17 medals, followed by the United States with 11, New Zealand with seven and Japan with six.

Rain forced several events to be cancelled when the first of the satellite meets was staged Sunday in Ottawa but not before Joyce Sadowick of Burnaby had set a Canadian open and native record for the women's 200 metres.

Miss Sadowick surprised a crowd of 3,000 when she finished in 23.2 seconds, one-tenth of a second faster than the previous native and open record of 23.3.

Rocks Face Vital Series

It's a vital series all right, and Ed Kowalyk isn't the only one who realizes it.

The Victoria Shamrock coach said today he will go with the same lineup that hammered Coquitlam Adanacs 22-13 last Saturday for tonight's Western Lacrosse Association game against New Westminster Salmonbellies at 8 at Memorial Arena.

"We want this one," Kowalyk said, referring to the two-game series — tonight and at New Westminster Thursday night.

"Of course, the Salmonbellies will be just as keen on victory," Kowalyk said. "If they win the two games, they will be tied with us. But if we sweep the series, we will have an eight-point bulge and an almost insurmountable lead for the third and last playoff spot."

Kowalyk will again call on the services of junior scoring star Kevin Alexander. He's been used only twice by the Shamrocks this season and has scored seven goals.

In Vancouver Tuesday night, the second-place Adanacs downed the Burrards 17-14 before 2,389 fans to close the gap on the league leaders to four points.

Mainlanders Tie For Junior Lead

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jim Nelford of Pitt Meadows and Gord Harder of Surrey were deadlocked with scores of 146 after the opening 36 holes in the British Columbia junior golf championship.

Nelford had an oppening round of 72, then fired a 74, while Harder carded a pair of 73s over the par-72 Quilchena Golf Club course.

Rich Donaldson of West Vancouver was in third place after a 73-74, three shots better than Brad MacLeod of Victoria, who was all alone in fourth with a 150 total.

Dick Baker of Nanaimo and Allan Swope of Pitt Meadows were fifth with 151 and Laurie Peet of Cowichan and Lorne Sammartino of Nelson had 152s.

City Rifleman Wins Premier Match Award

Capt. Don Ireland of CFB Esquimalt captured the coveted Lieutenant Governor's trophy Tuesday during the final day of competition in the four-day 89th annual B.C. Rifle Association match at Heal's Range.

Vic Finholm of Port Alberni (Arrowsmith Fusiliers) was the only other major winner from Vancover Island. A master shooter, he won the Vern Barclay 900 yard match with 50-5v and collected the Lord Mayor's aggregate prize with a 147-18V total.

Sorensen, a master, fired a 105-16V score to win the Lieutenant Governor's first stage match (which decided entrants in the second stage), won the MacDonald-Export match with 98-11V and captured the Fred Asher Challenge Trophy for an aggregate of the previous wins.

Sergeant Alan King of Victoria emerged the winner in five individual service rifle matches fired the previous weekend in both Victoria and Chilliwack. King also paced the PPCLI squad to victory in the inter-service team match.

Refs Request Spot in Hall For Hayes

INGERSOLL, Ont. (CP) — The National Hockey League Referees and Linesmen Association has recommended to NHL President Clarence Campbell that George Hayes be placed before the Hockey Hall of Fame's election committee.

Hayes, a resident of nearby Beachville, officiated in the NHL from 1946-1965 and worked a record 1,513 league games as a referee and linesman.

In making the recommendation, association president Matt Pavelich stated that the association was expressing its "strong desire" to see Hayes considered for the Hall of Fame.

Pavelich said: "His years of service and dedication to the game of hockey are worthy of an appointment to the Hockey Hall of Fame."

Finley May Ask Courts to Decide

OAKLAND (AP) — Charles Finley says he may take the National Hockey League to court over moving his California Golden Seals to Indianapolis.

"I can either sell the Seals, keep the Seals or move them to Indianapolis," Finley said Tuesday if a telephone interview from his Chicago office.

At a recent league meeting, Finley asked $6.5 million for the franchise while the league offered a reported $6 million.

"But that doesn't mean I won't try to move," he said.

"If I picked up my team and moved to Indianapolis, then it might be up to the courts to decide if I could do it, not the NHL. I'm not saying I will, but I'm . . . going to consider all the possibilities."

Finley says he has lost $2.3 million in three years here because of poor attendance.

Cassata Signs One-Year Pact

OTTAWA (CP) — Quarterback Rick Cassata has signed a one-year contract with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference.

Cassata, who led Riders to a tie for first place in the EFC last season, has been working out with the club but took part in no hitting drills while his 1973 contract remained unsigned.

AMBITIOUS ARENA PLAN FOR DOWNTOWN TORONTO

TORONTO (CP) — Harold Ballard, president of Maple Leaf Gardens, said Tuesday he and his partners are planning a new arena and stadium in downtown Toronto.

"We're talking about a rink with 20,000 to 25,000 seating capacity and a stadium seating 60,000," Ballard said.

Meanwhile, he said during a news conference, the Gardens, home of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, would be expanded with balconies at the north and south end to increase seating to 18,000.

Ballard says he will own both the arena and stadium and that he has investigated the possibility of bringing major league baseball to this city.

Ballard was in Toronto on a temporary pass from Millhaven minimum security centre. He was sentenced Oct. 20, 1972, to two concurrent three-year terms on charges of theft and fraud from the Gardens involving about $205,000.

Ecological Understanding Would Benefit Forestry

"The forester of today is constantly confronted by the criticisms and demands of environmental groups. He is assailed not only for those of his activities which are clearly detrimental to the total yield of goods and services to society, but also for many activities which have long been cherished as 'good forestry'."

So writes J. P. "Hamish" Kimmins, an ecologist in the University of British Columbia's faculty of forestry who recently gave a series of four lectures in Victoria.

His lecture series on forest ecology, which we dutifully attended in hopes of increasing our knowledge in this area, was well-balanced to an extreme from the point of view of attempting to present the ideas he expressed within the space allotted here.

Whereas it is easy to expound on an extremist idea, Kimmins managed to cover all the angles.

However, an article in The Forestry Chronical probably explains his thoughts best.

"The level at which the public and the forestry profession interact is all too often that of polemic: the vigorous and uncompromising exercise of contrary and conflicting opinions. It often appears in such exchanges that neither party is exactly sure why it thinks it is correct, and it would seem to be highly desirable to provide both parties with a sound basic knowledge of the ecological nature of the problems they are dealing with."

"Such knowledge would help the forester to achieve a better understanding of the ecological nature of his management operations, reducing the risk of self-inflicted loss of future economic values and public respect.

"It would help some environmental groups to understand that the obverse of 'all that glitters is not gold' might be 'all that appears to be environmentally degrading may not be of great ecological significance."

Conversely, activities producing little in the way of visible impact "may have profound and undesirable ecological consequences."

During the lectures, Kimmins stated foresters in B.C. are faced with the very difficult task of managing forests which are among the most variable in the world. Take this concept another step and it is only logical to assume that blanket legislation or guidelines for vast areas of the province can't begin to cope with current ills.

"It is felt that the solution to many of the contemporary forest management problems lies in a dramatic increase in the level of research into the ecology of forestry. There must be a greatly accelerated program for the acquisition of knowledge on how the different types of forest ecosystem in this province react to various tropical forest treatment," said Kimmins.

He suggests this could be accomplished as a joint venture among universities, the forest industry and forest service, with the latter providing co-ordination.

Lacking many specific pieces of knowledge, forestry is regarded by some as an empirical science, relying largely on trial and error. Unfortunately, some of the errors don't show up for a long time.

"The outcome of forest management frequently falls short of desired objectives and the ecological form and function of forests are frequently changed to a condition that has reduced socio-economic values," stated Kimmins.

Foresters are, in fact, applied ecologists and should be utilizing a greater knowledge of this field in their work.

By the same token, environmentalists who aim to regulate the practice of forestry through legislation have an obligation to be guided by the same principles.

Since laymen lack ecological knowledge to an even greater dgree than foresters, it seems incredible to suggest (as some outdoor writers have) that environmentalists should participate in the actual application of the integrated resource policy now taking shape in B.C.

They should, however, be consulted in the planning stages.

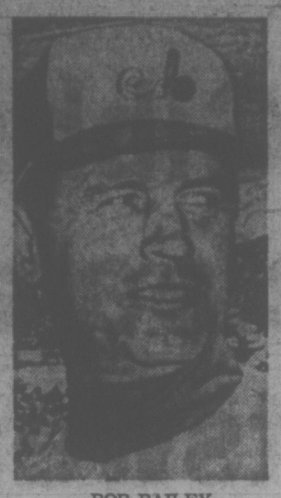
Bailey Ignites Expo Blast



BOB BAILEY
... hits two home runs

By The Associated Press

"I'll remember this game for the rest of my life," said Expos' third baseman Bob Bailey, who put on a show Montreal fans—and New York Mets—will not soon forget.

Bailey slammed two home runs—one of them a grand slam—and drove in seven runs, leading the Expos to a record-shattering 19-8 pasting of the Mets Tuesday night.

The 19 runs and 21 hits were the most ever by the Expos.

After his sixth-inning grand slam, the crowd of 12,279 at Jarry Park gave Bailey a standing ovation the next two times he came to bat—and he responded with a solo homer in the seventh and a single in the eighth.

Elsewhere in the National League, St. Louis Cardinals climbed over the .500 mark for the first time this season by sweeping a twi-night double-header from Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0 and 7-6; Atlanta Braves blanked Houston Astros 1-0; Philadelphia Phillies defeated Chicago Cubs 8-2; San Diego Padres topped Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1, and Cincinnati Reds beat San Francisco Giants 6-3.

METS WERE AHEAD

The Mets were winning 5-4 until Bailey's two-run double in the fifth inning. They broke it open with seven runs in the sixth, on a bases-loaded walk to Ron Woods, Bailey's grand slam and John Boccabella's two-run blast.

They added five runs in the seventh on Ron Fairly's run-scoring single. Ken Singleton's three-run homer and Bailey's solo shot, and one more in the eighth.

Bailey said he was only trying for a single when he hit the grand slam. His plan was to try and poke one of Tug McGraw's screwballs into right field for a base hit.

"McGraw has a tough screwball and it's tough to pull," said the right-handed hitting Bailey, "so I was going to go to right. We were only up by two runs at the time, and I figured a single would score two more and Mike Marshall would hold that kind of lead.

"I don't know what kind of pitch it was. I think it was a fastball around the eyes—and it went out."

The 30-year-old Bailey had been booed by some fans in Jarry Park last season, when he batted .233. But he turned those boos to cheers Tuesday night.

"I think the standing ovations they gave me tonight showed that it was only a minority that got on my back last year," he said.

No baseball game has ever been rained out at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium, a record that was kept intact when Tuesday's game with the Giants finally got under way after a rain delay of two hours, 25 minutes.

Bobby Tolan's tie-breaking homer helped the Reds to victory. Pete Rose scored his 1,044th career run, most ever by a Cincinnati player, while San Francisco's Bobby Bond led off the game with a homer, the ninth time he has done it — an NL record.

15 FOR WOOD

In the American League, Detroit beat Cleveland 5-4 in a battle of the Perrys — Jim and Gaylord. Neither were around at the finish but Gaylord got the loss, his 11th for the Indians.

In other games, Chicago White Sox whipped Texas 15-1 as Wilbur Wood got his 15th victory, but lost the second game of the doubleheader 2-1; New York Yankees took Boston Red Sox 3-1, Kansas City Royals edged Minnesota Twins 7-6, Oakland Athletics blanked California Angels 3-0 and Baltimore Orioles edged Milwaukee Brewers 9-7. Brewers were leading the second game of the double header 4-1 after seven innings when the game was halted by curfew. It will be completed today.

BUGNER PRAISED

Bugner was beaten by Joe Frazier over 12 punishing rounds here Monday night.

Foreman was loud in his praise of Bugner, Britain's European titleholder who was hailed as a hero in the local press for a brave and almost always upright performance against the former champion.

Foreman, however, had nothing to disclose about prospects for a return fight with Frazier, now starting a comeback after losing the title to Foreman in a two-rounds in Jamaica last January.

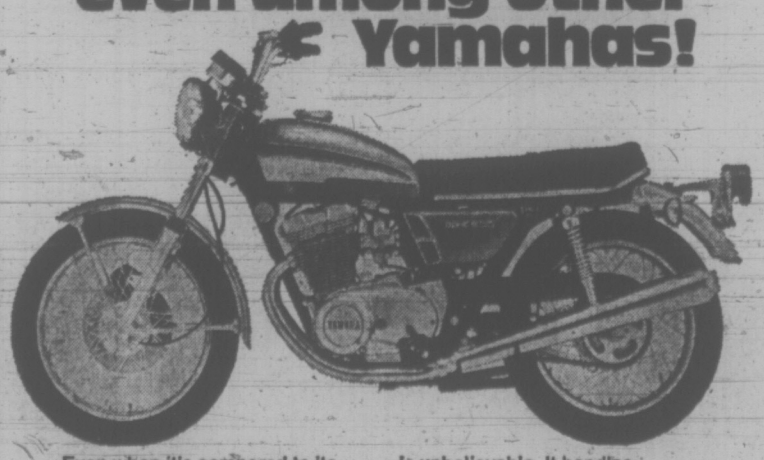
The TX500 stands out-
even among other Yamahas!



Even when it's compared to its own team-mates, the DOHC, 8-valve per cylinder, four-stroke TX 500 still brings comments like: "I've never seen a bike this smooth!" "The acceleration is ... absolutely fantastic!" "The balance is unbelievable. It handles ... well, perfectly! There's no other word for it!"
And, if the TX 500 is that outstanding among Yamahas, imagine what it will do to the competition! Better still, try it — and see for yourself.

Heroin Traffic Operates Like Ordinary Business

By BRUCE OREE
Times Staff

Organizations engaged in the sale of illicit narcotics operate in the same manner as large corporations, Victoria county court learned Tuesday.

Sgt. David Staples, head of Victoria RCMP drug squad, was called to give evidence on the sale and distribution of heroin in B.C. at a trial for five Victorians charged with conspiracy to possess and traffic heroin.

Charged are Daniel Hadden, 57; Michael Kinceses, 27; Wendy Dance, 25; Sharon Dannenberg, 29; and Robert Langer, 30. (See story below.)

Staples, an RCMP officer for 19 years, told the court he was attached to Vancouver's drug squad for nearly four years before he took charge of Victoria's drug section Jan. 16, 1971.

Through "considerable contact" with addicts and informants involved in heroin distribution, Staples began investigating possession and trafficking offences, and later dealt exclusively "in the upper echelons of organizations of heroin trafficking," he said.

Staples' expert qualifications were questioned by Douglas Macfarlane, counsel for Langer, and Roger Cardinal, Dannenberg's lawyer, before Judge M. L. Drake ruled the opinionated evidence admissible.

Describing trafficking rings as "pyramid" structures, with addicts at the base and the individual who subsidizes the importation of heroin at the top, Staples told the court of the methods employed by such organizations.

The first Canadian contact to receive the drug is the "back-end man" who cuts it with milk sugar or a similar adulterate to reduce the strength and increase the profit.

The back-end man may split the heroin into one-ounce packages or bundles of 400 capsules.

Caches are then "laid down" or buried at various places in the dealer's area. A mental or written note of the location is kept.

Working for the back-ender is the "front-end man" who contacts "middlemen" interested in purchasing the one-ounce or 400-cap bundles.

The middleman, or one of his employees, splits the packages into saleable bundles of 50 or 25 caps and lays down more caches.

The bundles are then sold to street traffickers who break them into smaller parcels of between 10 and 15 caps.

The gelatine capsules are placed in rubber condoms to protect them from moisture and the condoms are in turn placed in moisture-proof jars which are buried a few inches underground.

Under cross-examination by Robert Price, representing Kincses and Dance, Staples said the dealers at the bottom of the pyramid can't successfully operate without the higher echelons although they may not know one another.

The sale and distribution of heroin is similar to the production of diamonds, rubber, or any other product, he said.

Equating heroin trafficking with a common legitimate business, Price said the driver of a bread truck would be the courier and "the grocery stores are the bread-pushers."

The trial continues today.

Mingling Brought Arrests

By visiting numerous public bars RCMP drug squad members pieced together an investigation which led to charges of conspiracy against five Victorians, Victoria county court was told Tuesday.

Sgt. David Staples, head of Victoria drug squad, was the principal Crown witness at trial for five Victorians charged with conspiring to possess and traffic heroin between Sept. 8 and Oct. 27.

Charged are Daniel Hadden, 57; Michael Kincses, 27; Wendy Dance, 25; Sharon Dannenberg, 29; and Robert Langer, 30.

Staples testified he and other drug squad members visited several local bars where some of the accused and others named in the indictment often met.

Conversations were often inaudible to Staples but he did overhear the word "bundle" used by Gerry Fox while talking with Hadden at the Colony Motor Inn, Oct. 7. Hadden used the word "caps," he said.

★ ★ ★

Fox was named in the indictment but not charged.

"Then all we have out of this investigation as far as words go is the use of the words 'bundles' twice by Fox, and the word 'caps' by Hadden," said Robert Price, counsel for Dance and Kincses.

Asked if the words "may have been used in some quite innocent context," Staples replied, "probably not."

"I'm not asking you for probabilities at this point," said Price.

There's a "certain fascination" in talking about trafficking in illicit drugs, suggested Price, and it's unlikely people involved in the heroin trade would talk in audible tones in a public bar.

Why then, asked Price, did Staples overhear two words in particular when he was unable to hear the words preceeding and following them?

★ ★ ★

Those words "made an impression," Staples replied.

Staples testified he and Const. John Johnstone were driving in the 400-block Quebec Street Oct. 26 when Dannenberg and Dance came out of the Royal Scot Apartments at 425 Quebec. Dannenberg carried a brown paper bag.

The two climbed into a cream-colored Meteor and began to pull out from the curb when the two officers stopped them.

Staples checked the bag and found five spice jars containing several condoms filled with 250 capsules of white powder.

The capsules were divided into bundles of 25 which would indicate they were being sold at the street level in the hierarchy of the heroin trade, said Staples.

Street musicians and juggler at Heritage Court

Sunshyne Passes Through

Sunshyne, eight young musicians and a juggler, has an $11,880 Opportunities for Youth grant to tour B.C. communities playing music in the streets.

They arrived Monday afternoon to give a series of 15-minute concerts near the Empress. Audiences were enthusastic but puzzled—there was no hat strategically placed for donations. Just nine kids playing Dixieland jazz and having as much fun as their listeners.

Band leader Bruce Fairbairn says his group never bothers to take out a licence to play in city streets.

"We take them by surprise," Fairbairn said Tuesday. "We arrive. We give our concert and we go."

He said the group tries to hit communities during festival weekends such as the Campbell River Salmon Festival or Kelowna regatta.

They play mostly old favorites like Hold that Tiger and Bill Bailey, but are willing to take a crack at anything the crowd requests. Average length of a performance is 15 minutes.

This is the second year the band, composed of music students from Simon Fraser and the University of British Columbia, have received an OFY grant to entertain the public.

Sunshyne headed back to its home base in Vancouver Tuesday afternoon but plans to return to Victoria for a longer visit.

"Victoria is a real walk-around town," Fairbairn said.

So far police have not troubled the group.

"We try to keep our crowds off the streets," Fairbairn said.

However, assistant city solicitor Bill McIntosh says Sunshyne needs a permit to play in city streets. In his opinion they constitute "unusual and extraordinary traffic" which requires a licence.

'All the Bodies Going to VGH' Pollen Informed

Professional "rivalry" has arisen between the Royal Jubilee and Victoria General hospitals over Victoria's new emergency ambulance service, Mayor Peter Pollen said today.

The service has been operating only three days but, Pollen told reporters, he has already received a number of telephone complaints from doctors that "all the bodies are going to the General."

The mayor said as a result the city has had to ask the VGH, which is running the new service under an arrangement with the city, to be as objective as possible in apportioning ambulance deliveries of sick and injured people.

"It's interesting to note that even in an illustrious profession such as the medical profession there appears to be a distinct rivalry," he commented.

He said indications midway through the first week are that the service is being run very efficiently, but it is "a little disconcerting" for the city to receive complaints that the bulk of emergency cases are being taken to one hospital.

Ground rules were established before the service began to help determine which hospital should handle any given patient, he said. These were based on the wishes of the patient and the hospital at which his or her doctor practised.

If those factors did not apply for some reason, the patient would be taken to the nearest hospital.

"That is all we can really do, and hope that this policy is adhered to by the drivers," Pollen said.

At this morning's press conference the mayor also confirmed that the Royal Canadian Air Force Association 800 Wing has now given the city a firm commitment to provide a second, stand-by ambulance for the city service.

Health and welfare committee chairman Ald. Percy Frampton said the offer to provide the ambulance at an estimated $10,000 cost arrived at city hall Tuesday.

Frampton said the RCAFA has agreed to provide the vehicle fully equipped, and he hopes it may be possible to have it in service by mid-September. The offer is expected to be recommended for approval at Thursday's meeting of the health committee.

Meanwhile, the lone new ambulance has made 15 runs in its first three days.

Victoria General Hospital's assistant executive director and comptroller John Murray said there are an average of five emergency calls every 24 hours in Victoria.

On duty at all times, the ambulance is stationed outside the hospital's emergency department and is dispatched from Victoria police station.

NEW DIRECTOR of nursing at Victoria General Hospital is Barbara Burke, 38, who formerly held the same position at Doctors Hospital in Toronto. The post at VGH has been vacant since the resignation of Sister Mary Doris last summer. A native of Montreal, the new director will be in charge of nearly 300 on the nursing staff.

Board to Review Firing of Teacher

A three-man board of reference has been appointed by Education Minister Eileen Dailly to review the case of a Victoria teacher who was fired earlier this year by the Greater Victoria school board.

Kenneth N. Beattie, a teacher for seven years at Oak Bay Junior Secondary, was dismissed by the school board April 10 after failing to obey an order by the board for him to return to work.

District superintendent A. J. Longmore said today Beattie spent long periods of time away from work, giving illness as his reason.

Reports from the district's medical health officer and a psychiatrist indicated the teacher was fit to work, however, and Beattie was so ordered by the school board in March.

After an interview with board members and Longmore, Beattie was dismissed. Under the Public Schools Act reinstatement or dismissal must be effected within seven days of the teacher's interview with the board.

Chairman of the board of reference is Vancouver lawyer K. W. Fawcus. The two other members will be Delta school trustee Fred Gingell, a charter accountant, and W. T. Gutteridge, a North Vancouver teacher.

Opening date for the board's hearings have not been set, but the hearings will likely take place in Victoria.

GIRL DIES

A seven-year-old girl died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Tuesday night from injuries received in a June 23 traffic mishap on Cedar Hill Road.

Group Fights Road Route Near Library

The petition will be sent to Highways Minister Graham Lea.

In the preamble to the petition, the organizers state, "It is clear that the location of a major no-access highway so close to the library will make both the library and the activities in the meeting room practically impossible."

They claim that public funds used to build the library — which was only completed in October, 1972 — "will be totally wasted."

The department of highways is considering three proposals for the extension of Blanshard Street. Two of them — "still under active consideration," according to the petitioners—will close off access to the new library branch.

Mayor Knocks Bid To Lease Theatre

Mayor Peter Pollen dashed cold water today on a proposal that the Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee should lease, rather than buy, the Royal Theatre on Broughton as an interim civic cultural centre.

Pollen branded the suggestion by the Pacific Coast Centre Foundation as "rather uninformed," and said if such impractical ideas are bandied about it could "seriously jeopardize" the current efforts to purchase the property from Famous Players Ltd.

In a letter to the city, the foundation says the Royal is badly in need of repair and refurbishing, which would add at least $250,000 to the estimated $300,000 cost of purchasing the building.

It states that unless adjoining land is available to allow for a major expansion of the present auditorium, "the existing seating capacity is such as to render the building totally uneconomic, and we are convinced that it would very quickly become a serious burden upon the taxpayers."

Leasing the theatre would avoid such capital outlay and the money saved could be committed toward the eventual capital cost of constructing a permanent civic cultural centre, the foundation's letter says.

However, Pollen countered the arguments today by pointing out that the lease based on the building's replacement value would be extremely costly.

He said the four core municipalities have expressed interest in discussing the purchase, with the general feeling that the price is attractive enough to be a "reasonably good buy" on an intermunicipal basis.

The foundation, he said, has some "grandiose ideas" for a cultural centre costing millions of dollars, but until such time as the provincial government shows definite interest in supporting that kind of project "I think one must be very practical."

Pollen said the PCCF should show some initiative in collecting $100,000 of "seed money" to demonstrate to senior governments that there is keen community support for the proposed facility.

The proposal to acquire the Royal Theatre will be discussed by the Intermunicipal Committee next week.

Tot's Recovery 'a Miracle'

For her and her husband, Douglas, the ordeal started Saturday night when they learned that their second youngest child, five-year-old Christopher, had been found unconscious in water off Maple Bank Road.

He had been taken to Victoria General Hospital still unconscious.

Earlier his heart had stopped. But Mrs. Jean Stone of 278 Island Highway, a nurse who was at the scene when the boy was pulled from the water, had been able to revive his heartbeat using mouth-to-mouth respiration.

Police later commended Mrs. Stone and Gary Lyon of 757 Lily Street for their first aid, and Michael and Robin West of West Vancouver and Kristin Ross of 1625 Esquimalt Road, for rescuing the boy.

"He was in very bad shape when we left him Saturday night," Mrs. Maginley said. "The doctors told us to be prepared for brain damage."

But at 3 a.m. Sunday he began to regain consciousness and soon he was alert enough to ask for breakfast. The Maginleys saw the boy again at 4:30 a.m.

By Tuesday the boy was up and around with no signs of brain damage.

The doctors also told the Maginleys to be prepared for "a whopping big case of pneumonia."

"But so far he doesn't even have the sniffles," Mrs. Maginley said this morning.

Christopher has two sisters, aged 12 years and 18 months and two brothers, aged 10 and 9.

TORCH SPARKS SUITE BLAZE

A $10,000 fire gutted a suite at a Douglas Street apartment block Tuesday, forcing about two dozen people to evacuate.

Fire Chief Eric Simmons said fire broke out in suite 205 of the Emily Carr Apartments, 200 Douglas, shortly before 2 p.m.

It was apparently caused by a blowtorch being used by a plumber installing a new sink, he said.

The fire in the suite occupied by Mrs. M. Fordyce climbed the inside wall and mushroomed into the floor and roof of 305, home of A. Russell, said Simmons.

There were no injuries.

Second Look Coming For Highrise Bylaw

Esquimalt council decided Tuesday night to take another look at a proposed bylaw creating two types of highrise zoning.

The bylaw, which has received three readings, was returned for more zoning committee study after Ald. George McCreadie said the legislation wouldn't give council adequate control of development.

Mayor Art Young said the delay will mean the bylaw won't be passed until September because council recesses during August.

The bylaw provides new zonings for highrise apartments and highrise apartments with ground level stores.

McCreadie said the bylaw would be either "too lenient or too strict — as Victoria has found to its sorrow. I don't feel we have the experience.

A contract should be negotiated with each developer, he said.

Mayor Young disagreed, saying if the bylaw was too stringent the developer could ask council for a land-use contract.

"We'd have something to bargain with. Under the Land-Use Act, we barter."

If council decided land-use contracts are the best route, the mayor said a set of guidelines, not a zoning bylaw, is needed.

Ald. Jim McEvay supported McCreadie.

Council is planning to rezone two areas for highrises between Admirals Road and Nelson on Esquimalt Road.

New Split Requested On Bureau

Saanich wants to share a landlord-tenant bureau with other municipalities, but it has so few tenants that the usual intermunicipal financing formula should not apply, council agreed Tuesday.

Victoria has invited Saanich to share a Community Council-sponsored bureau which costs about $12,800 a year to run.

But Saanich inquiries at the bureau have run at only 10 to 15 per cent. Also, only about 10 per cent of Saanich residents are tenants, compared with about 50 per cent in Victoria.

So council has instructed Saanich administration to investigate alternative financing formulas. One method could be a "base cost plus user fee," a municipal official said today.

Saanich 'Twins' to Retire

Two Saanich works superintendents born the same day retire within days of each other next month.

Roads superintendent Jack Roberts and drainage superintendent Dick Williams will be 60 on Sept. 19, both being born 11 months before the outbreak of the First World War.

Roberts begins retirement leave Aug. 22 and at last word Williams will leave two days later. The variation is due to different holiday entitlement.

Williams has more service, 31 years and what will be almost six months from the day he started March 1, 1942. Roberts joined Saanich near the end of the Second World War following his discharge from the army, starting April 1, 1945.

Exactly one week later the war in Europe ended and Roberts was embarked on his municipal career as a spare truck driver. Then he was a laborer in the old Ward 3 — the Cloverdale area — was promoted to foreman, district foreman, municipal asphalt foreman and from 1965-68 assistant public works superintendent under Williams.

The two became equals in 1968 when Williams was named drainage superintendent and Roberts put in charge of roads.

Roberts leaves with fond memories:

"It't been a pleasure working for the municipality and I've enjoyed every day of it," he said, preparing to travel in his retirement.

Even the heavy snows and subsequent flooding had their light side. Roberts has a newspaper photographer's picture of himself "rescuing" an old man from flooded Interurban Road.

"It was lovely. I saved an old man from a flood," he said, recalling when Panama Flats used to flood over the road between Grange and Marigold.

"This old man took down the barricade and took his old Pontiac into it. I was there in my rubber boots when he called for help. The water was just coming in the doors and I carried him to safety through the water."

Dick Williams started with the municipality as a ward foreman, then became construction foreman, and a general foreman for public works after that.

Williams will spend his retirement travelling as much as possible in his new minimobile home. His first stop will be Arizona in November.

Carilloneur Plays Tonight

Provincial carilloneur Herman Bergink will give a special concert this evening from 7:30 to 8:30 to cellebrate the U.S. Independence Day.

The concert is in addition to regular concerts held Sundays from 3 to 4 p.m., Wednesdays from noon to 1 p.m. and Fridays from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

BOY KILLED

DUNCAN — RCMP are seeking witnesses to an accident which resulted in the death Tuesday of eight-year-old Kelly Gene Nugent of 3197 Drinkwater Road, just north of Duncan.

Police said a motorcycle driven by David Lloyd Blasko, 18, also of Duncan, struck the boy as he was standing on or near the road in front of his home talking to a playmate at about 7:30 p.m.

The motorcycle was apparently passing a car when the accident happened.

Police said they would like to talk to the driver of the car, believed to be a green Volkswagen and carrying three people.

Firm Fined For Dumping

DUNCAN — A Vancouver Island logging company has been ordered to clean up Little Shaw Creek near Lake Cowichan after it was fined $1,500 for dumping logging debris into the fater.

Pacific Logging Co. Ltd. of Mesachie Lake was convicted in Duncan provincial court last week of charges under the Canada Fisheries Act. The dumping was done between March 1 and May 1, 1973.

RNs to Seek Hefty Increase

Registered nurses in Victoria will seek a substantial increase in the basic salary in province-wide negotiations this fall, a city doctor said Tuesday.

Dr. G. Scott Wallace said he supports moves to effect a differential between registered nurses and licensed practical nurses and for registered nurses who work in specialized areas like operating rooms and coronary care units over floor nurses.

At present, the starting salary for registered nurses in British Columbia is $685 a month.

But at Royal Jubilee Hospital, practical nurses recently received pay parity with orderlies giving them $709 a month. A registered nurse, who is trained for three years, would have to work for one year as an RN to match the practical nurse scale.

Wallace, a director of the Royal Jubilee Hospital and MLA for Oak Bay, said there is a local movement among registered nurses suggesting a 35 per cent differential over the practical nurse scale.

He said he doesn't know enough to support a specific differential, but there had to be a recognition that RNs have more responsibilities and greater training then practical nurses and therefore were entitled to more pay.

The current contract between the Registered Nurses Association of B.C. and the B.C. Hospitals Association expires at the end of this year. Local RN chapters are drawing up resolutions to be considered in province-wide negotiations which will start in the fall.

TWO MORE MEMBERS FOR HARBOR BOARD

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons gave final approval Tuesday to a private member's bill to increase the minimum membership of the Nanaimo Harbor Commission to five from three members.

Joseph-Phillippe Guay, parliamentary secretary for transport, annuonced the government's support of the bill with a warning that "the government will not embark on a series of bills to enlarge the membership" of other harbor commissions.

The amendments to the 1964 Harbor Commission Act, sponsored by T. C. Douglas (NDP—Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands), must receive Senate approval before they become law.

Mr. Douglas said the bill will enable citizens to become involved in plans for expansion of the port, which he said is destined to become the major port on Vancouver Island.

CLIP AND TRY THIS DELICIOUS ROGERS' RECIPE

Rocky Road Frosting

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 ounce unsweetened chocolate
½ cup golden brown sugar, lightly packed
2 tablespoons Rogers' Golden Syrup
3 tablespoons cream
½ cup icing sugar, sifted
½ cup miniature marshmallows (or cut-up large marshmallows)

Place butter, chocolate, brown sugar, Rogers' Golden Syrup and cream in a saucepan. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly; boil hard 2 minutes (until bubbles are large and glossy). Remove from heat and mix in icing sugar and marshmallows, stirring until melted. Immediately spread over top of cake, letting it drip down sides. Garnish with pecan or walnut halves. This is enough frosting for the top of an 8" or 9" layer cake or square cake; or a cake baked in a 10" tube pan.

Buy ROGERS' in the tin or popular plastic container

Doubts Over Group Future

VANCOUVER (CP) — Medical Investment Corp. (Medicor) has reported increased net income for the year ended Dec. 31 but the auditors of the annual report say there are "significant uncertainties" about the ability of the Minneapolis-based conglomerate to "continue on an on-going basis."

Medicor is the trouble-plagued chief owner of Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League. The company owns 60.1 per cent of the shares of Northwest Sports Enterprises, owners of the Canucks.

The report shows Medicor's net income was $1,327,074 or 99 cents a share, fully diluted to 67 cents a share, compared with net earnings of $670,503 or 65 cents a share, 49 cents fully diluted, in 1971.

The report also shows earnings of Northwest Sports in 1972 of $1,087,379, compared with 1971 earnings of $634,945.

But the auditors, Haskins and Sells, appended a note to the report saying that a number of factors, including the conviction on theft and false-prospectus charges of Medicor and Northwest Sports president Tom Scallen, contribute to uncertainty about the company's long-term prospects.

Scallen was convicted in April of theft of $3 million by converting to Medicor money raised by Northwest Sports and of issuing a false prospectus to induce the public to purchase shares in Northwest Sports. He was sentenced to four years in prison and is appealing the conviction.

CONTROL WEAK

Unlike most financial reports, earnings for the parent and subsidiary are not consolidated, but are presented separately in parallel columns.

"There are substantial restrictions on the control of Medicor of Northwest," the notes to the financial statements say.

"As a result there is a separation of the conduct of the business of Northwest and its subsidiaries and the cessation of the normal parent-subsidiary relationship."

The Bank of British Columbia holds all of Medicor's shares of Northwest Sports as security for a $5.45-million loan and exercises all voting and other rights attached to the pledged shares.

A number of other factors also contribute to the uncertainty about Medicor, the auditors say.

Among these factors are:

—A consolidated working-capital deficiency of $8 million as of Dec. 31 of Medicor and its wholly-owned subsidiaries;

— A number of civil suits in the United States against the company or its subsidiaries;

—Litigation with the holder of certain convertible subordinated notes;

Shabby Terminal Rapped At Docks in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Passenger facilities at Vancouver docks were criticized Tuesday after heavy ship arrivals put the shabby terminal building under strain and caused delays. A spokesman for a shipping company, Bill Ellwyn, said certain docks were not well-maintained when not in use and created difficulties during the peak season. "What's needed is a new terminal," he said. "Vancouver probably handles more cruises in summer than New York."

★

WILLIAMS LAKE (CP) — The director of the Kamloops-Cariboo Fish and Wildlife branch said Tuesday the number of cattle allowed to graze in British Columbia may have to be reduced to preserve the province's wildlife population. George Stringer told a meeting of the legislature's standing committee on agriculture that overgrazing and changes in the number of forest fires are being studied as causes of the decline in B.C.'s wildlife population.

★

VANCOUVER (CP) — Plans for Canada's first spinal cord injury unit were approved Tuesday by the board of trustees of Vancouver General Hospital. The 22-bed facility, expected to open early next year, will be located at Shaughnessy Hospital but be administered by Vancouver General. Patients from all areas of the province will be referred to the new unit which will locate in one place all specialty health care and preliminary rehabilitation for spinal cord injury patients in the province.

★

KELOWNA (CP) — City administrator Doug Herbert said Tuesday the number of rezoning applications coming before city council "is approaching the crisis level" and can only be dealt with through a community plan for the expanded city. Herbert called for a moratorium on rezoning until next March 1 so a community plan could be developed.

★

NELSON (CP) — Negotiations between Notre Dame University's board of governors and its faculty association resumed Tuesday with mediator E. C. Sims. Talks had been dormant since Sims left Nelson June 14 after meeting with negotiating teams for a week. The mediator, who will be here until Friday, said both parties should soon begin heavy negotiating with concrete proposals likely to be discussed.

★

VANCOUVER (CP) — Drinking driving violations here rose 75 per cent during the first six months of 1973, compared with the same period last year. So far 3,754 motorists have received either roadside licence suspensions or criminal charges compared with 2,146 motorists in 1972.

★

QUESNEL (CP)—The Quesnel and District Chamber of Commerce Tuesday urged the government to construct a new children's hospital on the Lower Mainland.

★

FORT ST. JOHN (CP) — Peter Adam Schneider of Taylor, charged with possession of stolen property, was remanded Tuesday to stand trial either Aug. 29 or Aug. 31 on the charges. Schneider was charged with 16 others after police alleged a petroleum refinery near here was losing petroleum to thieves since 1970.

★

KELOWNA (CP) — Politicians competed with spectators for space at Tuesday's swearing-in ceremonies for this expanded Okanagan Valley community's newly-elected city council. Politicians including former premier W. A. C. Bennett, MLA for South Okanagan, Conservative leader Derril Warren, who is campaigning for the legislature seat left vacant by Bennett's retirement, Mayor W. C. (Wally) Bennett, no relation to the former premier, and 10 aldermen vied for space with nearly 100 spectators in a crowded auditorium. In his inaugural address, Mayor Bennett reiterated his election promises to work for improvements to roads, policing and water facilities.

PHILLIPS EASES OLYMPICS BID

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver would drop its bid for the 1980 Winter Olympics if either the provincial government or the residents of Whistler Mountain are opposed, Mayor Art Phillips said Tuesday.

City officials and other members of a special committee preparing a bid for the games believes the cost will be minimal and the environment will be helped, he added.

The mayor said he expects some initial resistance, especially from the provincial government, on those two grounds. If the resistance can't be overcome, the city will abandon the bid, he said.

"We won't force it down their throats," Phillips said.

He said he was pleased at the announcement from the provincial government of a study of the development of the Whistler area, 60 miles north of here, and believes this is compatable with the plans for the holding of the winter games.

The major problem in the area is lack of water and sewer facilities, the mayor said.

Phillips stressed that the winter games will not be on a large scale and have little effect on the city itself. He compared the impact on Vancouver with that of a large convention.

Ex-Magistrate Jailed For Tax Evasion

WINNIPEG (CP) — John R. Knight, a former mayor of Thompson, Man., was given a three-month jail term and a $2,500 fine Tuesday for evading income tax on $46,264 income earned over a three-year period.

Knight, 56, a former magistrate in Thompson who is currently on leave of absence from his post there as chief county court clerk, pleaded guilty June 15. He also must pay about $8,000 owing in income tax.

Knight, mayor of Thompson in 1967 and 1968, began the leave of absence from his court clerk's post after the tax charge was laid April 2, 1973.

Defence counsel Jack Drapack said Knight "lacked one thing and that is a solid financial head." But Judge Wallace Darichuk said Knight, as a magistrate, was "presumed to know the law."

Judge Darichuk said the reason he didn't give Knight a longer jail term was his "substantial contribution" to Thompson, and the fact that Knight's position in the community was damaged by the conviction.

Strikers Hold Pep Rally

EDMONTON (CP) — About 650 members of Edmonton local 41 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees staged a pep rally Tuesday to mark the 24th day of the strike of 1,030 general workers at the city-owned Royal Alexandra Hospital.

Ian Downie, a spokesman for the union, said morale among the strikers is still high. Hospital officials said Tuesday that only a handful have crossed picket lines and returned to work.

Robbery Victim Dies

EDMONTON (CP) — Rodney Ekman, 23, a gas station attendant knocked unconscious June 24 when $277 was stolen from the service station where he was employed, died Tuesday morning.

He had been in critical condition in hospital since he was struck on the forehead with a shock absorber after the robbery, which occurred about 4:30 a.m.

Protection Act Proclaimed

EDMONTON (CP) — Legislation allowing control of almost any industrial use that disturbs the surface of the land was proclaimed Tuesday by the Alberta cabinet.

Environment Minister Bill Yurko said the act will place greater emphasis on prevention of land-surface disturbances, particularly in strip mining, oil sands excavation projects and interprovincial pipeline operations.

Before the regulations are brought into force, however, they will be discussed with representatives of industry, the cabinet minister said.

HOSPITAL OXYGEN SUPPLY JUST MISSED BY WRECKER

VIETNAM SERVICE RIBBON MULLED

SAIGON (CP) — Canadian servicemen are wondering whether the months in Vietnam warrant a campaign ribbon to be worn on their uniforms.

Such a ribbon has been approved by the four countries of the International Commission of Control and Supervision — Canada, Hungary, Poland and Indonesia.

It has red and white stripes with one green stripe in the centre, using all the colors of the four national flags.

The design was forwarded to the national capitals for approval and no word has as yet been received from Ottawa.

Judge Orders Transfusion

MONTREAL (CP) — A baby girl with a heart defect born to a Jehovah's Witness couple was subjected Tuesday to a blood exchange ordered by Quebec superior court after her parents refused permission for the procedure.

'Chunnel' Gets Priority Over 3rd U.K. Airport

Manchester Guardian

LONDON — The British government is being forced to postpone the construction of Maplin airport in favor of the channel tunnel linking Britain and France.

Faced with the public expenditure figures for the next five years, most of the government departments concerned have recognized that the country can not afford two multi-million dollar projects at the same time.

Both the tunnel and Maplin, chosen as the site of London's third airport, are due for completion in 1980.

The government has not, however, abandoned the Maplin project.

Ministers remain convinced that it will be necessary, even if it has to be postponed.

In delaying Maplin in favor of the Channel tunnel, abbreviated to 'Chunnel', the government will be embarking on the cheaper project first.

Although estimated capital costs are about the same — between $2,064 million and $2,193 million — the French will have to find half the money for the tunnel, whereas the British would have to find all the money for Maplin.

Most of the $1,096 million or so of British money which the tunnel will require will be privately subscribed, but the investment will be guaranteed by the government.

And the guarantee would have to be raised on the same money markets as the government itself normally depends on for cash.

Honor for Ealey

NEW YORK (CP - AP) — Chuck Ealey, who led Hamilton Tiger - Cats to the 1972 Grey Cup in his rookie season in the Canadian Football League, will be honored — along with Willie Mays, Muhammad Ali and Wilt Chamberlain — by the National Black Sports Hall of Fame on Sept. 10.

CIA Less Popular

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Central Intelligence Agency has received fewer applications for employment since the Watergate scandal erupted, but the FBI and the Secret Service report applications on the upswing.

A spokesman for the CIA said there has been a slight "but clearly discernible" decline in the number of formal applications for employment received by that agency during the past few months.

He said, however, that it was too early to tell whether it reflected any disenchantment on the part of young people with government intelligence operations because of the Waterate case of simply reflected changing employment conditions in some parts of the country.

Both the CIA and the FBI have come under criticism during the Watergate investigation, particularly the latter for failing to investigate thoroughly enough the subsequent events after the break-in and bugging of the Democratic National Committee June 17, 1972. The FBI also has suffered an internal upheaval since the death of its only director, J. Edgar Hoover, in 1972 and the resulting effort to find an acceptable replacement.

A spokesman for the secret service said "there is no reason to think the Watergate has hurt our enrollment." He said turnover among the agents hired to guard the president and other top federal officials is minimal.

Skylab Data On Sun

HOUSTON (UPI) — Scientists now have their first good information on the form of the sun's magnetic field, represented by butterfly-shaped white streaks on an electronically reproduced photograph beamed back from Skylab.

That photograph and another, showing streams of charged particles flowing rainbow-like across the face of the sun, wee released by NASA Tuesday.

Scientists believed the sun — like the earth — had a magnetic field, but had no information on its form. The ultraviolet radiation telescope on Skylab pictured the electrically charged magnesium particles flowing in the field. The particles are 60,000 miles above the sun's surface and are heated to 2.7 million degrees fahrenheit by the intense energy released by the star.

Earthbound telescopes cannot view the ultraviolet radiation because of the dense atmosphere and unmanned satellites have never carried as powerful an instrument as the ultraviolet spectroheliometer on Skylab.

The photo showing the iron particles flowing 25,000 miles into space and back into the surface should help scientists unravel more of the mysteries of how the sun's energy is released. Researchers said the iron particles are 3.6 million degrees fahrenheit.

Both photos were produced near the end of the first Skylab flight of Charles (Pete) Conrad, Joseph Kerwin and Paul Weitz in June. The Skylab 2 crew of Alan Bean, Owne Garriott and Jack Lousma will collect more data for solar physicists on their 56-day mission starting July 28.

Ground controllers can operate the spectroheliometer, one of several telescopes in the space station's giant solar observatory, by radio command even without astronauts aboard. The data is beamed to earth on radio waves to produce a computer picture.

Cuba Prisons Progressive

By CLAUDE REGIN

HAVANA (Reuter) — Prisoners in Cuba build houses and schools and are allowed home at weekends under a rehabilitation scheme which the government believes is one of the most progressive in the world.

Some prisoners, too, are given time and opportunity to be together with their wives or girl-friends in special "conjugal homes" inside the prisons.

Rehabilitation has played a major part in Cuba's penal systems since 1964, improving further after Maj. Sergio del Valle became interior minister in 1969.

There have been no further reports of hunger strikes such as one that took place at La Cabafia fortress four years ago when about 80 political prisoners were said to have refused food for 41 days.

The grim, grey-walled 17th century Spanish fortress, which overlooks Havana harbor, holds mostly prisoners who refuse to join rehabilitation schemes on political grounds. They are usually serving long sentences for anti-Castro activities in the early 1960s.

They do not work and have little chance of having their sentences shortened. But, according to interior ministry sources and other observers, they are a minority. Most Cuban prisoners, including political ones, join rehabilitation schemes voluntarily.

Interior ministry officials say the aim is not to punish criminals but to re-educate, rehabilitate and re-integrate into society as many as possible. Figures for the number of prisoners in Cuban jails are not available.

Prisoners who show a "positive" attitude towards work and rehabilitation are taught a trade which they start using before their sentences expire.

Great emphasis is put on work in this country which suffers from a chronic shortage of manpower. Each prisoner is considered as a potential worker whose labor is useful to himself as well as society.

Cuban penitentiaries now are built in developing areas of the countryside so that the prisoners can be near their place of work. They usually build schools, apartment blocks and dairies in rural areas.

Some take part in agricultural labor, such as the sugar harvest. Others build new penitentiaries.

Cuban prisoners start their sentences in a maximum security prison, from where they are later transferred to a medium security establishment, and then to a minimum security compound, depending on their conduct.

In the maximum security prison they learn a trade which they ply for a normal salary once they reach the minimum security stage. By then most prisoners are allowed provisional freedom and many settle down in the same area, sticking to the same job.

Prisoners whose attitude is "positive" are entitled to monthly leaves so that "family life is not brusquely interupted," as penal authorities put it. Some penitentiaries have built-in conjugal homes where inmates can spend several hours or several days a month with their wives or girl-friends.

Interior ministry officials feel that this innovation is one of the most important because it prevents cases of sexual perversions developed by many prisoners in conventional jails.

Artificial Liver Claimed

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — A 28-year-old physician-scientist has developed the world's first artificial liver by harnessing the capabilities of living liver cells.

Dr. Kenneth Matsumura of the Private Immunity Research Laboratory said development of an artificial liver had long been believed a near impossibility because, unlike the kidney and the heart, the liver has a variety of complex functions.

Liver failure is one of the most common causes of death. An estimated six to eight million Americans suffer from varying stages of progressive liver failure.

The liver not only detoxifies poisons and filters body waste products, but also synthesizes blood clotting proteins and plays a vital role in the metabolism of fats and sugars.

Matsumura said his book-size invention, called an hepatic support device, is designed to be used outside the body, like an artificial kidney, processing blood from a patient and returning the threated blood.

Matsumura said he has put in nearly 10 years on research for the device. He has been granted a patent on it, clearing the way for clinical trials, he said.

He said all the technologies necessary to make the invention practical have been perfected and a small-scale production of the device was underway to supply researchers.

Matsumura, a graduate of the University of California medical centre in San Francisco, started conducting medical research at the age of 14 and published his first professional paper at 19.

THE SUN FAR OUT THURSDAY

CHICAGO (AP) — Like it or not, you're going to go to aphelion Thursday.

There's no avoiding it, since aphelion is that point of the earth's orbit which is farthest from the sun and that's where this planet is going to be July 4.

That will put earth 94,513 million miles from the sun, more than three million miles farther away than on Jan. 2, the date earth reached its perihelion — the point on its eliptical orbit closest to the sun.

The changing distance, astronomers at Adler Planetarium said, prevents summers in the Northern Hemisphere from being even hotter than they are, and makes winters a bit colder in the Southern Hemisphere.

Uranium Control Laws by Fall?

WINNIPEG (CP) — Legislation on the ownership and control of uranium will be introduced in Parliament this fall, Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said Tuesday.

The minister, who is touring Canadian cities seeking reaction to the federal government's recent policy paper on energy, made the comment in an interview, but gave no details of the proposed legislation.

He said only that the government hopes to keep "a tight Canadian hold" on nuclear power, which is expected to become an increasingly important source of energy toward the end of the century.

Macdonald also expressed concern about the Alberta government's two-price system for natural gas and said he hopes an "amicable," compromise policy can be reached through negotiations.

If Alberta takes extreme action, such as blocking gas supplies, in carrying out its policy, the federal government will seek a constitutional solution, he warned.

Macdonald is to visit major cities in the west and Ontario later this week and Quebec and the Maritimes next week to get first impressions of the energy policy paper.

The paper says Canada will be able to meet its own power needs in the next quarter-century or more, but the prices of oil and natural gas could double or triple in the process.

At a news conference Tuesday, Manitoba Industry Minister Leonard Evans said his province is concerned about increases in the cost of energy and wants to keep prices as low as possible.

Vaporizer Off Market While Death Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States government and the maker of Pertussin medicated vaporizer are pulling the product of the market while officials study the death of an Ohio child.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) said it also is studying the formulation of 22 other aerosol products for possible hazards.

The FDA recommended that anyone with one of the 30 million cans of Pertussin medicated vaporizer spray sold since 1959 return it or destroy it.

Pertussin medicated vaporizer is marketed by Cheseborough-Ponds Inc. and labelled for temporary relief of nasal congestion.

The label directions recommend filling a room with the spray and spraying it heavily on pillows and sheets.

The FDA said 18 deaths have been linked to the Pertussin medicated spray. Seventeen were due to what the FDA called misuse, but a five-year-old Cleveland girl was found dead in her bed April 18 after her room had been sprayed.

The girl's death "occurred under conditions of use that FDA does not at this time consider to be abuse or gross misuse," the agency announcement said.

"Even though the company believes the product is completely safe when used as directed, we will comply immediately and fully with the FDA request to recall the product," said a spokesman for Cheseborough-Ponds.

The company and the FDA emphasized that the recall in no way affects any other Pertussin product.

An FDA spokesman said the suspect ingredient in Pertussin vaporizer is trichloroethane, which is used as a solvent for the active ingredients and to reduce the pressure of the propellant gases in the can.

Trichloroethane is an anesthetic, which has been shown to induce heart irregularities.

Since Pertussin vaporizer and the other products under review by the FDA are non-prescription drugs, the agency does not know now which might contain trichlorcethane or in what quantities the ingredient might be present, a spokesman said.

In addition to cough and cold remedies, an FDA spokesman said, the review also includes breath fresheners and any other product sold in aerosol form and designed to be sprayed into the mouth or lungs.

ALARMING EXTRA

Visitors to the Haunted House at Oswego and Belleville streets received an extra, unscheduled scare for their money Sunday.

Patrons were shaking in their boots, said Fire Chief Eric Simmons, when the fire alarm sounded throughout the building.

Typewriter Inventor Got $12,000

By The Associated Press

The first typewriter was born more than 250 years ago, but 51 inventors created writing machines before one suitable for mass production was developed.

Englishman Henry Mill was granted a patent for a writing machine by Queen Anne in 1714 and has been called the father of the typewriter, says a report of the National Geographic Society. But one could write faster by hand than operate Mill's gadget or any of the 50 cumbersome contrivances that followed it.

Then along came Christopher Latham Sholes who is credited with two firsts. He came up with the first workable writing machine and he was the first to pick out the immortal words "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party."

It seems that a lively political campaign was underway when Sholes perfected his machine. Hence his clairon call to all good men.

Just a century ago, Sholes sold his interest in the typewriter to E. Remington and Sons, then a small arms manufacturer, for $12,000. Years later when typewriter sales were booming, Sholes wryly commented: "All my life I have been trying to escape being a millionaire, and at last I think I have succeeded."

It was in 1866 that Sholes, a printer and editor, and two partners began work on their typewriter at Kleinstuber's machine shop in Milwaukee. By 1867, they had finished the first working model, a crude mechanism with piano keys.

For the ensuing five years, Sholes sought to improve his typewriter. Some of his friends were newspaper reporters and they helped by testing new models on the job, pointing out defects and making suggestions.

The machine finally perfected by Sholes and his associates was the first one that typed rapidly without jamming the type bars. Their QWERTYUIOP keyboard may have reduced jamming, but for generations typists have complained that the arrangement lacks logic. However, periodic efforts to change the keyboard never caught on.

Engineers at Remington refined Sholes' final model and produced the first commercial typewriter in 1873. It resembled an ungainly sewing machine, complete with a foot treadle to return the carriage. It printed only capital letters.

Only a thousand went out in the first batch but the typewriter caught on, helped by claims that it safeguarded against "pen paralysis, loss of sight and curvature of the spine."

In 1880, the New York YWCA offered a course for young ladies and the typewriter opened up thousands of jobs to women for the first time.

New Head For Metro Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Paul Godfrey, 34-year-old North York controller, was chosen Tuesday super-mayor of Toronto's regional government as the $35,000-a-year chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto council.

He was named at a caucus of council members, who gave him 17 votes to 11 for Reid Scott, Toronto city alderman and former New Democratic Party member of Parliament. Scarborough Controller Kenneth Morrish got three votes.

He will succeed Albert Campbell, third Metro chairman in the 20-year history of municipal regional government here, who resigned effective July 30 because he is suffering from cancer. Campbell's successor will serve the remaining 17 months of a two-year term.

UVic Prime Time Keyed to Summer

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

For six weeks of prime summer time, the people of this area and their holidaying guests will have more reason for visiting the University of Victoria campus than just to look at buildings.

According to choice, they might be tapping to the engaging rhythms of a legendary musical play, listening to the woven, sonorous beauty of classical ensembles, enjoying high comedy.

All this and a good deal more constitutes the UVic summer scene for 1973.

The players are assembled, the curtain has already gone up. First of the Phoenix Players repertory has made its bow, first of the concerts has taken place.

One of two performance workshops also got under way this week.

What has been created at UVic this year has many facets. It engages many talents, both professional and student. Its appeal is to a wider public than heretofore.

What the public visiting the campus will see is however, the veritable iceberg tip. And the total six weeks during which productions and performances will take place nightly, does not add up to the sum of hours that have gone into preparation.

★ ★ ★

For the Phoenix Players, besides rehearsal time, there were the original planning sessions. Then from the drawing board the program moved into the hands of designer Barry Duller, costume crews, construction crews.

Selection of programs, conferences with performers, long meticulous rehearsal sessions occupied members of the chamber music ensemble.

The two workshops taking place — both of which will surface for the public in wind-up performances August — have evolved after months of organizational work by faculty and staff of the theatre and music department.

Burning the midnight wattage over the drawing board, Bill West is meeting the challenge of providing simple, flexible, mood-provoking settings for the drama workshop's culminating production of Ibsen's fantastical and image-riddled play, Peer Gynt.

★ ★ ★

It is unlikely that audiences, beyond an almost subconscious reaction and acceptance of the resulting design, will give more than a passing thought to the time involved in its creation and construction.

Which, ironically is quite correct. A set design that grabs too much attention to itself does not do the production the best service.

Without in any way sacrificing quality, musical and dramatic programming is less esoteric this year than it has sometimes been in the past.

Particularly at the Phoenix Theatre, we find antiquity and pure classicism taking a back seat in favor of contemporary idioms and the beguiling moods of fantasy, humor and romance.

Visitors can savor the lyrical charm of The Fantastiks, the many-layered kooky comedy of John Guare's House of Blue Leaves, the balletic grace, imagery and humor of mime theatre in a continual rotation throughout July and the first week of August.

The company consists of graduate and advanced students of the theatre department with John Krich of the faculty serving as director, mentor and sometime actor.

Programs of chamber music, one a week performed twice — Tuesdays and Thursdays — during July, with single recitals to follow into mid-August—are offered in the MacLaurin Building auditorium.

First of these programs devoted to music of Mozart, took place this week and will be repeated Thursday.

Second production in the Phoenix Players' repertory, The House of Blue Leaves opens tonight.

Concurrently, throughout the entire period until mid-August, the summer theatre workshop for senior secondary students (who have come from all parts of the province) is creating a hive of intense activity and in August, for one week the early music workshop will be staffed by leading performers in the field.

★ ★ ★

This highly specialized workshop has attracted a heavy enrolment from the United States and Canada.

For the interested public there will be opportunity to hear renaissance and baroque music played on the instruments of the period by faculty members.

The two recitals will conclude the chamber concert series on Aug. 6 and 10.

As a final spin-off to the swirl of events, students of the theatre workshop will present Peer Gynt as their contribution during the week of Aug. 9-16.

He is also director of the play. Below, Christine Mather, director of the Early Music Workshop, unpacks a treasured viol da gamba.

Performances

Remaining performances of Phoenix Theatre's The Fantasticks will run July 5, 7, 11, 13, 19, 24, 27, 31 and August 2.

House of Blue Leaves starts tonight and also runs July 6, 12, 17, 20, 25, 28 and August 1 and 4.

Piesowocki's Evening of Mime starts July 10 and also takes place July 14, 18, 21, 26 and August 4.

Early Music Workshop recital at McLaurin Auditorium August 8 will feature Peggy Sampson, viol de gamba; Christel Thielmann, viol de gamba; and Peggy Palmer, harpsichord.

On August 10 a program of renaissance and baroque music will be given by the faculty of the Early Music Workshop.

Another recipe from the Gold Seal Galley
Tuna Cheeseburger

1 can (6-7 oz.) Gold Seal tuna
4 burger buns
8 slices cheese
½ tsp. mustard
¼ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
Finely chopped green pepper to taste

Drain and separate tuna. Toast and butter split burger buns. Cover each bun with cheese. Combine rest of ingredients and spoon onto cheese slices. Pop under broiler for 5 minutes to melt cheese. Makes eight one-bun servings.

You can try this tasty menu idea using delicious Gold Seal solid white, flaked white or chunk light tuna..

Thinnings Add Health Bonus to Summer Fare

By HILDA BEASTALL

Homemakers with gardens are noticing the easing on the food costs as lettuce, spinach, green onions, young carrots and radishes are available every day for all occasions from sandwiches to friendly dinner parties.

But are we making the most of the thinnings from the vegetable crops? Some are wanting to, for calls come in asking questions.

How and what thinnings are we to use? The common root crops we grow from seeds all have tops which are edible. Young white turnips together with their tops rated high in vitamins and minerals in vegetable lists approved by the Federal Dept. of National Health during the 1939-45 period. In a 1968 printing of a comparable list approved by Dept. National Health and Welfare, only the yellow turnip is listed, and mustard and turnip greens are missing.

When you need to thin vegetable rows, do it progressively, cooking what you remove to serve at supper. Radishes, the roots and the tops are mildly pungent like those of young turnips. Use raw, or lightly cooked, for radish leaves are slightly prickly.

Slice tops and roots finely, mixing; both are good food.

A tossed salad made of a combination of beet thinnings, lettuce, young horseradish leaves, cottage cheese with chopped parsley, is a pleasant side dish for lunch or supper.

For a more substantial dish take young carrot thinnings; slice the slender roots and a few of the youngest leaves; add chopped spinach thinnings; finely chopped new onion, or chopped chives. Top with cottage cheese sprinkled generously with crisped bacon and cubed cheese.

The immature carrot leaves are mentioned as edible by an outstanding nutritionist of the U.S.A. They have little flavor of their own, but are crisp and pleasant when raw. Try a little as a chopped garnish.

The small leaves surrounding broccoli heads are tender and flavorful and full of vitamins and minerals. Any of the young leaves of cauliflower, or the tops of brussels sprouts are edible. They all belong to the cabbage tribe, and taste more or less like cabbage. Choose only the youngest leaves for tenderness, cook in a minimum of boiling water lightly salted, and serve with a dab of margarine or yogurt or a generous grating of Canadian Cheddar cheese.

Even the tender pods of home grown peas are to be used. I have always used a few to cook with the shelled peas so as to get the additional sweetness. Now I steam the pods for the few minutes it takes the peas to cook, and find them delicious.

Making use of the unorthodox parts of vegetables, parts which most people throw away or on to the compost heap, not only helps to keep the budget in line, but adds nutrition to meals. Sometimes you come up with new flavors which you and your family enjoy immensely.

Get Rid of Hate For Better Life

DEAR ABBY: Today is my 22nd birthday, and I just became the mother of a beautiful, healthy baby girl. I should be the happiest woman in the world because I have a wonderful husband, a really great marriage, and just about everything a person could want—but something is bothering me.

When I was 17 I became an unwed mother. I trusted my parents' judgment and let them talk me into giving up my beautiful baby boy for adoption. My parents and their lawyer informed me that six weeks after I gave up my son the adoption was final.

Exactly seven months later I met the wonderful young man who asked me to marry him. We were married three months later. I recently learned that the court allows an unwed mother one year to decide whether she wants to finalize the adoption. Abby, had I known it then my husband and I would have kept my baby. Now it is too late.

My problem is the bitterness I feel toward my parents for having lied to me. I've tried to forgive them but I can't. The resentment I feel for them is eating away at my insides. It seems to grow worse, and now I can hardly bear to look at them. Please tell me how I can get rid of these hateful feelings that are ruining my life. Can't Forgive.

DEAR CAN'T: Even though your parents probably thought they were doing what was best for you at the time, they should not have lied to you. Harboring hate and resentment is self-destructive, and you may need professional help to rid yourself of these negative thoughts. Ask your doctor to guide you in getting the help you need.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for six years, and we have one big difference of opinion which keeps our marriage from being practically perfect.

I love to read in bed and he hates for me to. I have always read in bed before retiring. It relaxes me. I have a small beam-type light which doesn't disturb him, but he just doesn't like the idea of my being up reading while he is trying to go to sleep.

What to do? Loves To Read.

DEAR LOVES: Do your reading in another room, in a comfortable chair or on the sofa. When it's time to retire, crawl into bed with him. I think he resents the competition.

DEAR ABBY: To the poor woman whose husband forces his harmonica playing on everyone even though he can't play: Make a tape recording of one of his performances. He might realize how awful he is when it's played back to him privately.

This also works for teeth-clickers, snorers, ahem-ers, cursers, etc. I nevah believed I had a su'then accent until I heard mahself on tape. — Goody Two Shoes

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast for Thursday, July 5

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Reservations, travel plans and relatives combine to create some difficulties. Key now is to seek harmony within family circle. Be diplomatic. Make concessions. Deal gingerly with Taurus, Libra persons.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Strive for quality. Be selective. One who talks much and complains even more may have ulterior motive. Be realistic. Insist on factual information. Pisces, Virgo persons might play important roles. Young person requires attention.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): More Responsibility comes your way — and also greater chance to enhance prestige. There are problems but you can overcome. Capricorn figures prominently. Goal is in sight after you take minor detour.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accept fact that situation, relationship is drawing to close. This is time to look ahead to potential. Hanging on to past would not be constructive. Find ways of reaching more persons. Round out project. Deal with Aries.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Strive for fresh start. Money will be available. Key is to emphasize personality, personal magnetism. Utilize innate sense of showmanship. Means be graphic. Illustrate meanings. Favorable response is due.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): What seems like senseless delay is likely to boomerang in your favor. Leo could be in picture. Highlight independent course. One you respect could complain of lack of energy. Be patient. If considerate, you are given needed material.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Light touch is best for now. Socialize, entertain and be entertained. Leave fine points, details for another time. Perceive picture as a whole. Be aware of potential. Sagittarius, Gemini persons figure prominently.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Friend could confide dilemma. Be interested but don't promise more than can be delivered. Remember resolutions concerning health, work. Moderate, steady pace now is necessary. Avoid extremes. Deal with Aquarius, Leo persons.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Let others show their hands. Lie low. Play waiting game. Professional superior may want your advice. Give it but be diplomatic. Get ideas committed to paper. Others have tendency now to misquote. Make views crystal clear.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Stay home, if possible. Get to know family. Be receptive to needs of one born under Libra. Question of travel could arise. Give your opinion in forthright but kind manner. Younger person looks to you as example.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Study fine points. Be sure you are seeing clearly. Avoid tendency toward self-deception. Money connected with joint enterprise could be subject of dispute. Permit logic equal time with emotions. Then you protect interests.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Accent on contracts, partnership, marriage. You get involved. There is no easy way. Be true to what you believe — stick to principles. Money and security are involved. Nothing occurs halfway — it is all or forget it.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are sensuous, emotional, have tendency to brood and worry. If single, marriage could be on horizon. Married or single, you do more travelling this year than has been true in recent past. December could be one of your most significant months of 1973. Be aware of diet. Of late, you have been eating while on the run. Stop it — for your own welfare.

Since everything that touches the body of an infant should be extremely soft, baby clothes should be washed with extra care.

The four-page leaflet "Caring For Baby Clothes" offers you the basic know-how. For instance, it is important when you dry diapers by machine not to let them become too dry. And never, never iron them, because this hardens the fabric.

The leaflet also tells you that white linens, pads and bibs can be washed in hot water, just like cotton loads of adults. Sturdy colored and non-color fast delicate items need cool to warm water and a cold rinse. Permanent press and wash 'n wear clothes are best washed in warm water.

Wash all corduroys in a separate load.

Delicate woollens and hand-knits should be washed by hand. Turn synthetic knits inside out when you wash them by machine, to minimize 'pilling' (which is the formation of nubs on the surface of the fabric).

Remember not to overload the machine. To get really clean, clothes need space to move about in the washer.

Send your request to: Public Relations Department, Washday Advice Bureau, Suite 1100, 151 Bloor Street West, Toronto 181, Ontario. Please allow at least two-three weeks for delivery.

Samuel and Margaret Brethour

Old Time Picnic for Brethours

There's an old-time picnic planned for next Saturday afternoon at the West Saanich Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thomson. It has been arranged to mark the 100th anniversary of the landing in Victoria of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brethour and their family.

Present for the occasion will be some 225 Brethour descendants, down to the sixth generation, along with many who have joined the family by marriage.

Hosts for the occasion are descendants living on Vancouver Island, especially in Victoria and the North Saanich area, where the first Mr. and Mrs. Brethour settled a century ago.

An invitation that went out to all descendants from the host group, has a family tree on the inner cover, showing names of Sam and Margaret Brethour's children, with the names of those they married and of their children.

There is also a brief history of the Brethours from the days of the Spanish succession war in the Rhine Valley to the time when Sam Brethour settled on land in North Saanich.

It seems that owning to disturbed conditions which prevailed during the war of succession, ancestors of the Brethours left the Palatinate on the Upper Rhine in 1709 for Amsterdam, Holland, where they embarked on a ship bound for New York.

Bad weather forced the vessel to take refuge in Ireland's Shannon River where it was wrecked. The Brethours went ashore and decided to say.

They settled on the Earl of Southwell's estate in County Limerick, and for over a century lived and worked on land deeded to them for a shilling an acre "for as long as grass grew green and water ran in Ireland."

In 1833, mainly for political and religious reasons but also because of the lure of a New World, there was another exodus. This time by sailing ship for Canada where the Brethours settled in Ontario's York County.

Samuel, born in Rathkale, County Limerick, Ireland, was 16 when his family came to Canada.

Eleven years later, on February 13, 1844, he married Margaret St. John, also of York County, where her father, Philip St. John, nicknamed by his neighbors "the King of Brock", was a prosperous farmer.

Eleven children were born to the couple during the first years of their married life.

In order to make provision for the future of this large family, Samuel and Margaret eventually decided to move west to British Columbia.

They travelled by train through the United States to San Francisco and from there by the steamer Prince Alfred to Victoria, arriving on April 10, 1873.

With them were six sons and three daughters. The eldest son William stayed in Kansas and one daughter Margaret Jane died in Ontario when she was three years old.

Shortly after their arrival in Victoria, Samuel Brethour purchased land in North Saanich. That acreage now includes part of the Patricia Bay Airport and the townsite of Sidney for which land was given by the family.

It took over a month for Brethour and his sons to clear a site for a log house on the property while Mrs. Brethour and the girls waited in Victoria.

The first year on that land was a strenuous one. They slashed and burned 60 acres, fenced the whole farm and with only a yoke of oxen ploughed 40 acres and threshed, in the autumn, 1,800 bushels of grain.

The following year they had a team of horses and there was 4,000 bushels of grain. This was threshed by William Thomson of Bannockburn, first white settler on the Saanich Peninsula.

Samuel Brethour died on March 18, 1877. His wife died five years later on March 17, 1883, from pneumonia contracted while nursing the youngest son Philip who was ill with typhoid and who predeceased his mother by three days.

All three are buried in the family cemetery, then on farm property.

Sons of the pioneer couple, other than William and Philip, were John, Julius, Henry, Wesley and Samuel. Daughters were Mary who married William Robertson and lived on a farm at the corner of East Saanich and McTavish Roads; Annie, whose husband was B. H. Smith, M.A., collector of customs at Nanaimo and Georgina, first wife of E. B. Paul, M.A., then principal of the Nanaimo high school.

Sons and daughters of that second generation, expected at the picnic on Saturday are Lily Thomas, Victoria, and her sistter Marjorie Smith, Sidney; Edgar Brethour, Vancouver and his brother Ira of Los Angeles; Olive (Mrs. St. John) of Los Angeles, her sister, Mrs. Harold Rourke (Muriel), Victoria, and their brothers, Clifford of Tuscon, Arizona, and Raymond, Los Angeles; Redvers Smith, Saanich; and Catherine Campbell of Sidney.

During the afternoon, Redvers Smith will propose a toast ta the past and Susan Henstock, a sixth generation descendant of Samuel and Margaret Brethour, a toast to the future.

They will be surrounded by old folk and younger folk, by children and babies, all proud of their ancestry and all eager to successfully launch the Brethour family into its second Canadian century.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

Nothing Can Duplicate Complexities of Brain

Since I have reached the age of 80, I have had increasing trouble remembering quickly some names — for people or things I know very well. And yet, some of my rememberings are astounding. Most of such well-remembered things happened to me or were learned by me when I was a boy. I can recall happenings of 80 years ago, or many acts performed then, but recent events or friends' names are often hard to remember instantly, when I want them.

But what is remarkable is that often, when I cannot remember the name of a well-known medicine, or of a well-known friend, or some historical character, and I give up trying to remember that name, in a few minutes it comes to me. What I marvel at is that this leaves with me the strong impression that during those few minutes the brain kept thinking of my problem and trying to find the answer.

Because the brain seemed to want to help me, it kept searching through its probably millions of files for the word I wanted — much as a computer would search for information.

Another marvelous fact is that a well-educated adult person's brain must have recorded, and probably lodged chemically in many tiny brain cells, hundreds of thousands of facts. It is impossible for me to conceive how words or scepes can be kept recorded chemically in tiny nerve cells for half a century or more. Also, it is hard to conceive the process by which a desired word can be searched for and found.

To show the speed with which the brain can retrieve a word, unused for perhaps 50 years, one evening my wife, doing a crossword puzzle, said to me, "You lived in Hawaii until you were 17; do you remember the Hawaiian word for skill?" And instantly, I said, "Akamai."

Later, she asked me "What were those stables that Hercules cleaned out?" and instantly, I said, "Augean." The remarkable thing is that I had not needed to use either of those words since I was a boy, and yet they came instantly to mind.

Another astounding fact is that if I were an able artist, I could still paint in great detail dozens of scenes which I saw when I was three years old. I could also paint the details of my first interview with many of the patients whose cases particularly interested me — how they were dressed, the room in which I saw them, and I can recall in detail the stories they told me.

Surely, no chemist, no matter how brilliant, could record on a tiny bit of protein (like white of egg) words or scenes, and then keep them intact for 80 or even 90 years, and then recall one of them instantly when asked for it — yet this is what the brain constantly does.

Another puzzling fact about the brain is that surgeons have removed perhaps half of the brain tissue, perhaps because the man had a brain tumor or had been in an accident, and the man, a doctor, a professor, or perhaps a minister, could still carry on with his work. This suggests that many facts and thoughts and abilities must be stored in duplicate in different parts of the brain.

There is no doubt that the brain is the world's most remarkable organ, and we have much to learn about how it works. For instance, the greatest mathematical genius in the world was a Hindu boy, born to poor peasants in India. Because he had no books he had to invent by himself the many forms of mathematics that have been developed by brilliant men in the last 3,000 years.

fresh B.C. Cherries

July is cherry month . . . and to help you enjoy the fresh sunshine flavour of B.C. Cherries to the full, here is a delicious recipe your whole family will love.

CHERRY CHEESECAKE

CRUST
1 package (4 oz.) Holland rusk, lemon cookies, or graham wafers.
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
6 tablespoons melted butter

FILLING
1 package (8 oz.) plain cream cheese
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1/8 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1/2 cup dairy sour cream

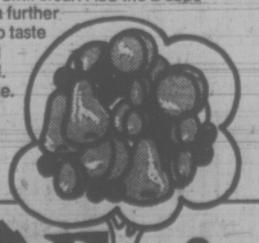
GLAZE
2 pounds fresh B.C. Cherries
3/4 cup granulated sugar
3 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
Dash of salt
1/4 cup cold water
1 teaspoon butter
Red food colouring

Roll rusks, cookies, or graham wafers into crumbs; mix with sugar and cinnamon. Add melted butter and mix well. Press into buttered pan, covering bottom and up the sides.

Have cream cheese and eggs at room temperature. Beat cheese. Add sugar gradually, beating in well. Add flour and salt; mix. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Beat in vanilla, lemon rind, and dairy sour cream.

Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into crust. Bake at 275 degrees F. for 1 1/2 hours, or until filling mixture is firm and lightly browned. Cool pan on rack away from drafts.

Meanwhile, make glaze by pitting cherries and reserving out 2 cups. Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in a saucepan. Add water; bring to boil and cook until clear. Add the 2 cups reserved cherries and cook a further 5 minutes or until there is no taste of raw starch. Add butter and red food colouring, if desired. Cool. Spoon over cooled cake. Arrange remaining cherries on top. Chill. Serves 8-10.



And remember, July is the time to buy lots of plump, juicy B.C. Cherries for all your home preserving and freezing needs, too.

For your copy of our "Sunshine Meals" booklet on how to preserve and freeze B.C. tree fruits, send your name, address and 25¢ in coin to: B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., Dept. 'N', Kelowna, B.C.

A WISH IN NICK OF TIME

Sugize Makamura, 95, is going blind — slowly, but unexorably. He expressed the wish to see his 12-year-old granddaughter Deiore (Dee Dee) Yatabe skate just once before he completely loses his sight.

The girl, who flew from Toronto to Edmonton with her mother for this reason, had been in the city since mid-June, visiting relatives and trying to find a place where she could skate for her grandfather. As late as Sunday, her mother was not sure if she would be able to perform for him.

But when officials from the Royal Glenora Club were told about the case, Dee Dee was given permission to skate at the club Monday morning — just hours before she was scheduled to fly home.

And Mr. Makamura, allowed to sit at ice level so he could more easily watch the girl in her bright orange costume, had his wish granted.

London Offices Clamoring For Canadian, Aussie Help

By DAVE THOMAS

LONDON (CP) — Canadian and Australian office workers can usually find jobs here within hours, partly because employers find them harder-working than British girls.

There has been such a shortage of secretarial skill in London during the last few years that wages have rocketed, though not yet up to the level of Canada's, and an immediate choice of dozens of positions is available to qualified applicants at each of the placement agencies dotted throughout the city. The situation is so desperate, from the employer's view, that one such agency offers a three-week, paid vacation in Morocco if workers stay with them for six months.

While the evening newspapers are packed with pleas for permanent office help, most Canadians here have discovered more variety and better pay with the temporary-job agencies. The disadvantage is the absence of holidays and paid sick leave, benefits of minor importance for those on relatively short stays.

Maureen O'Brien of Toronto has been working here since January and, aside from the pay, her biggest complaint is that she hasn't enough work at the office to keep her busy. But, all in all, she is happy to have come and recommends such a working visit for other Canadian women wanting an overseas break in their routine.

"I think working here is quite an experience, and probably the only way to get to know a city like this," she said.

NOT ENOUGH WORK

Now at her second job, found through a "temp" agency, Maureen left her first permanent position because "I was bored—there just wasn't enough to do."

"The girls I've worked with are very nice, but I don't think they work as hard as us."

Maureen is paid directly by the employment agency which collects its fee from the employer. Her weekly cheque totals £32.75 (about $82). After tax and health insurance deductions, she is left with about $70 which is fine as a means of supporting a lengthy stay but quite a bit less than she earned as a fully-qualified secretary back home.

The manager of a large agency chain said employers prefer Canadians or Australians because of their efficiency and the high quitting rate of British office workers means they are quite willing to hire foreigners here for only a short time.

"The Canadian girls are much more flexible, while the English are more inclined to want an easy job," she said.

Aside from the slower pace, she said Canadian stenographers would find working conditions here somewhat different because of generally-outmoded office equipment and a much stronger reliance on shorthand rather than taped dictation. The company's shorthand requirement is 100 words per minute with no more than five errors in the five-minute test.

HOUSING MAJOR ITEM

The major problem is housing. Maureen, for example, pays £12 a week for a single bed-sitting room which represents nearly half her take-home wage. Sharing a flat or apartment is much more common here than in Canada and can cut housing costs to a more-reasonable £5 or so a week.

Canadians entering Britain are usually permitted to work until the expiry of the visitor visa which is stamped in their passports upon arrival. Normally, the visa is good for six months but if the immigration officer suspects the visitor intends to remain here illegally he can shorten the period or add a prohibition against employment.

The best way to avoid such a restriction is to visit a British High Commission or consulate in Canada before leaving to apply for a one-year "working holiday" visa.

The "working" part of the working holiday must officially be "incidental" to the vacation itself, but a home office spokesman here said the regulation is applied liberally.

"The idea is that you do a bit of both," he said, "but we know that usually they get a job that's pretty regular and we allow them to keep it for up to five years."

Norfolk House School

FOR GIRLS — GRADES I TO XII

Was Your Daughter's Year at School Happy and Successful?

Norfolk House School offers an alternative. It is worth your consideration. Classes are small.

Tuition at both senior and junior levels is given by specialists and the curriculum is an expansion of that specified by the B.C. Department of Education.

Norfolk House School was founded in 1913 to give a high standard of learning and manners, good discipline and a happy atmosphere. Today — 60 years later — these ideals are still maintained.

A Seedy Plot To Push Pot

LONDON (CP) — A group campaigning for the legalization of cannabis has drawn attention to their cause by mailing small packets of marijuana seeds to all British members of Parliament.

The MPs received the small round seeds this week and several of them immediately turned the packets over to police. Delivery of the seeds coincided with the coming into force of new drugs laws which make the intention to cultivate such seeds punishable by 14 years in prison, four years more than under the previous law. Seeds themselves are not prohibited and can be purchased legally as bird seed.

Scientific study of cannabis and its effects are also permitted by the new statute and a spokesman for the group, Cannabis Action Reform Organization, said the seed gimmick was designed to spur such research.

At least one in every 50 persons in Britain has smoked cannabis derivatives, the group says, although their estimate was admittedly speculative.

In 1971, last year for official figures there were more than 9,000 cannabis convictions.

JETS CAUSING INFANT DEATHS?

LONDON (CP) — An official medical report has emphasized the erratic rates of infant mortality near Heathrow Airport and suggests that proximity to one of the world's busiest jet centres may be the cause.

While the national rate of stillbirths per 1,000 deliveries has dropped steadily, that in Hillingdon borough which contains Heathrow has varied widely. The same is true for deaths of infants less than one year of age and the report of the borough's health department calls the contrasting figures "statistically significant."

No specific effect of the airport traffic is suggested to be responsible but reference is made to similar infant mortality rates reported in a Japanese study of those living near Tokyo's major airport.

The rate of stillbirths among the borough's 236,390 residents rose to 16 per 1,000 in 1970 from 12.6 in 1966 and then plunged back down last year to 11 per 1,000. The national average has declined without aberration to 12 per 1,000 last year from 15.4 in 1966.

Deaths of infants less than one year old in Hillingdon showed an erratic rise to 14 per 1,000 last year from 13.8 in 1966 with a peak of 18 per 1,000 in 1971. Again the national average declined steadily to 17 per 1,000 from 19 per 1,000 in 1966.

An Independent Monarch Urged For Canadians

LONDON (CP) — A British historian suggests the setting up of independent monarchies in Canada and other dominions as a means of countering republican influence.

Pursuing a theme raised in a letter to The Times last week by Lord O'Neill, a former prime minister of Northern Ireland, Dr. Simon Collier, chairman of the history department at the University of Essex, offers a "longer-range" alternative to O'Neill's suggestions of royal residences in the dominions.

"One of the younger princes, for example, could be educated in Canada and eventually occupy a separate Canadian throne," writes Collier in a letter to The Times published today.

"Canada would thus be enabled to assume the title of kingdom which the Fathers of Confederation wanted in 1867 but which was denied them by the then British government out of a pusillanimous deference to American republican sentiments."

Collier says the independent monarchy idea was first conceived by the Bourbon rulers of the Spanish-American empire in the 18th century but not implemented. He says it might be welcomed by "the many Canadians who see the attenuation of the present Commonwealth links as inevitable, but who nevertheless wish to preserve the monarchy as a unifying force and, perhaps more importantly, as a supreme symbol of their distinctiveness within North America."

THEY'RE HIGH ON RESEARCH

TORONTO (CP) — Five Toronto scientists and mountaineers, working on a high-altitude study for the Arctic Institute of North America, have begun a month-long stay on Mount Logan, in the Yukon, Canada's highest peak to look at the problems of mountain sickness.

The scientists plan to establish a laboratory camp at 17,500 feet, 2,350 below the summit, conducting tests to investigate the psychological effects of a sustained period at high altitude. Research also will be done into the effects of fast ascent to great heights, the prime cause of mountain sickness.

Dr. Chester Baker, chief of research at the Montreal-based institute, said the sickness causes a mountaineer to become "almost immobilized, useless and a burden to his fellow man."

Dizziness, violent headaches and heart palpitations are only a few of the symptoms of the sickness, Baker explained.

The research is aimed at assisting the operations of search and rescue or military personnel who often have to ascend several thousand feet quickly as part of their duties.

During the experiments on Mount Logan, the mountaineers will be studied at a base camp, then at an intermediate camp after a 9,500-foot climb and finally at the 17,500-foot point.

This is the sixth year of the high-altitude project but it marks the first time scientists are using a "staging technique."

Oil Takeover

WASHINGTON (WP) — Libya has demanded that the remaining major American oil interests in the country agree to an immediate government takeover of their operations.

Coming less than three weeks after the nationalization by Libya of the operations of the Bunker Hunt Oil Company of Dallas, the demand by the Libyan petroleum minister places a great deal of pressure on the oil companies to accept a low compensation offer or be nationalized.

Libya has traditionally served as the bellwether for the oil-producing countries of the Middle East. Oil industry officials have expressed fears that a new deal for Libya would lead the oil nations of the Persian Gulf to demand renegotiation of existing arrangements.

Like Company, Try Macao

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The place to go if you like company is Macao. But if you want solitude, it's Greenland or the Spanish Sahara where you'll find it.

Macao, the tiny Portuguese enclave on the Chinese coast, has at 81,440 persons per square mile the heaviest population density in the world, according to United Nations statistics released Tuesday.

Greenland and the Spanish Sahara are at the other end of the scale with an official density of zero persons per square mile.

The U.N. publication lists Greenland with 39,600 inhabitants in its 840,000 square miles — most of it covered in ice — and the Spanish Sahara with 76,425 persons in its 102,680 square miles.

Several countries, including Botswana, Libya, Mauritania and Mongolia, were listed as having a population density of nearly zero per square mile.

The figures were drawn from the U.N. statistical yearbook 1972, which covers longevity and population figures through 1971.

According to the figures, a male child born in Sweden can expect to live for 71.85 years while a female can expect to live 76.54 years. Norway's average is not far behind — 71.09 years for males and 76.83 for females.

In the United States, the average figures for both males and females was set at 71.1 years.

In the population ratings, Macao is far down the list of over-all numbers, but its 248,636 inhabitants are crowded into six square miles. The principality of Monaco runs a reasonably close second to Macao with its 23,400 citizens packed into 467 acres. Other places with a lot of people living close together include Gibraltar, West Berlin, Hong Kong, Singapore and East Berlin.

Another place high in population density is Vatican City. The yearbook lists its population at 548 males and 342 females and its size as 108.7 acres.

At the other end of the scale is The Netherlands, Belgium, Japan, Britain, India, Israel, the United States, the Soviet Union and Canada. The United States has about 60 persons per square mile, the Soviet Union about 30 and Canada about eight.

The Maldives Republic, the newest member of the United Nations with a listed population of 103,801, rates fairly high on the density chart with 902 persons for each of its 115 square miles. The country is composed of 2,000 islands, but only 220 of them are inhabited.

VICTIM NAMED

NANAIMO (CP) — Cheryl Bullock, 29, of the Nanaimo suburb of Cedar, was identified Monday as the woman killed Friday in a two-car crash three miles north of Chemainus.

Her husband Lanny Bullock, 22, is in satisfactory condition in hospital while Deborah Loes, 19, of Ladysmith, a passenger in the Bullock car, is in fair condition.

Guerrillas Face New Foe—Temptation

By DAVID HIRST
Manchester Guardian

BEIRUT — The Palestinian resistance movement is bracing itself for a new trial of strength. The danger, this time, is not another collision with Israel or Arab armies — it is an inner struggle to resist the temptation which both friend and foe may put before it in a bid to divert it from its hard and chosen path of "revolution till victory."

The bait is some form of Palestinian statehood.

Basically, the objective of those who offer it is to persuade the Palestinian resistance to forego their maximum aim of a democratic, de-Zionized state for Arab and Jew in all of Palestine, a half-Palestine, co-existent with Israel, which the world might be ready to offer them within the framework of a general peace settlement.

It is by no means the first time that the idea of a "Palestine state" has come up — it tends to surface every time Mideast peace initiatives take a serious turn.

Whatever the failings of the guerrillas, at least they have created a worldwide awareness that there is such a thing as Palestinian nationalism which any would-be peacemakers must try, perhaps with a Palestinian state, to appease.

For the guerrillas, such a state would necessarily be an Israeli puppet, and they have always rejected the idea out of hand.

It is obvious, however, that the weaker the resistance becomes and more uptopian the aim of total liberation looks, the more difficult it is for guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat and his men to prevent the Palestinians from settling for something less. To many of them half a loaf, half of Palestine, would seem to be better than none at all.

It is, therefore, with growing concern that the resistance leadership watches the signs of a concerted new drive to "impose" some such solution on them.

In 1966 when Tunisian president Habib Bourguiba first proposed Arabs should recognize Israel and seek to restore the lost rights of Palestinians by negotiation rather than by war, he was burned in effigy around the Arab world, and Egyptian president Gamal Abdel Nasser, who had just received him as an honored guest, broke off diplomatic relations.

Bourguiba has recently made the same suggestion, and this time there has not been a murmur of protest from Egypt.

It is, of course, the guerrillas on whom Egyptian president Anwar Sadat has been pinning his hopes.

He has precious little influence over Hussein or the West Bank notables. Ideally Arafat himself should champion his grand design.

The chances are that Arafat will resist the new temptation.

Indeed publicly, the Palestine Liberation Organization has already scornfully rejected it.

But there are widespread suspicions that, privately, Arafat is more accommodating.

It is clear, however, that any public acquiescence would bring him into immediate trouble from his own rank and file.

Also the guerrillas, rank and file can no doubt count on their two enemies to come to the rescue.

Hussein has sent an emissary to Cairo, no doubt to tell Sadat that the Tunisian-Egyptian plan would, by separating the West Bank from Jordan, deprive him of half his kingdom.

Israel, in no mood to withdraw to its 1967 frontiers, is hardly going to withdraw to the more exiguous ones of the 1947 partition plan.

DRAFT DODGERS INNOCENT?

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Many young men who fled to Canada rather than submit to the draft may be innocent of any crime but don't know it, says a Hartford lawyer who has both defended and prosecuted draft-evasion cases.

Paul Sherbacow, a former assistant United States attorney, said in an interview that "based on past case experience, a substantial number of these men would not face any real threat of successful prosecution.

"My guess is that nationally less than 10 per cent of the justice department's cases have been concluded by a conviction."

Sherbacow said many men who fled the country to avoid the draft were victims of procedural mistakes.

"The law in the area of conscientious objection changed so radically over the past five years that local selective service boards couldn't keep up with it," he said.

Karl Fleischmann, a law partner of Sherbacow's who also has handled draft cases, said that "the consequence of the failure of a draft board to follow lawful procedures is that an induction order which it issued may nevertheless be invalid."

Young men who are in Canada and do not want to return, Fleischmann said, could authorize their parents to receive a copy of their file from their local board.

"The parents would then be in a position to seek legal advice on their son's status," he said.

UN Legal Aid Set To Retire

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — For a quarter of a century, Constantin A. Stavropoulos has handled and settled some trail-blazing UN disputes. At age 67, he wants to retire with his wife to an island off his native Greece.

Palestine, Korea, The Congo were major battlefields in a career that linked him with Count Folke Bernadotte, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Moise Tshombe. But Stavropoulos also spent countless hours on those little issues of prestige brought up by touchy nations.

Stavropoulos has the title of legal counsel, the rank of undersecretary-general, a staff of 52 lawyers and a salary of $43,000. At his level, there is no mandatory retirement age, but he would like the United Nations to name his successor by the end of this year.

"Usually, we create law," Stavropoulos said as he reminisced in his office suite high in the UN skyscraper. "We try to make a decision that stands on the basis of the rules and principles of international law. We don't have books dealing especially with the law of the United Nations."

Stavropoulos is faced with such unprecedented questions as the recent bid by the Viet Cong to send an observer to the United Nations, where the Saigon government already has one. The United States was strongly against the idea.

"It would have meant that we had observers of two governments from the same state. It was next to impossible to insist that the Americans give them a visa," Stavropoulos said. But he has left an opening for the Viet Cong to apply for a liaison office when the question of UN aid for Vietnam comes up, "making it necessary to have contact with all the parties."

In 1972, Stavropoulos was under fire from the press because of a decision that barred correspondents of Taiwan's news agency from the United Nations.

He explained that the ruling was based on the premise that the ouster of the Chinese Nationalist government "included journalists working for that government. We felt that the General Assembly had that in mind. No one has ever denied that the China agency was a governmental agency."

He added that the United Nations does not bar non-governmental Taiwan newspaper men.

Stavropoulos says he spends hours sometimes dealing with "infinitesimal" problems such as where to rank a country in the UN book of statistics—"very silly matters, but involving prestige, status."

Stakes Help Hold 'Mums Up to Light

For the last 10 years local gardeners have looked for, and found, the kinds of herbaceous perennials not requiring staking to keep them upright. Luckily the list is long and the plants vary from a few inches high to five feet, all with strong stems.

The plants which must be staked and tied are grown mostly by amateur specialists; two are the chrysanthemums and dahlias. These are also perennials in a strict sense though the former is newly grown each year from cuttings of the old plants, the latter from tuberous rootstocks held over winter in storage.

Staked effectively, the same plants supply flowers for home table decorations until early December in many years.

Ideally the stakes for any plants, whether trees, shrubs or herbaceous perennials should be set into the ground at time of planting. They seldom are except where the gardener is specializing for show flowers. The rest of us find bare stakes offensive though we are fully aware the plants need them in six or eight weeks from planting time.

For chrysanthemum sprays, three or five slender canes are set equally spaced at the outer rim of each plant. Lean them slightly outwards from the base at the same angle as each of the three or five main stems to be tied.

Beginning at the lowest point, bring the stem near the stake, attach with either soft string, or paper-covered wire. Leave a space between stem and stake. Two or three ties may be needed now for each stem, but improvement in appearance is the immediate reward.

★ ★ ★

Also the growth tips where the flower buds will be forming are out in the open. They will fully develop and display instead of being cramped into a tight formless bunch as happens with a single stake and one tie. Every bud will open, giving a larger area of color for the garden, and more good flowers to cut.

Left without any kind of support, even the sturdiest chrysanthemum stems snap off at soil level just as flower opening coincides with fall rains and winds.

Exceptions are those of the "cushion 'mum" varieties, growing densely to 15 inches or so. These are self supporting.

With staking and tying completed, give a good soaking of water to root level, mulch with loose compost, water again, and your plants will be off your mind for a couple of weeks.

SOLUTIONS THURSDAY

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

As all football fans and bridge players know, defence wins ball games and bridge games. One of the world's leading players, Alvin Roth, of New York City, gave a graphic demonstration of this fact in today's deal, which came up in the National Championships of 1972. He was sitting East, and was partnered by Barbara Rappaport, of East Orange, N.J. Both sides vulnerable, South deals.

NORTH
♠ K 10 4 2 –
♡ A J 8 5
◇ K 6 4
♣ 8 3

WEST
♠ Q 6
♡ K 10
◇ Q 10 8 7 5
♣ K Q 7 5

EAST
♠ 7 5
♡ Q 9 6 4 2
◇ A J
♣ A 10 9 2

SOUTH
♡ 7 3
◇ 9 3 2
♣ J 6 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 ♠	Dbl.	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	Pass	3 ♠	Dbl.
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣.

Opening lead: King of spades.

West's original double was for takeout, and showed length in each of the unbid suits, clubs and diamonds. Of course, West was known not to have too good a hand, since she had passed at her first opportunity to bid.

Roth's jump to three clubs was a normal bid, since he knew that his partner had four or more clubs. When, on the next round, he doubled North's three-spade bid, it was for penalties. He counted on his partner to win a few tricks, which was to be expected since she would not have made a take-out double, vulnerable, unless she had at least an average hand.

The defence was smooth and accurate. On Mrs. Rappaport's king-of-clubs opening lead, Roth followed suit with the discouraging deuce, asking partner not to continue leading clubs. Perceiving the futility of leading either hearts or trumps, East then led the seven of diamonds. When a low diamond was played from dummy, Roth inserted his jack.

When the jack won the trick, he cashed his diamond ace. He next led a low club to his partner's known queen (West would not have led the king of clubs at trick one unless she possessed the queen). When the queen won the trick, West returned a diamond which Roth ruffed. In time, the defenders also made a heart trick, thus inflicting a two-trick set on declarer, for a loss of 500 points.

The deal was played 13 times, and Roth-Rappaport's score of plus 500 was the best East-West result. It netted them 12 match points out of a possible 12.

For the record, it should be noted that at three other tables North-South also arrived at a three-spade contract. But they were not doubled; and so, although they were set, their scores were better than that obtained by the North-South pair who were doubled by Roth.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

"Older than she looks," replied Doug. "If you add her age to twice its reverse you get a perfect square."

"Reverse?" Bert shook his head. "What's that?"

"Same digits but in reverse order," Doug told him. "And something else. Her age is one more than twice a perfect square."

Thanks for an idea to J. Partington, Holt, England.

SUMMER'S HERE, SO IS GOSLEY

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

After 21 years it has become a habit.

Jerry Gosley and the Smile Show gang arrive on a local stage. The audience chuckles, with intermittent guffaws, through a couple of hours and departs in a mood of high spirits, goodwill and sweet charity.

There is bright overture from the two-man orchestra in the pit — Al Despot on the Electrovox and Gary Foster on drums — an eye-appealing curtain raiser by the gang and Jerry in a descent from the gods as Queen Victoria.

After that the show tends to flatten out for a while. On Tuesday this was partly the fault of an incorrectly adjusted sound system which allowed the pit to overwhelm the stage action.

The mikes were not picking up voices — noticeably so during Jerry's Noel Coward tribute and vocalist Clare Wynter's first appearance.

The show definitely needs another sparkling production number in the first half. Its principal assets after the opening are a thoroughly amusing finale, The House That Jack Built, the girls, and Gini Lefevre and Bill Dyson.

Bill has come a long way toward professionalism since the last Smile Show.

Designed with flair by Anton Gosley and expertly constructed, they are economical, wholly effective and appealing.

Highlight of the show from any point of view is the number based on Tie a Yellow Ribbon Round the Old Oak Tree, which owes its considerable charm to the imaginative choreography of director Bebe Eversfield, dancers Lana Check and Rick Simmonds and singer Dyson.

The second-half opener, The Only Way to Fly, is another winner and it's inevitable that the pub and pearlies closer sends the crowd away rejoicing.

Jokes are not terribly funny and some of the blackout skits could go without leaving a hole except in running time — the one based on tourists and parking, for instance, is a loser because it lowers the level of the first act with a solid thud.

But on the whole it's a fun show and it contains good audience involvement number that will make summer visitors feel right at home.

Symphony Conductor Dies

TORONTO — The Toronto Symphony Orchestra had been left in a state of crisis.

Czechoslavakian conductor Karel Anceri, the man who believed the Toronto Symphony could become a great orchestra and worked to achieve that goal, died unexpectedly Tuesday at the age of 65.

The symphony's European tour, scheduled for next spring, might be cancelled as a result of the death.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Gov. Marvin Mandel plans to divorce his wife of 32 years to marry a blonde, divorced mother of four children. But Barbara Mandel thinks the pressures of the governor's job may have been to much and that he may need a psychiatrist.

OTTAWA — One of Alberta's most eligible bachelors — Rocky Mountain constituency MP Joe Clark — has finally tied the knot. In a short, official Progressive Conservative Party press release Tuesday the 34-year-old politician and journalist announced his marriage to an Ottawa girl, Maureen McTeer.

WASHINGTON — Dr. Gordon K. MacLeod the government's director of health maintenance organization activity, resigned Tuesday charging that the Nixon administration plans to "all but eliminate" his program and has clearly abandoned its 1970 goal of making prepaid medical care plans a major part of the health scene.

In Fort Worth, Tex., meanwhile, John Connally said he left his job as an unpaid advisor to Nixon because he was restless and not because of differences with the president.

SAN FRANCISCO — Senator Sam Ervin is a "folk hero," say eight enthusiastic young people, announcing the formation of a national fan club for the chairman of the Watergate investigating committee. The founders are distributing "Uncle Sam" buttons, posters and T-shirts with the senator's picture.

LONDON — A painting by Pablo Picasso brought $675,000 Tuesday night at a London sale, an auction-price record for the works of the late master. The picture, Le Mort La Mise au Tombeau, was in a group of 26 paintings and sculptures from the collection of the late American movie star Edward G. Robinson.

RIO DE JANEIRO — The shrill death chant of the Xavantes — largest of Brazil's Amazon Indian tribes — pierced a cemetery in this modern city during the funeral of Brazil's oldest Indian pacifier, Francisco Meirelles. The Amazon expert died last week at 65.

LOS ANGELES — The thieves who stole Carlotta Peres' car were surprised to find their loot included an accessory — her seven-year-old son.

Mrs. Perez told police she left her son, Michael, asleep in the back seat of the car, under a sweater, when she stopped at a sandwich shop. Michael later told officers that he awoke while the thieves were driving off in the auto. Setting off an argument between the two robbers about what to do with him.

The thieves stopped the auto and got into a fistfight, Michael said, so he wandered away. Both the car and Michael were recovered.

The case of Isaac Shkolnik, 36, has been watched closely because Shkolnik wants to emigrate to Israel.

He was convicted April 11 in the Ukrainian city of Vinnitsa of spying on Soviet military establishments with the intention of passing the information to Israel after he emigrated. Shkolnik was arrested July 5, 1972.

Ransom Found Under the Floor

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuter) — Detectives today recovered an estimated $170,000 Australian, about $208,000 Canadian, in ransom money paid by Quantas Airline after a bomb hoax two years ago.

The money was found hidden in two safes and a sealed container under the floorboards of a house being renovated in the Sydney suburb of Balmain.

Convicted hoaxer Peter Macari, now serving a 15-year jail sentence, is believed to have used the house as a hideout after collecting $500,000 Australian ransom from Quantas in May, 1971.

Macari had demanded the ransom for the lives of 129 persons aboard a Quantas 707 jet which he said had a bomb aboard.

The plane was kept circling at 35,000 feet over Brisbane until Macari collected the ransom money and later revealed it was a hoax.

11-YEAR BABY MIXUP

YAMAGATA, Japan (AP) — A routine blood test prompted an investigation revealing that two 11-year-old boys had been mixed up by hospital officials just after birth and given to each other's parents. The boys are to rejoin their real parents after a period of family adjustment.

WILL A COLOR TV BUY OFF MARTHA?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee has dropped a pointed hint that Martha Mitchell not attend the Watergate hearings next week when her husband, former Attorney-General John Mitchell, testifies.

But it is understood that the flamboyant and outspoken Mrs. Mitchell has rejected the committee's offer to provide her with a color television set in a private room if she'll stay away.

Mitchell's lawyer, William Hundley, said, "It's pretty much up to her" whether she attends the hearings, and he doesn't know if she'll be there.

One of the points Mitchell is expected to be questioned closely on is whether he resigned as chairman of the president's re-election campaign because of Watergate or because of an ultimatum from his wife.

Shortly after the Watergate burglars were caught in Democratic party headquarters a year ago last June 17, Mrs. Mitchell threatened publicly to leave her husband unless he resign. Without being specific, she spoke darkly of dirty doings.

Flames Lick Rome

ROME (AP) — Hundreds of brush fires blazed Tuesday in and around Rome, causing damage to parks and suburbs but no casualties. Officials blamed most of them on drought and negligence.

Four Destroyers Lying Idle

For Want of 700 Men $120 Million in Taxes Gathers Barnacles

By JOHN BEST

OTTAWA — For the want of 700 men, four destroyers representing a $120-million investment in taxpayers' money and with a combined total of 34 years of sea life left in them are lying idle at wharves on Canada's east and west coasts.

The four — of 23 destroyers in the Canadian fleet — sit as mute symbols of a cruel bind in which Maritime Command has found itself in recent years, starved for men and money.

Defence Minister James Richardson has said the warships —St. Laurent, Fraser and Ottawa at Halifax and St. Croix at Esquimalt, — may have to be sold or even disposed of as scrap.

His seemingly offhand remark late last month that the defence department was thinking of getting rid of the vessels ignited a round of sharp questioning from opposition members of the Commons defence committee.

Underlining the political delicacy of the issue, questions also were raised on the floor of the House of Commons. There, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau replied to one MP by delivering a concise homily on one of his favorite themes: the need to curb defence expenditures.

"This is one example of an area where the government has to curtail expenditures and choose other areas of expenditure where, if funds were not available, certain social services would be prevented from being delivered to the Canadian people," he said.

Trudeau thus made clear the defence department isn't likely to receive any special allocation of funds to get the four warships back into service. He also managed to convey the impression that he personally wouldn't be upset if they became museum pieces.

The ships are manned by 50-man skeleton crews while tied up, and can put to sea within 30 days in an emergency. At full operational strength they have crews of about 225 each.

Destroyers in the fleet are rotated through this reserve cycle at intervals of about one year, so that no four languish alongside all the time. Besides those now tied up, three have gone into reserve and out again since the program began early last year.

The opposition has good ammunition with which to attack the government because of increased responsibility the navy has been given in recent years to protect national sovereignty, maintian coastal surveillance and in general guard Canada's maritime interests, including fishing interests.

"The thought of selling those destroyers when we have 3,000 miles of coastline to protect, anti-pollution regulations to enforce and our straight-baseline system to administer is Alice-in-Wonderland," says New Democratic Party defence critic Douglas Rowland.

Michael Forrestall, Conservative MP for the naval riding of Dartmouth-Halifax East, says he can see no justification for selling the vessels as long as the government is without firm plans to acquire new, lighter ships specially designed for the navy's multiple-tasking responsibilities.

"On the other hand, if the government is not prepared to man them it might just as well let them go."

Richardson is fond of saying that the number of ships the navy has in operation isn't as important as its ability to do its job. The four new DDH-280 destroyers now starting to come into service give the force a greater capability than it's ever had, he maintains.

The extent to which these can be used in coastal surveillance and offshore policing work isn't clear, however. They are essentially anti-submarine warships, designed for operations on the high seas.

The problem of the destroyers can be traced to the three-year freeze that Trudeau slapped on defence-spending in 1970, and which only now is being lifted.

The freeze forced a reduction of 16,000 to 83,000 in overall strength of the Armed Forces.

Forrestall notes that the navy already had paid off a number of older ships, and reduced manpower accordingly over a period of years — when the freeze was imposed. At that point, Maritime Command was "very comfortable."

But when the need arose to absorb rapidly rising costs within a static budget, and further cuts had to be made, drastic action was required.

The aircraft carrier Bonaventure was sold for scrap, even though it had just undergone an expensive mid-life refit, and when this didn't effect all the hoped-for saving, authorities decided to start laying up destroyers.

Rowland, a former lieutenant-commander in the naval reserve with more than four years' experience at sea, believes that the navy lacked sufficient high-level expertise in intra-service infighting to protect its interests when the manpower crunch came.

"In the navy, the way to get to the top was always to be at sea," he explains. "You worked your way up to being a commodore, then you might become a vice-admiral.

"Naval officers didn't have the type of staff training that equipped army and air force officers to deal with these matters. That means the navy always got hammered in these negotiations on manpower allocations, funds and whatnot."

Some zealous pro-navy types have put it another way. They say the sea element is still paying for the so-called "admirals' revolt" against service unification back in the mid-Sixties.

The current over-all strength of Maritime Command is 14,000.

Rowland says he has it from a "very good source" that the four tied-up ships could be put back into operation for no more than $1.6-million a year, though he admits that a shortage of certain types of skilled personnel, especially engine room crew, could cause complications.

As for the 700 men needed, he advocates laconically that they be taken from defence headquarters in Ottawa and pressed into service.

Navan spokesmen insist that the issue is not that simple. For every man who goes to sea, at least one is required for shore-based duty directly or indirectly related to support of the sea-going crews.

In deference to the complaints of married seamen and their wives ,the navy has actually been boosting the ratio of shore time, so that now there are about two jobs on shore to every one at sea.

To maintain additional 700 men on operational duty, therefore, as many as 2,100 might have to be found—and there appears no way this can be achieved under existing manpower constraints.

Thus the government may in the end have no option but to dispose of the four destroyers. Though a politically touchy decision, it could prove less embarrassing over the long run than the continued inactivity of a sixth of Canada's destroyer fleet.

Report Blames Hartwell, Airline

OTTAWA (CP) — Marten Hartwell, pilot and only survivor of a plane that crashed in the Northwest Territories Nov. 8, was flying in conditions for which he was not qualified, says the official accident report released Tuesday.

The report, prepared by the transport ministry, says the pilot was licensed to fly only under visual flight conditions but undertook a flight in conditions that required instrumental qualifications.

Hartwell had not been adequately trained for Arctic winter flying and the company that operated the plane, Gateway Aviation, did not adequately supervise its visual flight operations, says the report.

In Edmonton, operations manager Doug Rae of Gateway Aviation objected to what he described as condemnation of Hartwell in the report.

"He made an effort to preserve life," said Rae. "Unfortunately he failed . . . and now he's being condemned for doing so."

Rae, whose company also was criticized in the report, said some of the statements by the investigative team were unfair, especially comments on food requirements and visual flight rules.

The plane disappeared while carrying a nurse and two patients from Cambridge Bay, Northwest Territories, to Yellowknife, the territorial capital. The report notes that the flight began just as the sun was setting.

Hartwell, the lone survivor of the crash, was rescued Dec. 9 after 32 days. He later admitted he had eaten the flesh of one of his dead passengers to survive.

The report says Hartwell's plane did not carry snowshoes or the amount of concentrated food required by air regulations. Nor was the twin-engine Beechcraft equipped for instrument flying in the area of compass unreliability through which it travelled.

The report says the existing standards for commercial aircraft operations under day visual flight regulations "do not take into account the winter Arctic conditions and consequently are routinely ignored."

The ministry says Hartwell's pilot licence is suspended until certain written examinaions and a practical flight test have been passed. These will be attempted after the pilot is medically fit.

The justice department announced May 25 that it would not lay charges against Hartwell.

WOMEN SAVE LINEMAN

TORONTO (CP) — "Thank God he's alive," said Mrs. Sigmund Soudack, 28. "We had one hell of a time resuscitating him."

Mrs. Soudack and an unidentified woman saved the life of a Toronto Hydro lineman who was nearly electrocuted Tuesday.

Mrs. James Rusk, who was walking her seven-month-old baby, said she was nearly underneath the hydro pole when she heard a "noise like a drilling or riveting sound, very piercing, and then this hard hat dropped, nearly hitting my baby in the stroller."

"I looked up and the man was slumped over the wires. Someone screamed and the crew on the east side turned off the current or something.

"The men from both sides of the streets ran with ropes and a ladder and brought him down."

When the lineman was lowered, Mrs. Soudack and the unidentified woman alternated applying mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

"I didn't think he'd come through," Mrs. Soudack said.

Gov't 'Taken To Cleaners' By Business

OTTAWA (CP) — No government in Canadian history has been "so thoroughly taken to the cleaners" by big business as the Trudeau administration, Alf Gleave, a Western New Democrat alleged in the Commons Tuesday.

From the day it took office in 1968, said the MP for Saskatoon-Biggar, the government has been "hoodwinked and bamboozled" by the business community.

The 62-year-old grain farmer said corporate executives have milked so much out of the government they must be laughing up their sleeves at the concessions they have won.

He spoke as the House began detailed study of legislation to cut the corporate tax rate for manufacturing and processing industries to 40 per cent from 49 per cent.

The legislation, after a long period of uncertainty, was given second reading last month and sent to committee by a wide margin with only the New Democrats opposing it.

It is expected to pass committee stage and get third reading with little difficulty.

However, the Conservatives have demanded assurance that the government will set up an effective review and monitoring system to make certain companies use the benefits in the national interest.

While Gleave argued that the legislation cannot be justified on any grounds, Roch La Salle (Ind-Joliette) called it a wise move that should lead to many new job opportunities for Canadians.

ACCUSED NDP

He said the real NDP decision to oppose the bill was not made until it became clear beyond question that the Conservatives would support it and the minority Liberal government would not go down to defeat.

He said the New Democratic Party, the effective balance of power behind the government, has sold out its principles repeatedly since Parliament opened and would have done so again if necessary.

La Salle, the only independent in the Commons besides Speaker Lucien Lamoureux, said the legislation is a key measure for businessmen and industrialists across the country.

But he agreed with Conservative arguments that every effort must be made to see that it is not misused and that the country as a whole benefits.

David Orlikow (NDP-Winnipeg North) said there is no evidence anywhere to show that the business community needs the nine-percentage-point tax cut.

INDIANS WIN ROUND

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — The 7,000 treaty Indians of the Northwest Territories won a point Tuesday in their battle for ownership of 400,000 square miles of the Mackenzie Valley as Mr. Justice William Morrow ordered the town of Hay River to post indemnity bonds for each acre of contested land developed for proposed industrial park.

Mr. Justuce Morrow ruled in Supreme Court of the Northwest Territories that the municipality must deposit with the court $75,000 in cash or post a bond of $150 for each acre of land developed in the proposed 1,000-acre industrial park.

The judge also ordered the town to provide a written guarantee that Indians would have the right to return to court for adjudication of the fair value of the land should their current claims be upheld.

Lawsuit Viewed In Ship Skip

HALIFAX (CP) — Port officials were threatening "legal action on a multitude of fronts" Tuesday as they continued to mull over the disappearance of the car transport Travetal from Halifax late Sunday with 20 months of her contract with Trident Steamships Ltd. unfulfilled.

The Travetal, registered in Singapore and owned by German interests, slipped out of the harbor after dark Sunday without clearing customs and without a pilot. She turned up in Boston Tuesday, presumably for fuel before going on to Germany.

"It's a tragic thing," said D. W. Bettle, manager of Trident, in an interview Tuesday. "It is putting men out of work here and in Newfoundland."

The Trevetal was under a three-year contract to transport cars from Autoport in neighboring Dartmouth to Newfoundland.

Farmers' Needs Being Assessed

OTTAWA (CP) — After slapping controls on the export of livestock and poultry feeds, Trade Minister Alastair Gillespie said Tuesday that Canadian needs are being "urgently assessed" and in the meantime, producers may apply for export licences for contracts signed before June 29.

"This doesn't mean they will be automatically granted," he told reporters, after discussing the issue in the Commons.

"But we will consider them, provided they are accompanied by a photostat of the contract and are postmarked by midnight July 5."

Gillespie announced the controls Friday, a few days after the United States placed an embargo on the export of soybeans, cottonseed and their byproducts.

Canada, which produces about 250,000 tons of soybean meal a year, imports about 450,000 tons from the U.S.

With a shortage of this protein looming, Gillespie imposed export restrictions on Canadian protein shipped to all countries. The restrictions cover soybeans, soybean cake, soybean meal, rapeseed, rapeseed cake, rapeseed meal, flaxseed, linseed cake, linseed meal and fishmeal.

In the Commons Tuesday, Alf Gleave (NDP—Saskatoon-Biggar) asked that restrictions on rapeseed be removed since there were 22.8 million bushels on hand. Farmers needed sales to keep up with production.

FEAR POWER: This is a safety poster used by British government in a road safety campaign. The 52-year-old woman is a real accident victim who was thrown through windshield. There are 46 stitches in her face.

Brutal Reality Sparks U.K. Road Safety

LONDON (CP) — Blood scares more than statistics.

That, apparently, is the reason for the success of a particularly good road safety campaign by the British government.

Confronted by the slashed, stitched and discolored face of a real accident victim staring, as if from a nightmare, from a roadside billboard, drivers have had some of the hurry shocked out of their rush-hour frustration.

Before the campaign, which also includes television sports in the same brutal style, only 19 per cent of London drivers bothered to buckle their seat belts; a month later the figure had jumped to nearly 32 per cent.

"If only I'd worn my seat belt," is the slogan printed across the pictures, one of which shows the haunting, bruised eyes of a 52-year-old woman whose forehead is freshly sewn from one side to the other, blood oozing between the stitches and clotting in a deathly purple.

Whether the improvement in seat belt usage will continue or the campaign has only an immediate fright value isn't yet known, but several foreign governments, including Canada's, are watching the results.

The success so far is indicated in an interim survey by the department of the environment which sponsored the $1.8 million test campaign. Similar rises in seat belt buckling occurred in Lancashire and Yorkshire, the other experiment areas.

Educating the driver is not a problem limited to Britain, which has a relatively good accident record.

As any car-driving tourist from North America has learned, European drivers often consider themselves undiscovered grand prix heroes and they kill one another at a rate sometimes triple that of Canada's. Last year, Europe's four-wheel bombs wiped out about 90,000 people which is nearly 20,000 more than died in the Hiroshima atomic blast.

The current negotiations among Common Market countries for creation of a standard driver test accentuate some of the differences in mentality which may account for the wild variation in death rates per million kilometres travelled.

Several continental countries favor a five-year medical examination for all drivers, against the opposition of Britain which argues that such a requirement would strain health services and that less than one per cent of accidents are due to the driver's physical condition.

GOV'T WORKERS GET 18%

OTTAWA (CP) — A new three-year working agreement was signed Tuesday between 13,500 employees of the federal government and treasury board that will provide pay increases of 18 per cent over the term of the contract.

A lump-sum payment of $420 will be paid to employees for the period dating back to Oct. 1, 1972, and an average increase of seven per cent is effective Aug. 1. Two other increases of six and five per cent are due Dec. 31, 1973, and Dec. 30, 1974, respectively. The contract ends Sept. 28, 1975.

Pay to the members of the group varies widely from a low of about $3,500 to a high of about $13,500.

People Threaten Bears

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — In Banff National Park and other areas of the Rocky Mountains Forest Reserve, increasing contact with man has reduced many bears into itinerant garbage pickers and occasional campsite vandals.

This situation worries wildlife officials, who say it threatens both the bear and his human admirers.

If the bear becomes aggressive and attacks campers — such as the one which mauled Ernest Arndt, 21, of Brooks, Alta., and Evelyne Leach, 19, of Olds, Alta. — he has to be destroyed.

If he becomes a regular campground visitor, he will lose his fear of man and pose a danger to anyone he meets.

And if he eats too much garbage and junk food handouts during the summer, he may die unnoticed during winter hibernation for lack of proper body fat.

To stop bears from being "garbage-bound" and "people-tolerant" in this way, park officials trap those considered dangerous and transport them back into the hills — usually 50 miles from where they were caught.

Last year, Banff National Park wardens made 55 such trips into the back country with delinquent black and grizzley bears.

According to Chief Park Warden A. S. Anderson, only two bears were destroyed as dangerous repeat offenders last year, compared with four of five killed by traffic and two others shot because of disease.

The real answer, says Wally McPhee, Lake Louise area supervisor, is to recognize that it is a people problem, not a bear problem.

"The secret of good camping is to put all food in plastic bags so it will not give an odor, and then store it in the car or some other secure place away from where campers are sleeping."

WEEDED OUT

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Farmer John Steckle, 83, couldn't figure out why the long-haired teen-agers were so keen on weeding his land in the south east end of Kitchener on the sunny Canada Day weekend.

Even when he told them they were trespassing and ordered them off they kept sneaking back.

So he called police.

WARNING BLAMED FOR LOSS

TOFINO (CP) — Merchants in the area of Pacific Rim National Park say they lost money because of park officials' warning about a high 12-foot tide over the Canada Day weekend.

Erica Bach, who runs a marine and service station here, said holiday business was down because people were afraid to visit the park to camp on the beach during the weekend.

"There was no danger whatsoever from the tides. They were high, but not extreme," said Mrs. Bach.

She said the merchants plan to write Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien to complain about the warning issued by Jack Holroyd, the new park superintendent.

More Flexibility Urged In Science Programs

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Canadian universitites should provide students in science programs with as much flexibility as possible, to prepare the students for the uncertain employment days ahead.

The universities should even consider abolishing the distinction between honors and major courses in science, a background study for the Science Council released today adds.

There should be more emphasis on the social sciences—including business and management, the humanities and on the relationship of science and society in the undergraduate science curriculum.

"This should make for more enlightened, socially-oriented students" and should "promote subsequent flexibility in all aspects of employment and leisure-time activities," the background study written by Archibald Boyd and Andrew Gross argues.

The study also concludes that the nature of the Master of Science degree and the PhD degree need to be examined, in light of recent changes in employment and education.

And the study asks professors to refrain, in their counselling of students, from trying to "recreate themselves" and from influencing honors students only in the direction of university careers.

"A narrow undergraduate education restricts mobility into and among a variety of occupations and functions." The trend is toward a broad foundation at the bachelor's lvel with specialization coming later.

In the past, Canadian honors science graduates have tended to be more academically inclined and less industrially oriented than their U.S. colleagues.

With respect to honors science programs, more flexibility is warranted and students should be encouraged to have a greater voice in developing their own course sequence.

13 BIDS TO DRILL OFF VIETNAM

SAIGON (WP) — Thirteen major international oil companies, including six from the U.S. have submitted multimillion dollar bids for the right to drill for oil off the coast of South Vietnam.

The bids were opened Tuesday by members of the National Petroleum Board in the presence of the commercial attaches from the embassies of the six countries represented by the oil firms: the U.S., Canada, Great Britain, Japan, France and the Netherlands.

Although no details of the bids are to be released officially until they have been tabulated and submitted to the prime minister on Thursday, members of the board were visibly elated by the results of the competition.

Au Ngoc Ho, a former minister of the economy who is no booster of the Hieu government's policies, described the results as "most encouraging.

South Vietnam is a long way from earning any revenue from a producing, exporting oil industry. One resident oil company official said that even if the successful bidders are very lucky, striking oil with their first drilling and turning that strike into a poducing field, it would take at least five years to make the industry self-sustaining. And it is not certain that there acutally is any oil.

Isolated Indians Plead

HINTON, Alta. (CP) — Chief Robert Smallboy, who led a band of followers to a remote camp on the Kootenay plains in west-central Alberta five years ago, made a rare public appearance Tuesday to tell the environment conservation authority to leave the wilderness alone.

Speaking through an interpreter, he said he asks only one thing: "That wherever I go, your laws won't obstruct me as I make my way of living."

Chief Smallboy appeared as the provincial organization opened its fourth week of public hearings into land use and resource development of the eastern slopes of the Rockies.

"I want to freely practise my spiritual way of life," he said. "I am not thinking only of my own group. I pray for others, too, that they will have a better way of living than in the past."

Lazarus Roan and Mark Yellowbird, who live in the Smallboy camp, added that all they want to do is live peacefully in harmony with nature.

"I wonder if the white man understands what we mean by the right way of living, of serenity?" asked Yellowbird. "Would it be right if I had to go back to the reserve where all the corruption is?"

Yellowbird said he attended the hearing "because I am searching for what rightfully belongs to me. I have found it and I want to keep it."

Ontario MP Battles For Rain-Hit Farmer

OTTAWA (CP) — The government should declare parts of eastern Ontario disaster areas where farm crops have been hurt by heavy rainfall, Walter Baker (PC—Grenville-Carleton) said in the Commons Tuesday night.

Heavy rain last fall had prevented farmers from harvesting their 1972 crops and wet weather this spring had hampered seeding. Many farmers had been forced off the land.

"I have never seen more auction sales of farms and herds," he said.

He called for a full investigation into farm production costs, citing examples where they have risen sharply over recent months.

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan replied that wetweather was also a problem in the Peace River district of Alberta and British Columbia in northern Saskatchewan and Quebec.

He said the provinces are responsible for applying for special disaster aid. The federal government had made special provision in its crop insurance program to deal with the problem farmers are facing because of wet weather this year.

Home On the Range or Over a Campfire . . . Barbecued Chili Stew, A Camper's Special

The trusty, dependable frying pan is all that you need for this dish. It's a camper's delight (especially at cleanup time), but is as tasty cooked in the kitchen as it is outdoors.

Barbecued Chili Stew

1 (16 oz.) pkt. pre-cooked sausages
3 tbsp. butter
2 medium onions, sliced
1 clove garlic, minced
2 (14 oz.) cans red kidney beans, drained
1 (12 oz.) can kernel corn
1½ tsp. chili powder
½ tsp. salt
1 (14 oz.) can tomatoes
2 cups (½ lb.) shredded Canadian Cheddar Cheese
8 hamburger buns

Cut sausages into 1-inch pieces. Melt butter in a large frypan. Add sausages, onions and garlic, saute until brown. Add beans, corn, seasoning and tomatoes. Simmer, covered, 20 minutes. Stir in cheese and continue heating until cheese melts. Spoon over toasted hamburger buns. Sprinkle with more cheese if desired. Garnish with onion rings. Makes 8 servings.

Eager children greet plays in the park

Plays in Park Debut

The group of 10 performers, financed by an Opportunity for Youth grant, will give "participational" performances of children's plays in parks July 3 to Aug. 11.

Children are expected to join in the action rather than watch passively. Group leader Mike Hodgson (Peppy) is a fourth year drama student at the University of Victoria.

Performances will be held at 11 a.m. at the following parks: Mondays, Bamfield; Tuesdays, Beacon Hill; Wednesdays, Stadacona; Thursdays Topaz or Blanshard (alternate weeks).

Afternoon performances at 1 will be held: Mondays' McDonald Park; Tuesdays, Pemberton or Hollywood parks (alternate weeks); Wednesdays, Oaklands Park; Thursdays, Central Park. Fridays are reserved for special performances.

Think Small, Realtor Urges

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

With land becoming scarce, Victorians should start thinking small, according to John Hicks, manager of the Greater Victoria Real Estate Board.

"I can see 40 and 50-foot lots coming back," he told a luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Victoria Tuesday at the Empress.

New lots are a minimum of 60 feet wide.

He said Bill 42, the Land Commission Act, will take many potential development areas out of circulation and there will be a scarcity of land in the near future.

There was no reason why simple houses of high quality should not be constructed on smaller lots.

Hicks said there should be Victoria developments similar to two in Portland where quality homes were built around golf courses.

The houses cover two-thirds of the 40-to-50 foot lots but there was seclusion and all the space anyone could want.

Each house had a completely secluded small patio. The back yard was the golf course.

In addition to the purchase price of the house, homeowners had to pay a minimum $50 per month which included having their grass cut, front garden cared for and exterior of the house painted and in good repair.

Residents had no cares except looking after the interior of the house and protecting their windows from stray golf balls.

He said similar developments would be ideal for Victoria, especially in view of Bill 42 and the decline in available land.

"We want more leisure time. To heck with painting the house every three years, to heck with gardening every weekend and mowing the lawns twice a week," he said.

Victorians buy large lots for seclusion and yet they can be just as secluded on a small lot if it is properly designed.

Houses could be smaller, too. A living room can be small and still comfortable if it is designed efficiently.

He said the principles behind Bill 42 may be laudable — preserving greenbelts and agricultural land — but the freeze is making available land more expensive and creating a shortage of building lots.

"The poor wage earner cannot afford to buy them. Therefore we must cut the pie into smaller pieces, 40 and 50 foot lots."

Hicks said real estate continues to be one of the best investments a person can make.

People who say they should have bought a house a year ago because they could have made a thousand dollars in 12 months will be able to make the same statement a year from now, he said.

Other Canadians look upon Vancouver Island as an ideal retirement centre and as long as the demand is there, values will continue to rise.

Safety Device Kills

TORONTO (CP) — Police said an elastic cloth type safety band, sold to prevent children from putting their heads through the bars of cribs, was the cause of a baby's death.

Police said Stephanie Verner, 10 months, got her head caught under the four-inch wide elastic cloth and died during the night of asphyxiation. Her mother found her dead.

The elastic safety devices are sold separately from the crib and are placed near the bottom of the crib bars, police said.

An inquest will be held.

Wednesday Movies and Specials

ERNEST BORGNINE clowns it up on The Great Circus Parade tonight on Channel 9 at 6 p.m.

Movies

Portrait of a Mobster (xx), on 11 at 8. This 1961 crime drama is strictly for fans of gangster movies who like their action tough and the plot simple. Vic Morrow gives a tight-lipped performance as Dutch Shultz, the notorious hood of the prohibition era.

An Act of Murder (xxxx), on 13 at 8. This 1948 drama gives a grim and unrelenting portrayal of a judge on trial for the mercy killing of his wife. An excellent cast includes Fredric March, Edmond O'Brien and Florence Eldridge.

The Bounty Man (xx), on 4 at 8:30. Routine 1972 made-for TV western about a bounty hunter determined to bring in his man dead or alive starring Clint Walker, Richard Basehart and Margot Kidder.

Silver City (xx), on 11 at 11. Edmond O'Brien and Yvonne DeCarlo star in this thoroughly routine 1951 western about a silver prospector out to avenge himself against his thieving partner.

Advance to the Rear (xx), on 7 and 12 at 11:30. A 1964 Civil War comedy about a band of Union Army goldbricks who are transferred to the wild and wooly West starring Glenn Ford, Stella Stevens and Melvyn Douglas.

Lucky Jordan (xx), on 2 at 11:40. A good performance by Alan Ladd highlights this 1942 drama about an AWOL soldier who inadvertently becomes a hero by defeating a gang of Nazi agents.

Up the MacGregors (xx), on 6 and 8 at midnight. An entertaining 1966 tale of Scots and Irish immigrants in the American west. Italian-made with an international cast.

Singapore (xx), on 13 at midnight. Fred MacMurray and Ava Gardner star in this somewhat trite 1947 melodrama about a man who returns to Singapore to find his fiance a victim of amnesia, and married.

SONGSTRESS JUDY GINN visits the Paul Horn show tonight on Channel 8 at 10:30 p.m.

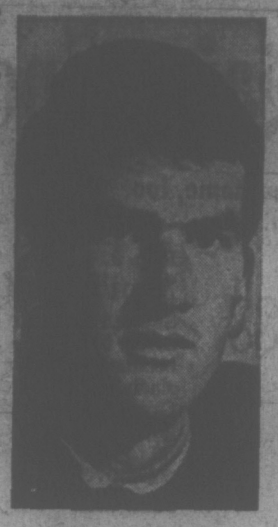
Hunters Shoot Down Two Rivals

Saanich E. J. Hunter, led by the same three players each time, downed two West Coast Junior "B" Lacrosse League rivals at the holiday weekend.

Saanich downed Cloverdale Salmonbellies 24-19 Monday in Cloverdale after handing North Shore Indians a 15-7 defeat Sunday in Pearkes Arena.

Kevin Alexander had six goals and seven assists against Cloverdale and three goals and three assists against North Shore. Dan Green also fired six goals into the Cloverdale net and had a goal and three assists against the Indians. Curt Robb was five-an-one in Cloverdale and three-and-four in Pearkes.



BACK IN ACTION with British Columbia Lions is Lefty Hendrickson, who ended one-year retirement Tuesday by signing contract with Lions. Hendrickson, a 29-year-old Canadian who played college football at University of Oregon, was with Lions for four Western Football Conference seasons before retiring at end of 1971 season, the last two at tight end. His return may solve problem for Lions, who started training camp with four tight ends and now have only one — Dick Bumpas —

Alouettes Crack Jinx With Taylor Field Win

REGINA (CP) — Montreal Alouettes finally entered the win column in Taylor Field Tuesday night with a 24-10 win over the Saskatchewan Roughriders in a Canadian Football League exhibition contest before 13,829 fans.

The victory was a morale-booster for the Als, who had never before beaten the Roughies in their home park.

Both clubs substituted freely, with Montreal quarterbacks George Mira and Jim Jones both connecting for touchdown passes.

Jones fired a 52-yard strike to John Eason in the second quarter and Mira hit Terry Evanshen for a 26-yard touchdown pass in the third.

The only Rider touchdown was scored by Walter Rhone who took a 19-yard pass from Brian Lindstrom in the end zone in the final minute.

The Als took a 4-0 first period lead, stretched it to 11-3 at half time and led 20-3 after three quarters.

Sweet also converted both touchdowns. Other Montreal points were scored on a safety when Bob Pearce fell on a high snap in the end zone and on a 47-yard single by Sonny Wade.

Lions at Calgary

CALGARY — British Columbia Lions will allow all-star split-end Jim Young to see only limited action tonight when they open their Western Football Conference pre-season schedule with a game against Calgary Stampeders.

Young is hampered by injured rib cartilages and coach Eagle Keys says he won't have his star receiver in the starting lineup.

Keys has only one healthy tight end in camp, rookie Dick Bumpas. He'll be joined by another first year man on the offensive line, Layne McDowell at right tackle, and Travis Roach will handle the other offensive tackle slot, replacing veteran all-star Trev Ekdahl.

Calgary, which finished out of the playoffs last year after winning the Grey Cup in 1971, already is plagued with injuries this year. Defensive end Craig Koinzan, offensive guard Herb Schumm and rookie linebacker Roger Goree will miss the game with various ailments.

In other exhibition contests tonight, Winnipeg Blue Bombers will be in Ottawa and Toronto Argonauts will tackle the Tiger Cats in Hamilton.

EGG PRICE HIKED

The B.C. Egg Marketing Board has increased the price of eggs paid producers for the third time in less than four months.

Ed Morgan, secretary-manager of the board, attributed the increase to higher costs of feed and production.

Producers now will receive 61 cents a dozen for Grade A large eggs, 58 cents for medium and 42 cents for small.

U.S. Dollar Nose-Dives Lower Still

Times News Services

The U.S. dollar nose-dived to a record low in Germany today. At 2.3540 marks.

Trading was "extremely hectic," one banker said.

In Zurich the dollar opened at an all-time low of 2.7875 Swiss francs. It closed Tuesday at 2.8275 francs.

New lows for the U.S. currency were also posted in Amsterdam, Brussels, Stockholm and Copenhagen.

"It's difficult to tell what will happen to the dollar now," said one dealer in Paris.

"I think it depends upon the (German) mark. If the mark continues to go up, the dollar will continue to go down."

In Austria the dollar plunged again in value today to a new low of 17.17 schillings to the dollar compared with the previous bottom rate of 17.65 recorded on Tuesday.

Stock markets around the world were generally depressed today. All U.S. markets were closed because of the Indepencence Day holiday.

The price of gold rose, as it usually does when the dollar is under pressure.

The metal opened up $1.38 cents in Zurich at $123 an ounce and up $1.75 in London at $124.

New U.S. restrictions on exports of scrap metal and soybeans appeared to be having a negative effect.

Market sources also believe the value of the dollar is being depressed by the so-called Eurodollar overhang, now totalling about $80 billion.

This is money that companies and individuals have deposited in Europe and switched from currency to currency as the tide of the market has shifted.

Dealers see no possibility of this fund moving back into dollars for deposit in the United States.

"It's almost impossible to sell any dollars," said one banker in Frankfurt.

"Conditions are very nervous," a London dealer for Swiss Bank added of the geneal atmosphere in European money markets.

Dealers in Scandinavia reported heavy dollar selling in early trading. The dollar sank to 3.95 kronor in Stockholm and to 5.57 Danish kroner in Copenhagen.

"Dollar holders are moving away from the dollar," said a dealer at Skandinaviska Enskilda Banken, the biggest foreign exchange bank in Scandinavia. "The market is extremely unstable, but the volume of trade is big."

Bankers in Paris said there was practically no trading there.

The dollar dropped more than three pfennigs on the Frankfurt market, opening at a record low of 2.3580 marks and then falling within 40 minutes to 2.3475. It had closed Tuesday at 2.3850.

The U.S. currency lost almost three per cent of its value overnight in Zurich, dropping to 2.79 Swiss francs.

The rate dropped six centimes in Paris to 4.0425 commercial French francs, but there was no business.

The pound rose only fractionally in London, however, to $2.5820; it closed at $2.5797 Tuesday.

MORTGAGE RATES UP

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto-Dominion Bank began charging 9.75 per cent on both National Housing Act and conventional mortgages Tuesday as the cost of housing mortgages from chartered banks appeared heading another notch higher.

Spokesmen for the other four major banks — Royal Bank, Bank of Nova Scotia, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and Bank of Montreal — said their rates are still at the 9.5 per cent level established at the end of May.

A move to 9.75 per cent will be the third increase since early April when increase to 9.25 per cent occurred.

Ottawa Warns On Gas Export

Federal Energy Minister Donald Macdonald today warned the provincial government that if B.C. attempts to interfere with contracts for export of natural gas, it will be offending federal jurisdiction and should be prepared for a court battle.

Macdonald, in Victoria to discuss the federal government's recently-announced national energy policy with several B.C. officials, referred to hearings under way in Vancouver held by the B.C. Energy Commission.

The commissionn, which was established during the last legislative session, is investigating all aspects of the B.C. natural gas industry and, specifically, a recent contract between Westcoast Transmission Limited and a U.S. customer calling for the export of large amounts of natural gas to that country.

Macdonald said the federal government has no objection to the B.C. Energy Commission studying and advising the provincial government on the details of the Westcoast deal.

But, he said, "if the board in due course attempted to deal with export contracts, we would see a conflict with the jurisdiction of the National Energy Board."

"If they would attempt to in any way interfere with the Westcoast contract itself, we would say that offends the federal jurisdiction," Macdonald said. "We would be prepared to fight it in court but we think our jurisdiction is clear here."

Gauvin Stays On To Probe

Times News Services

SAIGON—Canada's Michel Gauvin, scheduled to leave the truce commission today, instead called on the Viet Cong delegation at Tan Son Nhut air base to request assistance in tracking down the two missing Canadian officers.

Gauvin, head of the Canadian delegation to the truce commission, was bound for Ottawa to report on Canada's role in the International Commission of Control and Supervision, before returning to his old post as ambassador to Greece.

He was accompanied by Hungarian Ambassador Ferenc Esztergalyos at the meeting with Maj.-Gen Hoang Anh Tuan, chief Viet Cong delegate in Saigon.

A Viet Cong statement issued shortly afterwards pointed out that the missing Canadians, Capts. Ian Patten of Toronto and Fletcher Thomson of Ottawa, were not on any mission entrusted to them by the ICCS.

The Viet Cong stopped short of acknowledging that the two Canadian officers, missing since last Thursday northeast of Saigon, were being detained by Viet Cong troops.

But Canadian and South Vietnamese authorities have insisted that the two officers are being detained by Viet Cong troops near Xuan Loc, 45 miles northeast of Saigon.

No Sign Of Drugs

The search of the suspected drug - smuggling ship the drug smugglin ship the Marysville finished at 11:30 this morning and "we have drawn a blank," RCMP Supt. Jim Nelson said.

"We still have confidence that a sizeable cache is to be found in the Quatsino area and with a little bit of luck and much hard work we think we'll find it," Nelson said.

A squad of 30 men is raking the rugged coastline at Quatsino Sound near Winter Harbor "hoping something will come up."

"We know there is a large cache of drugs somewhere, but it's rugged, tough country up there and the search will take some time," Nelson said.

Navy experts familiar with the design of the 1944 model 640-ton all-steel vessel, moored at Esquimalt, have checked for false bulkheads or unusual modifications.

RCMP mechanics made a thorough search of the vessel's big engine rooms which house two 2,400 bhp diesel engines.

Navy frogmen went beneath the ship to check the 184-foot hull for false compartments, checking against a diagram of the vessel's structure found on board.

No sign of the $1 million stash, believed to be as bulky as about three bales of hay.

What officers did find was evidence of the lifestyle of the vessel's seven-man and six-woman crew, which in navy days before the ship was sold as surplus numbered 107 hands.

Where speakers had barked metallic orders from the bridge, stereophonic music systems had been wired up.

A solitary game of monopoly lay in the spacious canteen, and the galley equipped for bulk food was strewn with TV dinners.

MPs Wipe Out Work on Ridings

Times News Services

OTTAWA — Months of work by the B.C. Electoral Boundaries Commission proposing three more Commons seats for the province was all but wiped out Tuesday by Parliament.

By all-party agreement, the Commons gave formal first reading to a bill that would suspend the almost-completed work of adjusting electoral boundaries in accordance with the constitution and the 1971 population census.

Had the changes proposed in the recently-released B.C. report taken effect, the province would have gained three seats for a total of 26. However, the new bill which is expected to be passed this month, in effect repudiates the existing formula for redistribution of Commons representation every 10 years.

The proposed legislation gives MPs about 18 months to come up with a new formula and amendment of the constitutional British North America Act. Failing that, the current process of redistribution would go ahead as planned.

SHIPS GO BEGGING

Cutbacks in defence spending have left four of Canada's 23 destroyers in mothballs at a time when the navy has been given increased responsibility in coastal surveillance and guarding the country's maritime and fishing interests. Only last weekend, an Esquimalt-based naval vessel was used in apprehending 20 persons on two other vessels suspected of smuggling.

The idle destroyers, including the St. Croix tied up at Esquimalt, may have to be sold or scrapped, sparking repeated attacks on the federal government from opposition defence critics. See page 36.

Haldeman Aides Set to Tell All

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — Two former White House officials are reported ready to plead guilty in the Watergate cover-up and implicate H. R. Haldeman, the resigned White House chief of staff.

Gordon Strachan and Herbert Porter, both Haldeman proteges, have agreed to cooperate with the special Watergate prosecutor, Archibald Cox, according to the New York Daily News.

Porter will plead guilty to obstructing justice in connection with committing perjury before Watergate investigators, the paper claims.

Strachan's planned plea was not reported.

Strachan sent word through his lawyers June 14 that onee he received limited immunity from the Senate Watergate committee he would be willing to testify that Haldeman knew of the Watergate cover-up "from the beginning," the paper adds.

Strachan, who reported to Haldeman at the White House, has been granted the limited form of immunity that prevents prosecution on grounds of his own testimony.

Meanwhile, in San Clemente, Calif., the Western White House blamed a climate of suspicion generated by the Watergate affair for con troversy over the property tax bill on President Nixon's estate there.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler's comments came in response to a report in a Santa Ana, Calif., newspaper that the president's property tax bill was at least $25,000, and perhaps as much as $55,000, too low over the past three years.

The property tax "is a matter totally up to the tax assessor. There is nothing for me to say. The tax assessor should assess," Ziegler said.

Ziegler also said Tuesday that Nixon is "appalled by the constant malicious efforts to suggest there was wrongdo-

Speed Record Set

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — A 100-ton test ship moving at 89 miles an hour has broken the world's speed record for large, waterborne vessels, Aerojet Co. officials say. Spokesmen said the four-engine, waterjet-propelled craft turned in the 76-knot performance Monday in a regular test run in East Passage near here.

Alice Skims Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Alice, the season's first hurricane, brushed past Bermuda early today, did no major damage and dumped at least two inches of rain that ended a three-month drought in the British island colony.

Tanker Collides

LES ESCOUMINS, Que. (CP) — At least one man was injured today in a collision involving an oil tanker and a cargo vessel in the fog-shrouded St. Lawrence River about two miles down-river from here. The injured man, a crew-member on the oil tanker St. Spyridon, was removed from the ship by a pilot boat and taken to hospita. Both his legs were severed.

'Unknown' Hijack

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — An Argentine airplane on an internal flight was hijacked today by unknown persons, the Aerolineas Argentinas company said. The Boeing 737 jet had just taken off at 12:55 p.m. from Buenos Aires on a flight to Jujuy, 1,000 miles northwest.

Cherry Convoy To Defy Law

KELOWNA (CP) — A fruit growers association is organizing a fruit caravan to travel from here to Vancouver to challenge the legality of the B.C. Food Marketing Act.

The 40-vehicle convoy, expected to leave Oliver or Keremeos Saturday with 11 tons of cherries, is being organized by the United Fruit Growers (UFG).

"We aim to bring economic reality to the Okanagan," UFG president Hans Rhenisch said. His group is comprised of 125 growers who have broken away from the B.C. Fruit Growers Association (BCFGA).

"We want to return the cost of production to the producer," Rhenisch added. The only way to do this is to "circumvent wholesalers and retailers" dealing through the marketing arm of the BCFGA.

To get the UFG's point across, said Rhenisch, the caravan will be overloaded in direct contravention of the Food Marketing Act, which stipulates that each vehicle must not carry more than 400 pounds of produce.

He said participants are being advised to "overload" their vehicles by between 100 and 300 pounds. "We are prepared to go to court. We challenge the legislation as being unconstitutional and against the bill of rights."

FRENCH CALL BACK NUCLEAR TEST SHIPS

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — French navy ships that left Papeete harbor several weeks ago to participate in the nuclear test program have returned, and a local radio station speculated that the French government has postponed the test explosions until mid-July.

The station, known locally as Coconut Radio, said the ships will not sail again for the test site on Mururoa Atoll before Friday. Local observers said this would make the first explosion unlikely before the middle of July.

The radio station speculated that the tests were delayed by difficulties in preparing the test site and two tropical storms last month.

'FREE US FROM YOKE' PLEA TO QUEEN

Times News Services

The chief, president of the federation of Saskatchewan Indians, was scheduled to present the Queen with a peace pipe at a ceremony marking the centennial of the RCMP.

He said Indians continue to feel strongly loyal to the Crown.

"But we are saddened to say that over the years, some of your servants have not kept your part of the agreement.

"At times, attempts were made to devastate our treaties, to destroy them."

Chief Ahenakew said the threat to Indian treaties and "broken promises" bewilder, confuse and frighten Indians and cause many of their problems.

"We were once a mighty people, free of spirit, and independent.

"It is our dream that once again we will be free and on equal grounds with our white neighbors. But we must be allowed to develop in our own way so that we can be contributing citizens of this great land.

"Your servants must learn this, and understand this," he said, referring to the government.

All went as planned, but the chief found himself without a microphone and his words could not be heard.

This caused a certain amount of consternation for officials who helped stage the event. But an RCMP corporal standing in the crowd was overheard to say "now that was a master stroke."

Despite the absence of a microphone, both the Queen and RCMP Commissioner W. L. Higgit heard the chief's plea and acknow-

Relaxed Chris Evert Shatters Margaret's Grand Slam Hopes

LONDON (AP) — Chris Evert, 18, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., upset top-seeded Margaret Court of Australia 6-1, 1-6, 6-1 today, giving her her first crack at the Wimbledon women's singles tennis title.

Miss Evert reached the semifinals last year only to lose to Australian Evonne Goolagong. But this time, she crushed the 31-year-old Mrs. Court's bid for a fourth Wimbledon crown and an unprecedented second grand slam of tennis.

The veteran Australian already had the Australian and French titles wrapped up and was hoping to add the Wimbledon and U.S. Open crowns to her laurels to become the only woman in tennis history to win all four championships twice.

Last year, Miss Evert was the new sensation of women's tennis and the burden awed her. This year, with the pressure off, she's more relaxed.

The other semi-finalists are defending champion Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., and Evonne Goolagong of Australia. Theirs will be a rematch of last year's final in which Mrs. King won 6-3, 6-3. Evonne had won the title in 1971, beating Mrs. Court.

Miss Goolagong has been the most consistent performer this year, reaching the semi-finals without dropping a set. Even Mrs. Court, who strode imperiously through the first three rounds, surprisingly was taken to three sets in her quarter-final against Olga Morozova of Russia.

So was Miss Evert, who dropped a quarter-final set to Rosie Casals of San Francisco. And Mrs. King has run into trouble twice. Lesley Hunt, the unseeded Australian, took a set from her in the fourth round, while another Australian, Kerry Melville, made her work hard to win in the quarter-finals 9-8, 8-6.

In the men's singles, Alex Mayer, a law student from Wayne, N.J., has emerged as the star of the competition.

Then in Tuesday's quarter-finals, he rallied from two sets down for a 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 victory over eighth-seeded Juergen Fassbender of West Germany.

Mayer will be the only American—and the only non-seed—in the semi-finals of the men's singles. The other American in the quarter-finals, Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., lost 8-6, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4 to Alex Metreveli, the first Russian ever to reach the semi-finals here in the men's singles.

The other semi-final will be between Roger Taylor of Britain, seeded third and winner in a tough fight over Bjorn Borg, 6-1, 6-8, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5 and second-seeded Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia.

Kodes also had a hard time in his quarter-final, before eliminating 19-year-old Vijay Amritraj of India 6-4, 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5.

On Weekend Program: A Four-Minute Mile?

The greatest collection of track and field talent since the 1954 Commonwealth Games in Vancouver or, if you prefer, the pre-Olympic meet at UVic stadium in 1968.

That's not only the boast of the two-day Pacific International Games at Centennial Stadium Saturday and Sunday. It's bold fact.

What's more, the magic of the mile will be the feature attraction just as it was at Empire Stadium 19 years ago.

That was the historic occasion when Roger Bannister, first man to break four minutes in the mile, was to meet John Landy, the second man to crack that magic barrier and the reigning record holder in a classic head-to-head confrontation.

History records the fact that Bannister won that August day when Landy turned the wrong way and his famed opponent ran by him on the other side.

But even more: That was the first time two men had broken four mintes for the mile in one race.

Sure, it's happened many times since then, but never in Victoria.

On Saturday afternoon it could, for there are no less than nine runners coming to this meet who have run the mile in under four minutes or the equivalent at 1,500 metres.

Best of the lot is probably Rod Dixon of New Zealand, bronze medallist in the Olympic 1,500 metres. His best for the mile is a crackling 3.55. Add Tony Polhill, another finalist in the 1,500 at Munich with a best of 3.57, and New Zealand has a strong one-two punch to offer.

Others are Kazuyushi Mizuno of Japan (3.42.7 for the 1,500); Graham Crouch of Australia (3.57 mile); Peter Watson, the Aussie champ (3.57); Australia's Tony Williams (3.58.5); Scott Daggett (3.59); Mark Feig (3.59) and Canada's own Ken Elmer, well-known here (3.58.2), and the possibilities are interesting indeed.

But that old magic of the mile was just one of many plums tossed out by meet director Ron Bowker this week. The list of competitors features champions of all competing countries — Canada, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, U.S., even Jamaica, and two other surprises.

There will be 48 Olympic competitors;

There will be 14 people who have won medals at Commonwealth Games;

There will be 11 Commonwealth record holders;

There will be seven men high jumpers who have cleared seven feet, and four of these will be Canadians;

There will be six women (Ms, if you like) who have bettered 21 feet in the long jump;

There will be seven women who have run the 400 metres under 54 seconds;

There will be the world record holder (51 seconds flat) for that distance — Marilyn Newfhill of Jamaica. She is coming by special invitation;

★ ★ ★

And there will be those two surprises, both of whom happen to be their country's national champions as well.

Bowker realizes he may be challenging fate, but he has accepted the entry of Sonja Van Zyl and Alta Wessels of South Africa. The girls are attending summer school at Saskatoon. Miss Van Zyl is the South African 800 and 1,500 metre champ, and Miss Wessels the 100 and 200-metre titleholder.

If the big questions is: will the black activists take a dim view of the appearance of two South Africans because of that country's apartheid policy? Bowker is prepared to take that chance.

"There are at least 14 or 15 blacks on the U.S. team," he said. "But we'll see," he added.

And there's just a chance too that a mystery man may run in the mile, he also admitted. In Europe they call them 'rabbits.' We're not supposed to do it, but . . .

"Four minutes would be great, wouldn't it?"

Visitors Due to Hit Peak Here

Some of the athletes and team officials of the five nations which took part in the Pacific Conference Games in Toronto last month are a little upset —they are only now starting to reach peak form.

But meet director Ron Bowker of Victoria, where the last of four satellite meets is to be held Saturday and Sunday, is delighted.

The track and field season in Australia and New Zealand ended three months ago and both countries tried unsuccessfully to arrange some competition on the way to the Conference Games.

"It's all back to front compared with the way we'd like it," says Australian team manager Graeme Briggs. "We really needed the competition before the big games, not after."

The Australian team manager complained:

"The team will probably reach its peak fitness at the last meeting before we get home."

Well, the last meet is at Centennial Stadium starting at 1:15 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday and Bowker isn't complaining. In fact, he was full of smiles at a press luncheon Tuesday and was confident the weekend meet would attract large crowds.

Co-sponsored by Invictus and the Saanich Peninsula Jaycees, the meet opens each day with field events at 1:15 p.m. and track events starting at 1:30. Official opening ceremonies will be held at 2:30 Saturday and will be followed by a sky-diving exhibition before track events continue.

For the Conference Games, the teams from Australia, New Zealand, Japan, the United States and Canada were restricted to 35 members each.

NO RESTRICTION

But there is no restriction for the satellite meets and, in fact, many B.C. athletes, including several from Vancouver Island, will be added for the Victoria meet.

In Saskatoon Tuesday night, the Canadian team, bolstered by several Western Canadian athletes, captured more medals than any other team.

Non-regulars, among them Brenda Walsh of Edmonton, gained three gold medals and one bronze medal.

Miss Walsh won the 800 metres in two minutes, 6.9 seconds, Brenda Eisler of Vancouver won the long jump with 6.32 metres and Val Peterson of Winnipeg took the javelin with a throw of 49.68 metres to lead the Canadian team to 19 medals including seven golds, five silvers and seven bronzes.

Former Victorian Penny May, another who will be competing in the Island meet, was third in the long jump.

The Australian team, including the meet's only double winner, Denis Robertson, won 17 medals, followed by the United States with 14, New Zealand with seven and Japan with six.

Rain forced several events to be cancelled when the first of the satellite meets was staged Sunday in Ottawa but not before Joyce Sadowick of Burnaby had set a Canadian open and native record for the women's 200 metres.

Miss Sadowick surprised a crowd of 3,000 when she finished in 23.2 seconds, one-tenth of a second faster than the previous native and open record of 23.3.

Rocks Face Vital Series

The Victoria Shamrock coach said today he will go with the same lineup that hammered Coquitlam Adanacs 22-13 last Saturday for tonight's Western Lacrosse Association game against New Westminster Salmonbellies at 8 at Memorial Arena.

"We want this one," Kowalyk said, referring to the two-game series — tonight and at New Westminster Thursday night.

"Of course, the Salmonbellies will be just as keen on victory," Kowalyk said. "If they win the two games, they will be tied with us. But if we sweep the series, we will have an eight-point bulge and an almost insurmountable lead for the third and last playoff spot."

Kowalyk will again call on the services of junior scoring star Kevin Alexander. He's been used only twice by the Shamrocks this season and has scored seven goals.

In Vancouver Tuesday night, the second-place Adanacs downed the Burrards 17-14 before 2,389 fans to close the gap on the league leaders to four points.

Mainlanders Tie For Junior Lead

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jim Nelford of Pitt Meadows and Gord Harder of Surrey were deadlocked with scores of 146 after the opening 36 holes in the British Columbia junior golf championship.

Nelford had an oppening round of 72, then fired a 74, while Harder carded a pair of 73s over the par-72 Quilchena Golf Club course.

Rich Donaldson of West Vancouver was in third place after a 73-74, three shots better than Brad MacLeod of Victoria, who was all alone in fourth with a 150 total.

Dick Baker of Nanaimo and Allan Swope of Pitt Meadows were fifth with 151 and Laurie Peet of Cowichan and Lorne Sammartino of Nelson had 152s.

City Rifleman Wins Premier Match Award

Capt. Don Ireland of CFB Esquimalt captured the coveted Lieutenant Governor's trophy Tuesday during the final day of competition in the four-day 89th annual B.C. Rifle Association match at Heal's Range.

Vic Finholm of Port Alberni (Arrowsmith Fusiliers) was the only other major winner from Vancover Island. A master shooter, he won the Vern Barclay 900 yard match with 50-5v and collected the Lord Mayor's aggregate prize with a 147-18V total.

Sorensen, a master, fired a 105-16V score to win the Lieutenant Governor's first stage match (which decided entrants in the second stage), won the MacDonald-Export match with 98-11V and captured the Fred Asher Challenge Trophy for an aggregate of the previous wins.

Sergeant Alan King of Victoria emerged the winner in five individual service rifle matches fired the previous weekend in both Victoria and Chilliwack. King also paced the PPCLI squad to victory in the inter-service team match.

Refs Request Spot in Hall For Hayes

INGERSOLL, Ont. (CP) — The National Hockey League Referees and Linesmen Association has recommended to NHL President Clarence Campbell that George Hayes be placed before the Hockey Hall of Fame's election committee.

Hayes, a resident of nearby Beachville, officiated in the NHL from 1946-1965 and worked a record 1,513 league games as a referee and linesman.

In making the recommendation, association president Matt Pavelich stated that the association was expressing its "strong desire" to see Hayes considered for the Hall of Fame.

Pavelich said: "His years of service and dedication to the game of hockey are worthy of an appointment to the Hockey Hall of Fame."

Cassata Signs One-Year Pact

OTTAWA (CP) — Quarterback Rick Cassata has signed a one-year contract with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference.

Cassata, who led Riders to a tie for first place in the EFC last season, has been working out with the club but took part in no hitting drills while his 1973 contract remained unsigned.

Finley May Ask Courts to Decide

OAKLAND (AP) — Charles Finley says he may take the National Hockey League to court over moving his California Golden Seals to Indianapolis.

"I can either sell the Seals, keep the Seals or move them to Indianapolis," Finley said Tuesday if a telephone interview from his Chicago office.

At a recent league meeting, Finley asked $6.5 million for the franchise while the league offered a reported $6 million.

"But that doesn't mean I won't try to move," he said.

"If I picked up my team and moved to Indianapolis, then it might be up to the courts to decide if I could do it, not the NHL. I'm not saying I will, but I'm . . . going to consider all the possibilities."

Finley says he has lost $2.3 million in three years here because of poor attendance.

Canoe Champs

AMBITIOUS ARENA PLAN FOR DOWNTOWN TORONTO

TORONTO (CP) — Harold Ballard, president of Maple Leaf Gardens, said Tuesday he and his partners are planning a new arena and stadium in downtown Toronto.

"We're talking about a rink with 20,000 to 25,000 seating capacity and a stadium seating 60,000," Ballard said.

Meanwhile, he said during a news conference, the Gardens, home of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, would be expanded with balconies at the north and south end to increase seating to 18,000.

Ballard says he will own both the arena and stadium and that he has investigated the possibility of bringing major league baseball to this city.

Ballard was in Toronto on a temporary pass from Millhaven minimum security centre. He was sentenced Oct. 20, 1972, to two concurrent three-year terms on charges of theft and fraud from the Gardens involving about $205,000.

Heroin Traffic Operates Like Ordinary Business

By BRUCE OBEE
Times Staff

Organizations engaged in the sale of illicit narcotics operate in the same manner as large corporations, Victoria county court learned Tuesday.

Sgt. David Staples, head of Victoria RCMP drug squad, was called to give evidence on the sale and distribution of heroin in B.C. at a trial for five Victorians charged with conspiracy to possess and traffic heroin.

Charged are Daniel Hadden, 57; Michael Kincses, 27; Wendy Dance, 25; Sharon Dannenberg, 29; and Robert Langer, 30. (See story below.)

Staples, an RCMP officer for 19 years, told the court he was attached to Vancouver's drug squad for nearly four years before he took charge of Victoria's drug section Jan. 16, 1971.

Through "considerable contact" with addicts and informants involved in heroin distribution, Staples began investigating possession and trafficking offences, and later dealt exclusively "in the upper echelons of organizations of heroin trafficking," he said.

Staples' expert qualifications were questioned by Douglas Macfarlane, counsel for Langer, and Roger Cardinal, Dannenberg's lawyer, before Judge M. L. Drake ruled the opinionated evidence admissible.

Describing trafficking rings as "pyramid" structures, with addicts at the base and the individual who subsidizes the importation of heroin at the top, Staples told the court of the methods employed by such organizations.

The first Canadian contact to receive the drug is the "back-end man" who cuts it with milk sugar or a similar adulterate to reduce the strength and increase the profit.

The back-end man may split the heroin into one-ounce packages or bundles of 400 capsules.

Caches are then "laid down" or buried at various places in the dealer's area. A mental or written note of the location is kept.

Working for the back-ender is the "front-end man" who contacts "middlemen" interested in purchasing the one-ounce or 400-cap bundles.

The middleman, or one of his employees, splits the packages into saleable bundles of 50 or 25 caps and lays down more caches.

The bundles are then sold to street traffickers who break them into smaller parcels of between 10 and 15 caps.

The gelatine capsules are placed in rubber condoms to protect them from moisture and the condoms are in turn placed in moisture-proof jars which are buried a few inches underground.

Under cross-examination by Robert Price, representing Kincses and Dance, Staples said the dealers at the bottom of the pyramid can't successfully operate without the higher echelons although they may not know one another.

The sale and distribution of heroin is similar to the production of diamonds, rubber, or any other product, he said.

Equating heroin trafficking with a common legitimate business, Price said the driver of a bread truck would be the courier and "the grocery stores are the bread-pushers."

The trial continues today.

Mingling Brought Arrests

By visiting numerous public bars RCMP drug squad members pieced together an investigation which led to charges of conspiracy against five Victorians, Victoria county court was told Tuesday.

Sgt. David Staples, head of Victoria drug squad, was the principal Crown witness at trial for five Victorians charged with conspiring to possess and traffic heroin between Sept. 8 and Oct. 27.

Charged are Daniel Hadden, 57; Michael Kincses, 27; Wendy Dance, 25; Sharon Dannenberg, 29; and Robert Langer, 30.

Staples testified he and other drug squad members visited several local bars where some of the accused and others named in the indictment often met.

Conversations were often inaudible to Staples but he did overhear the word "bundle" used by Gerry Fox while talking with Hadden at the Colony Motor Inn, Oct. 7. Hadden used the word "caps," he said.

★ ★ ★

Fox was named in the indictment but not charged.

"Then all we have out of this investigation as far as words go is the use of the words 'bundles' twice by one Fox and the word 'caps' by Fox and the word 'caps' by Hadden," said Robert Price, counsel for Dance and Kincses.

Asked if the words "may have been used in some quite innocent context," Staples replied, "probably not."

"I'm not asking you for probabilities at this point," said Price.

There's a "certain fascination" in talking about trafficking in illicit drugs, suggested Price, and it's unlikely people involved in the heroin trade would talk in audible tones in a public bar.

Why then, asked Price, did Staples overhear two words in particular when he was unable to hear the words preceeding and following them?

Those words "made an impression," Staples replied.

Staples testified he and Const. John Johnstone were driving in the 400-block Quebec Street Oct. 26 when Dannenberg and Dance came out of the Royal Scot Apartments at 425 Quebec. Dannenberg carried a brown paper bag.

The capsules were divided into bundles of 25 which would indicate they were being sold at the street level in the hierarchy of the heroin trade, said Staples.

Street musicians and juggler at Heritage Court

Sunshyne Passes Through

Sunshyne, eight young musicians and a juggler, has an $11,880 Opportunities for Youth grant to tour B.C. communities playing music in the streets.

They arrived Monday afternoon to give a series of 15-minute concerts near the Empress. Audiences were enthusastic but puzzled—there was no hat strategically placed for donations. Just nine kids playing Dixieland jazz and having as much fun as their listeners.

Band leader Bruce Fairbairn says his group never bothers to take out a licence to play in city streets.

"We take them by surprise," Fairbairn said Tuesday. "We arrive. We give our concert and we go."

He said the group tries to hit communities during festival weekends such as the Campbell River Salmon Festival or Kelowna regatta.

They play mostly old favorites like Hold that Tiger and Bill Bailey, but are willing to take a crack at anything the crowd requests. Average length of a performance is 15 minutes.

This is the second year the band, composed of music students from Simon Fraser and the University of British Columbia, have received an OFY grant to entertain the public.

Sunshyne headed back to its home base in Vancouver Tuesday afternoon but plans to return to Victoria for a longer visit.

So far police have not troubled the group.

"We try to keep our crowds off the streets," Fairbairn said.

However, assistant city solicitor Bill McIntosh says Sunshyne needs a permit to play in city streets. In his opinion they constitute "unusual and extraordinary traffic" which requires a licence.

'All the Bodies Going to VGH' Pollen Informed

Professional "rivalry" has arisen between the Royal Jubilee and Victoria General hospitals over Victoria's new emergency ambulance service, Mayor Peter Pollen said today.

The service has been operating only three days but, Pollen told reporters, he has already received a number of telephone complaints from doctors that "all the bodies are going to the General."

The mayor said as a result the city has had to ask the VGH, which is running the new service under an arrangement with the city, to be as objective as possible in apportioning ambulance deliveries of sick and injured people.

"It's interesting to note that even in an illustrious profession such as the medical profession there appears to be a distinct rivalry," he commented.

He said indications midway through the first week are that the service is being run very efficiently, but it is "a little disconcerting" for the city to receive complaints that the builk of emergency cases are being taken to one hospital.

Ground rules were established before the service began to help determine which hospital should handle any given patient, he said. These were based on the wishes of the patient and the hospital at which his or her doctor practised.

If those factors did not apply for some reason, the patient would be taken to the nearest hospital.

"That is all we can really do, and hope that this policy is adhered to by the drivers," Pollen said.

At this morning's press conference the mayor also confirmed that the Royal Canadian Air Force Association 800 Wing has now given thie city a firm commitment to provide a second, stand-by ambulance for the city service.

Health and welfare committee chairman Ald. Percy Frampton said the offer to provide the ambulance at an estimated $10,000 cost arrived at city hall Tuesday.

Frampton said the RCAFA has agreed to provide the vehicle fully equipped, and he hopes it may be possible to have it in service by mid-September. The offer is expected to be recommended for approval at Thursday's meeting of the health committee.

Meanwhile, the lone new ambulance has made 15 runs in its first three days.

Victoria General Hospital's assistant executive director and comptroller John Murray said there are an average of five emergency calls every 24 hours in Victoria.

On duty at all times, the ambulance is stationed outside the hospital's emergency department and is dispatched from Victoria police station.

NEW DIRECTOR of nursing at Victoria General Hospital is Barbara Burke, 36, who formerly held the same position at Doctors Hospital in Toronto. The post at VGH has been vacant since the resignation of Sister Mary Doris last summer. A native of Montreal, the new director will be in charge of nearly 300 on the nursing staff.

Board to Review Firing of Teacher

A three-man board of reference has been appointed by Education Minister Eileen Dailly to review the case of a Victoria teacher who was fired earlier this year by the Greater Victoria school board.

Kenneth N. Beattie, a teacher for seven years at Oak Bay Junior Secondary, was dismissed by the school board April 10 after failing to obey an order by the board for him to return to work.

District superintendent A. J. Longmore said today Beattie spent long periods of time away from work, giving illness as his reason.

Reports from the district's medical health officer and a psychiatrist indicated the teacher was fit to work, however, and Beattie was so ordered by the school board in March.

After an interview with board members and Longmore, Beattie was dismissed. Under the Public Schools Act reinstatement or dismissal must be effected within seven days of the teacher's interview with the board.

Chairman of the board of reference is Vancouver lawyer K. W. Fawcus. The two other members will be Delta school trustee Fred Gingell, a charter accountant, and W. T. Gutteridge, a North Vancouver teacher.

Opening date for the board's hearings have not been set, but the hearings will likely take place in Victoria.

GIRL DIES

Group Fights Road Route Near Library

The petition will be sent to Highways Minister Graham Lea.

In the preamble to the petition, the organizers state, "It is clear that the location of a major no-access highway so close to the library will make both the library and the activities in the meeting room practically impossible."

They claim that public funds used to build the library — which was only completed in October, 1972 — "will be totally wasted."

The department of highways is considering three proposals for the extension of Blanshard Street. Two of them — "still under active consideration," according to the petitioners—will close off access to the new library branch.

Mayor Knocks Bid To Lease Theatre

Mayor Peter Pollen dashed cold water today on a proposal that the Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee should lease, rather than buy, the Royal Theatre on Broughton as an interim civic cultural centre.

Pollen branded the suggestion by the Pacific Coast Centre Foundation as "rather uninformed," and said if such impractical ideas are bandied about it could "seriously jeopardize" the current efforts to purchase the property from Famous Players Ltd.

In a letter to the city, the foundation says the Royal is badly in need of repair and refurbishing, which would add at least $250,000 to the estimated $300,000 cost of purchasing the building.

It states that unless adjoining land is available to allow for a major expansion of the present auditorium, "the existing seating capacity is such as to render the building totally uneconomic, and we are convinced that it would very quickly become a serious burden upon the taxpayers."

Leasing the theatre would avoid such capital outlay and the money saved could be committed toward the eventual capital cost of constructing a permanent civic cultural centre, the foundation's letter says.

However, Pollen countered the arguments today by pointing out that the lease based on the building's replacement value would be extremely costly.

He said the four core municipalities have expressed interest in discussing the purchase, with the general feeling that the price is attractive enough to be a "reasonably good buy" on an intermunicipal basis.

The foundation, he said, has some "grandiose ideas" for a cultural centre costing millions of dollars, but until such time as the provincial government shows definite interest in supporting that kind of project "I think one must be very practical."

Pollen said the PCCF should show some initiative in collecting $100,000 of "seed money" to demonstrate to senior governments that there is keen community support for the proposed facility.

The proposal to acquire the Royal Theatre will be discussed by the Intermunicipal Committee next week.

Tot's Recovery 'a Miracle'

For she and her husband, Douglas, the ordeal started Saturday night when they learned that their second youngest child, five-year-old Christopher, had been found unconscious in water off Maple Bank Road.

He had been taken to Victoria General Hospital still unconscious.

Earlier his heart had stopped. But Mrs. Jean Stone of 278 Island Highway, a nurse who was at the scene when the boy was pulled from the water, had been able to revive his heartbeat using mouth-to-mouth respiration.

Police later commended Mrs. Stone and Gary Lyon of 757 Lily Street for their first aid, and Michael and Robin West of West Vancouver and Kristin Ross of 1625 Esquimalt Road, for rescuing the boy.

"He was in very bad shape when we left him Saturday night," Mrs. Maginley said. "The doctors told us to be prepared for brain damage."

But at 3 a.m. Sunday he began to regain consciousness and soon he was alert enough to ask for breakfast. The Maginleys saw the boy again at 4:30 a.m.

By Tuesday the boy was up and around with no signs of brain damage.

The doctors also told the Maginleys to be prepared for "a whopping big case of pneumonia."

"But so far he doesn't even have the sniffles," Mrs. Maginley said this morning.

Christopher has two sisters, aged 12 years and 18 months and two brothers, aged 10 and 9.

TORCH SPARKS SUITE BLAZE

A $10,000 fire gutted a suite at a Douglas Street apartment block Tuesday, forcing about two dozen people to evacuate.

Fire Chief Eric Simmons said fire broke out in suite 205 of the Emily Carr Apartments, 200 Douglas, shortly before 2 p.m.

It was apparently caused by a blowtorch being used by a plumber installing a new sink, he said.

The fire in the suite occupied by Mrs. M. Fordyce climbed the inside wall and mushroomed into the floor and roof of 305, home of A. Russell, said Simmons.

There were no injuries.

Ex-Magistrate Jailed For Tax Evasion

WINNIPEG (CP) — John R. Knight, a former mayor of Thompson, Man., was given a three-month jail term and a $2,500 fine Tuesday for evading income tax on $46,264 income earned over a three-year period.

Knight, 56, a former magistrate in Thompson who is currently on leave of absence from his post there as chief county court clerk, pleaded guilty June 15. He also must pay about $8,000 owing in income tax.

Knight, mayor of Thompson in 1967 and 1968, began the leave of absence from his court clerk's post after the tax charge was laid April 2, 1973.

Defence counsel Jack Drapack said Knight "lacked one thing and that is a solid financial head." But Judge Wallace Darichuk said Knight, as a magistrate, was "presumed to know the law."

Judge Darichuk said the reason he didn't give Knight a longer jail term was his "substantial contribution" to Thompson, and the fact that Knight's position in the community was damaged by the conviction.

Strikers Hold Pep Rally

EDMONTON (CP) — About 650 members of Edmonton local 41 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees staged a pep rally Tuesday to mark the 24th day of the strike of 1,030 general workers at the city-owned Royal Alexandra Hospital.

Ian Downie, a spokesman for the union, said morale among the strikers is still high. Hospital officials said Tuesday that only a handful have crossed picket lines and returned to work.

Robbery Victim Dies

EDMONTON (CP) — Rodney Ekman, 23, a gas station attendant knocked unconscious June 24 when $277 was stolen from the service station where he was employed, died Tuesday morning.

He had been in critical condition in hospital since he was struck on the forehead with a shock absorber after the robbery, which occurred about 4:30 a.m.

Protection Act Proclaimed

EDMONTON (CP) — Legislation allowing control of almost any industrial use that disturbs the surface of the land was proclaimed Tuesday by the Alberta cabinet.

Environment Minister Bill Yurko said the act will place greater emphasis on prevention of land-surface disturbances, particularly in strip mining, oil sands excavation projects and interprovincial pipeline operations.

Before the regulations are brought into force, however, they will be discussed with representatives of industry, the cabinet minister said.

HOSPITAL OXYGEN SUPPLY JUST MISSED BY WRECKER

VIETNAM SERVICE RIBBON MULLED

SAIGON (CP) — Canadian servicemen are wondering whether the months in Vietnam warrant a campaign ribbon to be worn on their uniforms.

Such a ribbon has been approved by the four countries of the International Commission of Control and Supervision — Canada, Hungary, Poland and Indonesia.

It has red and white stripes with one green stripe in the centre, using all the colors of the four national flags.

The design was forwarded to the national capitals for approval and no word has as yet been received from Ottawa.

Judge Orders Transfusion

MONTREAL (CP) — A baby girl with a heart defect born to a Jehovah's Witness couple was subjected Tuesday to a blood exchange ordered by Quebec superior court after her parents refused permission for the procedure.

'Chunnel' Gets Priority Over 3rd U.K. Airport

Manchester Guardian

LONDON — The British government is being forced to postpone the construction of Maplin airport in favor of the channel tunnel linking Britain and France.

Faced with the public expenditure figures for the next five years, most of the government departments concerned have recognized that the country can not afford two multi-million dollar projects at the same time.

Both the tunnel and Maplin, chosen as the site of London's third airport, are due for completion in 1980.

The government has not, however, abandoned the Maplin project.

Ministers remain convinced that it will be necessary, even if it has to be postponed.

In delaying Maplin in favor of the Channel tunnel, abbreviated to 'Chunnel', the government will be embarking on the cheaper project first.

Although estimated capital costs are about the same — between $2,064 million and $2,193 million — the French will have to find half the money for the tunnel, whereas the British would have to find all the money for Maplin.

Most of the $1,096 million or so of British money which the tunnel will require will be privately subscribed, but the investment will be guaranteed by the government.

And the guarantee would have to be raised on the same money markets as the government itself normally depends on for cash.

EGG PRICE HIKED

The B.C. Egg Marketing Board has increased the price of eggs paid producers for the third time in less than four months.

Ed Morgan, secretary-manager of the board, attributed the increase to higher costs of feed and production.

Producers now will receive 61 cents a dozen for Grade A large eggs, 58 cents for medium and 42 cents for small.

Gauvin Stays On To Probe

Times News Services

SAIGON—Canada's Michel Gauvin, scheduled to leave the truce commission today, instead called on the Viet Cong delegation at Tan Son Nhut air base to request assistance in tracking down the two missing Canadian officers.

Gauvin, head of the Canadian delegation to the truce commission, was bound for Ottawa to report on Canada's role in the International Commission of Control and Supervision, before returning to his old post as ambassador to Greece.

He was accompanied by Hungarian Ambassador Ferenc Esztergalyos at the meeting with Maj.-Gen Hoang Anh Tuan, chief Viet Cong delegate in Saigon.

A Viet Cong statement issued shortly afterwards pointed out that the missing Canadians, Capts. Ian Patten of Toronto and Fletcher Thomson of Ottawa, were not on any mission entrusted to them by the ICCS.

The Viet Cong stopped short of acknowledging that the two Canadian officers, missing since last Thursday northeast of Saigon, were being detained by Viet Cong troops.

But Canadian and South Vietnamese authorities have insisted that the two officers are being detained by Viet Cong troops near Xuan Loc, 45 miles northeast of Saigon.

No Sign Of Drugs

The search of the suspected drug - smuggling ship the Marysville finished at 11:30 this morning and "we have drawn a blank," RCMP Supt. Jim Nelson said.

"We still have confidence that a sizeable cache is to be found in the Quatsino area and with a little bit of luck and much hard work we think we'll find it," Nelson said.

A squad of 30 men is raking the rugged coastline at Quatsino Sound near Winter Harbor "hoping something will come up.

"We know there is a large cache of drugs somewhere, but it's rugged, tough country up there and the search will take some time," Nelson said.

Navy experts familiar with the design of the 1944 model 640-ton all-steel vessel, moored at Esquimalt, have checked for false bulkheads or unusual modifications.

RCMP mechanics made a thorough search of the vessel's big engine rooms which house two 2,400 bhp engines.

Navy frogmen went beneath the ship to check the 184-foot hull for false compartments, checking against a diagram of the vessel's structure found on board.

There was no sign of the $1 million stash, believed to be as bulky as about three bales of hay.

What officers did find was evidence of the lifestyle of the vessel's seven-man and six-woman crew, which in navy days before the ship was sold as surplus numbered 107 hands.

Where speakers had barked metallic orders from the bridge, stereophonic music systems had been wired up.

A solitary game of monopoly lay in the spacious canteen, and the galley equipped for bulk food was strewn with TV dinners.

U.S. Dollar Nose-Dives Lower Still

Times News Services

The U.S. dollar nose-dived to a record low in Germany today at 2.3540 marks.

Trading was "extremely hectic," one banker said.

In Zurich the dollar opened at an all-time low of 2.7875 Swiss francs. It closed Tuesday at 2.8275 francs.

New lows for the U.S. currency were also posted in Amsterdam, Brussels, Stockholm and Copenhagen.

"It's difficult to tell what will happen to the dollar now," said one dealer in Paris.

"I think it depends upon the (German) mark. If the mark continues to go up, the dollar will continue to go down."

In Austria the dollar plunged again in value today to a new low of 17.17 schillings to the dollar compared with the previous bottom rate of 17.65 recorded on Tuesday.

Stock markets around the world were generally depressed today. All U.S. markets were closed because of the Indepencence Day holiday.

The price of gold rose, as it usually does when the dollar is under pressure.

The metal was up $1.38 in Zurich at $123 an ounce and up $1.75 in London at $124.

New U.S. restrictions on exports of scrap metal and soybeans appeared to be having a negative effect.

Market sources also believe the value of the dollar is being depressed by the so-called Eurodollar overhang, now totalling about $80 billion.

This is money that companies and individuals have deposited in Europe and switched from currency to currency as the tide of the market has shifted.

Dealers see no possibility of this fund moving back into dollars for deposit in the United States.

"It's almost impossible to sell any dollars," said one banker in Frankfurt.

"Conditions are very nervous," a London dealer for Swiss Bank added of the general atmosphere in European money markets.

Dealers in Scandinavia reported heavy dollar selling in early trading. The dollar sank to 3.95 kronor in Stockholm and to 5.57 Danish kroner in Copenhagen.

"Dollar holders are moving away from the dollar," said a dealer at Skandinaviska Enskilda Banken, the biggest foreign exchange bank in Scandinavia. "The market is extremely unstable, but the volume of trade is big."

Bankers in Paris said there was practically no trading there.

The dollar dropped more than three pfennigs on the Frankfurt market, opening at a record low of 2.3580 marks and then falling within 40 minutes to 2.3475. It had closed Tuesday at 2.3850.

The U.S. currency lost almost three per cent of its value overnight in Zurich, dropping to 2.79 Swiss francs.

The rate dropped six centimes in Paris to 4.0425 commercial French francs, but there was no business.

The pound rose only fractionally in London, however, to $2.5820; it closed at $2.5797 Tuesday.

MORTGAGE RATES UP

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto-Dominion Bank began charging 9.75 per cent on both National Housing Act and conventional mortgages Tuesday as the cost of housing mortgages from chartered banks appeared heading another notch higher.

Spokesmen for the other four major banks — Royal Bank, Bank of Nova Scotia, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and Bank of Montreal — said their rates are still at the 9.5 per cent level established at the end of May.

A move to 9.75 per cent will be the third increase since early April when increase to 9.25 per cent occurred.

Ottawa Warns On Gas Export

Federal Energy Minister Donald Macdonald today warned the provincial government that if B.C. attempts to interfere with contracts for export of natural gas, it will be offending federal jurisdiction and should be prepared for a court battle.

Macdonald, in Victoria to discuss the federal government's recently-announced national energy policy with several B.C. officials, referred to hearings under way in Vancouver held by the B.C. Energy Commission.

The commission which was established during the last legislative session, is investigating all aspects of the B.C. natural gas industry and, specifically, a recent contract between Westcoast Transmission Limited and a U.S. customer calling for the export of large amounts of natural gas to that country.

Macdonald said the federal government has no objection to the B.C. Energy Commission studying and advising the provincial government on the details of the Westcoast deal.

But, he said, "if the board in due course attempted to deal with export contracts, we would see a conflict with the jurisdiction of the National Energy Board."

"If they would attempt to in any way interfere with the Westcoast contract itself, we would say that offends the federal jurisdiction," Macdonald said. "We would be prepared to fight it in court but we think our jurisdiction is clear here."

Haldeman Aides Set to Tell All

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — Two former White House officials are reported ready to plead guilty in the Watergate cover-up and implicate H. R. Haldeman, the resigned White House chief of staff.

Gordon Strachan and Herbert Porter, both Haldeman proteges, have agreed to cooperate with the special Watergate prosecutor, Archibald Cox, according to the New York Daily News.

Porter will plead guilty to obstructing justice in connection with committing perjury before Watergate investigators, the paper claims.

Strachan's planned plea was not reported.

Strachan sent word through his lawyers June 14 that once he received limited immunity from the Senate Watergate committee he would be willing to testify that Haldeman knew of the Watergate cover-up "from the beginning," the paper adds.

Strachan, who reported to Haldeman at the White House, has been granted the limited form of immunity that prevents prosecution on grounds of his own testimony.

Meanwhile, in San Clemente, Calif., the Western White House blamed a climate of suspicion generated by the Watergate affair for controversy over the property tax bill on President Nixon's estate there.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler's comments came in response to a report in a Santa Ana, Calif., newspaper that the president's property tax bill was at least $25,000, and perhaps as much as $55,000, too low over the past three years.

The property tax "is a matter totally up to the tax assessor. There is nothing for me to say. The tax assessor should assess," Ziegler said.

Ziegler also said Tuesday that Nixon is "appalled by the constant malicious efforts to suggest there was wrongdo-

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)— Hijackers forced an Argentine Airlines jet with 80 persons aboard to cross the Andes Mountain range today and land through a snowstorm in neighboring Chile. A spokesman for Argentine Airlines said the Boeing 707 was hijacked from Buenos Aires to Jujuy, 1,000 miles away.

Cherry Convoy To Defy Law

KELOWNA (CP) — A fruit growers association is organizing a fruit caravan to travel from here to Vancouver to challenge the legality of the B.C. Food Marketing Act.

The 40-vehicle convoy, expected to leave Oliver or Keremeos Saturday with 11 tons of cherries, is being organized by the United Fruit Growers (UFG).

"We aim to bring economic reality to the Okanagan," UFG president Hans Rhenisch said. His group is comprised of 125 growers who have broken away from the B.C. Fruit Growers Association (BCFGA).

"We want to return the cost of production to the producer," Rhenisch added. The only way to do this is to "circumvent wholesalers and retailers" dealing through the marketing arm of the BCFGA.

To get the UFG's point across, said Rhenisch, the caravan will be overloaded in direct contravention of the Food Marketing Act, which stipulates that each vehicle must not carry more than 400 pounds of produce.

He said participants are being advised to "overload" their vehicles by between 100 and 300 pounds. "We are prepared to go to court. We challenge the legislation as being unconstitutional and against the bill of rights."

MPs Wipe Out Work on Ridings

Times News Services

OTTAWA — Months of work by the B.C. Electoral Boundaries Commission proposing three more Commons seats for the province was all but wiped out Tuesday by Parliament.

By all-party agreement, the Commons gave formal first reading to a bill that would suspend the almost-completed work of adjusting electoral boundaries in accordance with the constitution and the 1971 population census.

Had the changes proposed in the recently-released B.C. report taken effect, the province would have gained three seats for a total of 26. However, the new bill which is expected to be passed this month, in effect repudiates the existing formula for redistribution of Commons representation every 10 years.

The proposed legislation gives MPs about 18 months to come up with a new formula and amendment of the constitutional British North America Act. Failing that, the current process of redistribution would go ahead as planned.

SHIPS GO BEGGING

Cutbacks in defence spending have left four of Canada's 23 destroyers in mothballs at a time when the navy has been given increased responsibility in coastal surveillance and guarding the country's maritime and fishing interests. Only last weekend, an Esquimalt-based naval vessel was used in apprehending 20 persons on two other vessels suspected of smuggling.

The idle destroyers, including the St. Croix tied up at Esquimalt, may have to be sold or scrapped, sparking repeated attacks on the federal government from opposition defence critics. See page 36.

FRENCH CALL BACK NUCLEAR TEST SHIPS

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — French navy ships that left Papeete harbor several weeks ago to participate in the nuclear test program have returned, and a local radio station speculated that the French government has postponed the test explosions until mid-July.

The station, known locally as Coconut Radio, said the ships will not sail again for the test site on Mururoa Atoll before Friday. Local observers said this would make the first explosion unlikely before the middle of July.

The radio station speculated that the tests were delayed by difficulties in preparing the test site and two tropical storms last month.

'FREE US FROM YOKE' PLEA TO QUEEN

Times News Services

The chief, president of the federation of Saskatchewan Indians, was scheduled to present the Queen with a peace pipe at a ceremony marking the centennial of the RCMP.

He said Indians continue to feel strongly loyal to the Crown.

"But we are saddened to say that over the years, some of your servants have not kept your part of the agreement.

"At times, attempts were made to devastate our treaties, to destroy them."

Chief Ahenakew said the threat to Indian treaties and "broken promises" bewilder, confuse and frighten Indians and cause many of their problems.

"We were once a mighty people, free of spirit, and independent.

"It is our dream that once again we will be free and on equal grounds with our white neighbors. But we must be allowed to develop in our own way so that we can be contributing citizens of this great land.

"Your servants must learn this, and understand this," he said, referring to the government.

All went as planned, but the chief found himself without a microphone and his words could not be heard.

This caused a certain amount of consternation for officials who helped stage the event. But an RCMP corporal standing in the crowd was overheard to say "now that was a master stroke."

Despite the absence of a microphone, both the Queen and RCMP Commissioner W. L. Higgit heard the chief's plea and acknow-

CIA Less Popular

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Central Intelligence Agency has received fewer applications for employment since the Watergate scandal erupted, but the FBI and the Secret Service report applications on the upswing.

A spokesman for the CIA said there has been a slight "but clearly discernible" decline in the number of formal applications for employment received by that agency during the past few months.

He said, however, that it was too early to tell whether it reflected any disenchantment on the part of young people with government intelligence operations because of the Waterate case of simply reflected changing employment conditions in some parts of the country.

Both the CIA and the FBI have come under criticism during the Watergate investigation, particularly the latter for failing to investigate thoroughly enough the subsequent events after the break-in and bugging of the Democratic National Committee June 17, 1972. The FBI also has suffered an internal upheaval since the death of its only director, J. Edgar Hoover, in 1972 and the resulting effort to find an acceptable replacement.

A spokesman for the secret service said "there is no reason to think the Watergate has hurt our enrollment." He said turnover among the agents hired to guard the president and other top federal officials is minimal.

Skylab Data On Sun

HOUSTON (UPI) — Scientists now have their first good information on the form of the sun's magnetic field, represented by butterfly-shaped white streaks on an electronically reproduced photograph beamed back from Skylab.

That photograph and another, showing streams of charged particles flowing rainbow-like across the face of the sun, wee released by NASA Tuesday.

Scientists believed the sun — like the earth — had a magnetic field, but had no information on its form. The ultraviolet radiation telescope on Skylab pictured the electrically charged magnesium particles flowing in the field. The particles are 60,000 miles above the sun's surface and are heated to 2.7 million degrees fahrenheit by the intense energy released by the star.

Earthbound telescopes cannot view the ultraviolet radiation because of the dense atmosphere and unmanned satellites have never carried as powerful an instrument as the ultraviolet spectroheliometer on Skylab.

The photo showing the iron particles flowing 25,000 miles into space and back into the surface should help scientists unravel more of the mysteries of how the sun's energy is released. Researchers said the iron particles are 3.6 million degrees fahrenheit.

Both photos were produced near the end of the first Skylab flight of Charles (Pete) Conrad, Joseph Kerwin and Paul Weitz in June. The Skylab 2 crew of Alan Bean, Owne Garriott and Jack Lousma will collect more data for solar physicists on their 56-day mission starting July 28.

Ground controllers can operate the spectroheliometer, one of several telescopes in the space station's giant solar observatory, by radio command even without astronauts aboard. The data is beamed to earth on radio waves to produce a computer picture.

Cuba Prisons Progressive

By CLAUDE REGIN

HAVANA (Reuter) —Prisoners in Cuba build houses and schools and are allowed home at weekends under a rehabilitation scheme which the government believes is one of the most progressive in the world.

Some prisoners, too, are given time and opportunity to be together with their wives or girl-friends in special "conjugal homes" inside the prisons.

Rehabilitation has played a major part in Cuba's penal systems since 1964, improving further after Maj. Sergio del Valle became interior minister in 1969.

There have been no further reports of hunger strikes such as one that took place at La Cabaña fortress four years ago when about 80 political prisoners were said to have refused food for 41 days .

The grim, grey-walled 17th century Spanish fortress, which overlooks Havana harbor, holds mostly prisoners who refuse to join rehabilitation schemes on political grounds. They are usually serving long sentences for anti-Castro activities in the early 1960s.

They do not work and have little chance of having their sentences shortened. But, according to interior ministry sources and other observers, they are a minority. Most Cuban prisoners, including political ones, join rehabilitation schemes voluntarily.

Interior ministry officials say the aim is not to punish criminals but to re-educate, rehabilitate and re-integrate into society as many as possible. Figures for the number of prisoners in Cuban jails are not available.

Prisoners who show a "positive" attitude towards work and rehabilitation are taught a trade which they start using before their sentences expire.

Great emphasis is put on work in this country which suffers from a chronic shortage of manpower. Each prisoner is considered as a potential worker whose labor is useful to himself as well as society.

Cuban penitentiaries now are built in developing areas of the countryside so that the prisoners can be near their place of work. They usually build schools, apartment blocks and dairies in rural areas.

Some take part in agricultural labor, such as the sugar harvest. Others build new penitentiaries.

Cuban prisoners start their sentences in a maximum security prison, from where they are later transferred to a medium security establishment, and then to a minimum security compound, depending on their conduct.

In the maximum security prison they learn a trade which they ply for a normal salary once they reach the minimum security stage. By then most prisoners are allowed provisional freedom and many settle down in the same area, sticking to the same job.

Prisoners whose attitude is "positive" are entitled to monthly leaves so that "family life is not brusquely interupted," as penal authorities put it. Some penitentiaries have built-in conjugal homes where inmates can spend several hours or several days a month with their wives or girl-friends.

Interior ministry officials feel that this innovation is one of the most important because it prevents cases of sexual perversions developed by many prisoners in conventional jails.

Artificial Liver Claimed

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — A 28-year-old physician-scientist has developed the world's first artificial liver by harnessing the capabilities of living liver cells.

Dr. Kenneth Matsumura of the Private Immunity Research Laboratory said development of an artificial liver had long been believed a near impossibility because, unlike the kidney and the heart, the liver has a variety of complex functions.

Liver failure is one of the most common causes of death. An estimated six to eight million Americans suffer from varying stages of progressive liver failure.

The liver not only detoxifies poisons and filters body waste products, but also synthesizes blood clotting proteins and plays a vital role in the metabolism of fats and sugars.

Matsumura said his book-size invention, called an hepatic support device, is designed to be used outside the body, like an artificial kidney, processing blood from a patient and returning the threated blood.

Matsumura said he has put in nearly 10 years on research for the device. He has been granted a patent on it, clearing the way for clinical trials, he said.

He said all the technologies necessary to make the invention practical have been perfected and a small-scale production of the device was underway to supply researchers.

Matsumura, a graduate of the University of California medical centre in San Francisco, started conducting medical research at the age of 14 and published his first professional paper at 19.

THE SUN FAR OUT THURSDAY

CHICAGO (AP) — Like it or not, you're going to go to aphelion Thursday.

There's no avoiding it, since aphelion is that point of the earth's orbit which is farthest from the sun and that's where this planet is going to be July 5.

That will put earth 94,513 million miles from the sun, more than three million miles farther away than on Jan. 2, the date earth reached its perihelion — the point on its eliptical orbit closest to the sun.

The changing distance, as tronomers at Adler Planetarium said, prevents summers in the Northern Hemisphere from being even hotter than they are, and makes winters a bit colder in the Southern Hemisphere.

EGG PRICE HIKED

The B.C. Egg Marketing Board has increased the price of eggs paid producers for the third time in less than four months.

Ed Morgan, secretary-manager of the board, attributed the increase to higher costs of feed and production.

Producers now will receive 61 cents a dozen for Grade A large eggs, 58 cents for medium and 42 cents for small.

U.S. Dollar Nose-Dives Lower Still

Times News Services

The U.S. dollar nose-dived to a record low in Germany today at 2.3540 marks.

Trading was "extremely hectic," one banker said.

In Zurich the dollar opened at an all-time low of 2.7875 Swiss francs. It closed Tuesday at 2.8275 francs.

New lows for the U.S. currency were also posted in Amsterdam, Brussels, Stockholm and Copenhagen.

"It's difficult to tell what will happen to the dollar now," said one dealer in Paris.

"I think it depends upon the (German) mark. If the mark continues to go up, the dollar will continue to go down."

In Austria the dollar plunged again in value today to a new low of 17.17 schillings to the dollar compared with the previous bottom rate of 17.65 recorded on Tuesday.

Stock markets around the world were generally depressed today. All U.S. markets were closed because of the Indepencence Day holiday.

The price of gold rose, as it usually does when the dollar is under pressure.

The metal was up $1.38 in Zurich at $123 an ounce and up $1.75 in London at $124.

New U.S. restrictions on exports of scrap metal and soybeans appeared to be having a negative effect.

Market sources also believe the value of the dollar is being depressed by the so-called Eurodollar overhang, now totalling about $80 billion.

This is money that companies and individuals have deposited in Europe and switched from currency to currency as the tide of the market has shifted.

Dealers see no possibility of this fund moving back into dollars for deposit in the United States.

"It's almost impossible to sell any dollars," said one banker in Frankfurt.

"Conditions are very nervous," a London dealer for Swiss Bank added of the geneal atmosphere in European money markets.

Dealers in Scandinavia reported heavy dollar selling in early trading. The dollar sank to 3.95 kronor in Stockholm and to 5.57 Danish kroner in Copenhagen.

"Dollar holders are moving away from the dollar," said a dealer at Skandinaviska Enskilda Banken, the biggest foreign exchange bank in Scandinavia. "The market is extremely unstable, but the volume of trade is big."

Bankers in Paris said there was practically no trading there.

The dollar dropped more than three pfennigs on the Frankfurt market, opening at a record low of 2.3580 marks and then falling within 40 minutes to 2.3475. It had closed Tuesday at 2.3850.

The U.S. currency lost almost three per cent of its value overnight in Zurich, dropping to 2.79 Swiss francs.

The rate dropped six centimes in Paris to 4.0425 commercial French francs, but there was no business.

The pound rose only fractionally in London, however, to $2.5820; it closed at $2.5797 Tuesday.

MORTGAGE RATES UP

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto-Dominion Bank began charging 9.75 per cent on both National Housing Act and conventional mortgages Tuesday as the cost of housing mortgages from chartered banks appeared heading another notch higher.

Spokesmen for the other four major banks — Royal Bank, Bank of Nova Scotia, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and Bank of Montreal — said their rates are still at the 9.5 per cent level established at the end of May.

A move to 9.75 per cent will be the third increase since early April when increase to 9.25 per cent occurred.

Gauvin Stays On To Probe

Times News Services

SAIGON—Canada's Michel Gauvin, scheduled to leave the truce commission today, instead called on the Viet Cong delegation at Tan Son Nhut air base to request assistance in tracking down the two missing Canadian officers.

Gauvin, head of the Canadian delegation to the truce commission, was bound for Ottawa to report on Canada's role in the International Commission of Control and Supervision, before returning to his old post as ambassador to Greece.

He was accompanied by Hungarian Ambassador Ferenc Esztergalyos at the meeting with Maj.-Gen Hoang Anh Tuan, chief Viet Cong delegate in Saigon.

A Viet Cong statement issued shortly afterwards pointed out that the missing Canadians, Capts. Ian Patten of Toronto and Fletcher Thomson of Ottawa, were not on any mission entrusted to them by the ICCS.

The Viet Cong stopped short of acknowledging that the two Canadian officers, missing since last Thursday northeast of Saigon, were being detained by Viet Cong troops.

But Canadian and South Vietnamese authorities have insisted that the two officers are being detained by Viet Cong troops near Xuan Loc, 45 miles northeast of Saigon.

No Sign Of Drugs

The search of the suspected drug - smuggling ship the Marysville finished at 11:30 this morning and "we have drawn a blank," RCMP Supt. Jim Nelson said.

"We still have confidence that a sizeable cache is to be found in the Quatsino area and with a little bit of luck and much hard work we think we'll find it," Nelson said.

A squad of 30 men is raking the rugged coastline at Quatsino Sound near Winter Harbor "hoping something will come up.

"We know there is a large cache of drugs somewhere, but it's rugged, tough country up there and the search will take some time," Nelson said.

Navy experts familiar with the design of the 1944 model 640-ton all-steel vessel, moored at Esquimalt, have checked for false bulkheads or unusual modifications.

RCMP mechanics made a thorough search of the vessel's big engine rooms which house two 2,400 bhp engines.

Navy frogmen went beneath the ship to check the 184-foot hull for false compartments, checking against a diagram of the vessel's structure found on board.

There was no sign of the $1 million stash, believed to be as bulky as about three bales of hay.

What officers did find was evidence of the lifestyle of the vessel's seven-man and six-woman crew, which in navy days before the ship was sold as surplus numbered 107 hands.

Where speakers had barked metallic orders from the bridge, stereophonic music systems had been wired up.

A solitary game of monopoly lay in the spacious canteen, and the galley equipped for bulk food was strewn with TV dinners.

Ottawa Warns On Gas Export

Federal Energy Minister Donald Macdonald today warned the provincial government that if B.C. attempts to interfere with contracts for export of natural gas, it will be offending federal jurisdiction and should be prepared for a court battle.

Macdonald, in Victoria to discuss the federal government's recently-announced national energy policy with several B.C. officials, referred to hearings under way in Vancouver held by the B.C. Energy Commission.

The commissionn which was established during the last legislative session, is investigating all aspects of the B.C. natural gas industry and, specifically, a recent contract between Westcoast Transmission Limited and a U.S. customer calling for the export of large amounts of natural gas to that country.

Macdonald said the federal government has no objection to the B.C. Energy Commission studying and advising the provincial government on the details of the Westcoast deal.

But, he said, "if the board in due course attempted to deal with export contracts, we would see a conflict with the jurisdiction of the National Energy Board."

"If they would attempt to in any way interfere with the Westcoast contract itself, we would say that offends the federal jurisdiction," Macdonald said. "We would be prepared to fight it in court but we think our jurisdiction is clear here."

Haldeman Aides Set to Tell All

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — Two former White House officials are reported ready to plead guilty in the Watergate cover-up and implicate H. R. Haldeman, the resigned White House chief of staff.

Gordon Strachan and Herbert Porter, both Haldeman proteges, have agreed to cooperate with the special Watergate prosecutor, Archibald Cox, according to the New York Daily News.

Strachan's planned plea was not reported.

Strachan sent word through his lawyers June 14 that once he received limited immunity from the Senate Watergate committee he would be willing to testify that Haldeman knew of the Watergate cover-up "from the beginning," the paper adds.

Strachan, who reported to Haldeman at the White House, has been granted the limited form of immunity that prevents prosecution on grounds of his own testimony.

Meanwhile, in San Clemente, Calif., the Western White House blamed a climate of suspicion generated by the Watergate affair for controversy over the property tax bill on President Nixon's estate there.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler's comments came in response to a report in a Santa Ana, Calif., newspaper that the president's property tax bill was at least $25,000, and perhaps as much as $55,000, too low over the past three years.

The property tax "is a matter totally up to the tax assessor. There is nothing for me to say. The tax assessor should assess," Ziegler said.

Ziegler also said Tuesday that Nixon is "appalled by the constant malicious efforts to suggest there was wrongdo

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — A 100-ton test ship moving at 89 miles an hour has broken the world's speed record for large, waterborne vessels, Aerojet Co. officials say. Spokesmen said the four-engine, waterjet-propelled craft turned in the 76-knot performance Monday in a regular test run in East Passage near here.

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)— Hijackers forced an Argentine Airlines jet with 80 persons aboard to cross the Andes Mountain range today and land through a snowstorm in neighboring Chile. A spokesman for Argentine Airlines said the Boeing 707 was hijacked from Buenos Aires to Jujuy, 1,000 miles away.

Cherry Convoy To Defy Law

KELOWNA (CP) — A fruit growers association is organizing a fruit caravan to travel from here to Vancouver to challenge the legality of the B.C. Food Marketing Act.

The 40-vehicle convoy, expected to leave Oliver or Keremeos Saturday with 11 tons of cherries, is being organized by the United Fruit Growers (UFG).

"We aim to bring economic reality to the Okanagan," UFG president Hans Rhenisch said. His group is comprised of 125 growers who have broken away from the B.C. Fruit Growers Association (BCFGA).

"We want to return the cost of production to the producer," Rhenisch added. The only way to do this is to "circumvent wholesalers and retailers" dealing through the marketing arm of the BCFGA.

To get the UFG's point across, said Rhenisch, the caravan will be overloaded in direct contravention of the Food Marketing Act, which stipulates that each vehicle must not carry more than 400 pounds of produce.

He said participants are being advised to "overload" their vehicles by between 100 and 300 pounds. "We are prepared to go to court. We challenge the legislation as being unconstitutional and against the bill of rights."

MPs Wipe Out Work on Ridings

Times News Services

OTTAWA — Months of work by the B.C. Electoral Boundaries Commission proposing three more Commons seats for the province was all but wiped out Tuesday by Parliament.

By all-party agreement, the Commons gave formal first reading to a bill that would suspend the almost-completed work of adjusting electoral boundaries in accordance with the constitution and the 1971 population census.

Had the changes proposed in the recently-released B.C. report taken effect, the province would have gained three seats for a total of 26. However, the new bill which is expected to be passed this month, in effect repudiates the existing formula for redistribution of Commons representation every 10 years.

The proposed legislation gives MPs about 18 months to come up with a new formula and amendment of the constitutional British North America Act. Failing that, the current process of redistribution would go ahead as planned.

SHIPS GO BEGGING

Cutbacks in defence spending have left four of Canada's 23 destroyers in mothballs at a time when the navy has been given increased responsibility in coastal surveillance and guarding the country's maritime and fishing interests. Only last weekend, an Esquimalt-based naval vessel was used in apprehending 20 persons on two other vessels suspected of smuggling.

The idle destroyers, including the St. Croix tied up at Esquimalt, may have to be sold or scrapped, sparking repeated attacks on the federal government from opposition defence critics. See page 36.

FRENCH CALL BACK NUCLEAR TEST SHIPS

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — French navy ships that left Papeete harbor several weeks ago to participate in the nuclear test program have returned, and a local radio station speculated that the French government has postponed the test explosions until mid-July.

The station, known locally as Coconut Radio, said the ships will not sail again for the test site on Mururoa Atoll before Friday. Local observers said this would make the first explosion unlikely before the middle of July.

The radio station speculated that the tests were delayed by difficulties in preparing the test site and two tropical storms last month.

'FREE US FROM YOKE' PLEA TO QUEEN

Chief Ahenakew said the threat to Indian treaties and "broken promises" bewilder, confuse and frighten Indians and cause many of their problems.
